LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, March 25, 1949

Hon. Goodwin J. Knight, President of the Senate

*Hon. Sam L. Collins, Speaker of the Assembly
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

HONORABLE SIRs: The Joint Interim Committee on Legislative Constitutional Revision, created by Resolutions Chapter 197, 1947 General Session and continued by Resolution Chapter 51, 1949 General Session, herewith files a report of its investigations, studies, and recommendations.

As the report shows, your committee received the unselfish and invaluable assistance and cooperation of literally hundreds of public spirited citizens who gave generously of their time and efforts, and the capable services of Norris J. Burke, General Counsel for the committee and his staff.

It is a matter of personal regret to the present chairman and the members of the committee, that the Hon. Alfred W. Robertson chose to terminate his legislative career before this report is rendered, and that another must sign as chairman in his place. It is but fitting to state that the unflagging enthusiasm and the genius for organization of such a tremendous project displayed by the Honorable Alfred W. Robertson have made the labors of this committee fruitful and have been invaluable to this State.

Respectfully submitted,

RICHARD J. DOLWIG, Chairman

REPORT OF THE JOINT INTERIM COMMITTEE ON LEGISLATIVE CONSTITUTIONAL REVISION

The Legislative Constitutional Revision Committee herewith files its final report.¹

I. The Organization

At the initial meeting of this committee at Sacramento on June 24, 1947, Assemblyman Alfred W. Robertson was elected chairman, and Senator George J. Hatfield was elected vice chairman. The chairman was delegated general authority to organize, supervise, and arrange for, the carrying out of the undertaking, work, and functions, of this committee as provided in the resolution.

In August 1947, the chairman and vice chairman, assisted by Hon. Fred B. Wood, Legislative Counsel, established a headquarters for this committee in the county courthouse in Santa Barbara; and appointed Dr. Norris J. Burke as General Counsel and Coordinator. At the same time, and immediately following, steps were taken to collect a bibliography and the literature in the field; to inform the public of the project and invite its participation; to appoint an "advisory" committee as provided in the resolution; to establish subcommittees to consider revision of specific subject matter committed to their jurisdictions; and to arrange for a general and public "opening" meeting, with a panel of prominent speakers, followed by a first meeting of each subcommittee.

As a major portion of the organizational work, a large Advisory Committee was selected and appointed. Every known specialist, authority, and expert, in the field of constitutional revision residing in this State was asked to serve, including the presidents of our leading universities, the deans, and prominent faculty members, of our outstanding law schools and departments of political science, and other recognized specialists and leaders in the field including participants in past projects, in particular several ex-Governors and the surviving members of the 1929 Constitutional Revision Commission. Practically all of these persons agreed to serve.¹

Next, a large number of prominent public officers were also appointed. These included judges as well as executive officers, and officials of counties, and of cities, as well as heads of state departments and other state officers, especially those directly affected by the present Constitution.

In addition, and larger in numbers, every association, organization, and group, in this State of any substantial size or prominence, and known normally to participate through a representative in legislative or civic affairs, was requested to select a representative for appointment to the ¹ The principal records of this committee, including the membership of its Advisory Committee and of each subcommittee, the program of all general meetings of the interim and its Advisory Committee, the minutes of each meeting of every committee, and subcommittee, the rules of this committee, the guide for subcommittees, the revision drafts of the general counsel, including the final coordinated draft (Proposal 3) and the separate draft for each subcommittee, the several speeches of the general counsel, copies of "model" constitution, etc., have been contemporaneously filed with the Secretary of State.

Advisory Committee. Practically all of those requested responded. Thus, all labor, industry, trade, vocational, and professional associations secured representation, together with like representation from what might be termed "cross section" associations, such as auto clubs, state and other public employee associations, taxpayers' groups, church groups, fraternal groups, local government associations and women's organizations.

Suffice it here to say that the Interim Committee knows of no more able, outstanding, balanced representative, or better Advisory Committee obtainable in any way or manner, whether the criterion be a balance between recognized expert authorities and persons of experience, or between adherents of "right," "left," and "center," or of one faith, philosophy, psychology, point of view, interest, or party, against another or others.

(B)

The subject matter of our present Constitution was segregated and divided into 10 topics; and a like number of subcommittees was established to consider a revision of the same. To this end, the general counsel prepared a "Guide for Subcommittees," allocating the present provisions among them; and the chairman requested each advisory committeeman to indicate which subcommittee or subcommittees he desired to serve upon, according to his special qualifications, interests, or wishes.

The chairman of the Interim Committee decided that each of the 10 subcommittees should be headed by a chairman and vice chairman selected from the Interim Committee. Further, one, and in a few cases two, "advisers" were appointed for each subcommittee from the "expert," generally the university faculty, group, in order to encourage and assure their fullest participation and an adequate presentation of their views as a result of their years of study and research in the field.

At the time of the "opening" meeting, (October 13, 1947), all 10 subcommittees had been established in the manner indicated. Each subcommittee had between forty and eighty members throughout its life. To those interested, the final membership of each subcommittee is set forth in the list on file.

(C)

Under the rules of this committee, every meeting of the Interim Committee, of its Advisory Committee, and of each of its subcommittees, was open to all interested persons. In other words, every member of the public, not only committeemen, was asked to participate; and anyone could, and a very few did, speak at any meeting upon recognition of the chair. Further, this committee appointed a part-time Director of Public Relations, Mr. James F. Dorrance, to publicize the project, and the works, plans, programs, and happenings, relative thereto, and especially publicly to announce in advance, through the press and otherwise, the time and place of all meetings of this committee, its Advisory Committee, and of each of its subcommittees. Such publicity was given to the fullest extent possible.

The "opening" meeting of the Interim Committee and of its entire Advisory Committee at Santa Barbara on October 13-14, 1947, was widely announced in the public press and otherwise; and its proceedings were widely reported. Practically all of the Interim Committee and Advisory Committee attended; and fully one thousand other interested persons, many from without the city.

The first evening session was devoted to an address prepared by Governor Earl Warren and to a keynote speech by Hon. Justin Miller, President of the National Association of Broadcasters, and other topics. The succeeding day session was devoted to speeches by two ex-Governors, Chief Justice Gibson of the Supreme Court, the Legislative Counsel, and the head of the political science department of the University of Southern California, followed by an organization meeting of each subcommittee. Each advisory committeeman was furnished with a copy of the guide to subcommittees, of the existing State Constitution, and of the report of the 1929 California Constitutional Revision Commission.

II. The Subcommittee Meetings

Each subcommittee met at least once. Several meetings lasted one day and two ran into a second day. To illustrate the workings of the subcommittees, we cite the following examples:

(1) The Subcommittee on the Executive Department met first. The General Counsel presented two revision drafts: a short form one eliminating the present executive officers other than the Governor and the Lieutenant Governor, and a longer one not making such elimination. Most of those present were long experienced in our State Government and upon a section-by-section review proceeded to revise the long form draft. The drafts before this subcommittee underwent considerable change as the General Counsel proceeded to develop and complete his model coordinating and harmonizing all parts to such an extent that this subcommittee cannot be said to have considered or approved said model as to its subject matter.

(2) The Subcommittee on Waters, Harbors and Tidelands met to consider the state boundaries and the sections on public lands, tidelands, fishing and water resources. A topic-by-topic review for one day resulted in no recommendation of any change. Firm convictions appeared against any change in regard to: (a) the seaward boundary of the State, as bearing on the existing state-federal controversy over tidelands; and (b) the section on water resources.

(3) The Subcommittee on Education met in Sacramento. At this meeting, debate centered on two views: (a) major revision with deletion of most of the provisions on education as being statutory in nature subject to their continuance as statutes, and (b) a repeal of the obsolete. Many members felt that a compromise course was possible, and to this end, a smaller section was appointed. This section undertook to effect such a compromise. Their efforts failed to satisfy any of the contending views.

(4) The Subcommittee on the Legislative Department at its initial meeting on October 14, 1947, divided its membership into six sections. These were designed to study specific suggestions within the jurisdiction of the entire subcommittee. As a result of these subsection activities, the groups agreed to limit their work to repeal of the obsolete, and considerable time of one of the subsections was devoted to a review and approval of specific items considered obsolete in character. The principal exception to this procedure was approval of certain specific recommendations with respect to the initiative process.

Without burdening this report with further specific reference to subcommittee meetings, it is sufficient to say that the experience in each of the subcommittees was practically identical. The conclusion of each subcommittee investigating the subject matter presented to it was that its recommendation to the main committee should be to limit the report to the Legislature in the main to a repeal of those provisions of the Constitution which were agreed to be obsolete.

III. Final General Meeting

The Legislative Interim Committee and members of its Advisory Committee met in a final general meeting in Santa Barbara on November 18 and 19, 1948.

The chairman of each subcommittee, or in his absence the General Counsel, presented a final report of the work of each subcommittee.

During discussion of these recommendations, the Advisory Committee, after thorough discussion, adopted a motion that it recommend to the Legislative Interim Committee the policy of confining its activities to deleting obsolete material, with such exceptions as otherwise recommended. In support of this recommendation, the Advisory Committee cited its reasons as follows:

(1) No popular demand for change in the basic principles of the State Constitution.

(2) By the process of amendment, the present Constitution is a modern document.

(3) No generally acceptable reasons have been advanced for changing the substance of the Constitution.

(4) Seeking revision for brevity's sake is no valid argument.

(5) The present Constitution has been thoroughly adjudicated by the courts.

On November 19th, the Legislative Committee met having before it the above recommendation of the general Advisory Committee, as well as the report and recommendations of the individual subcommittees. As a result of its deliberations, the Legislative Interim Committee adopted and herewith submits the following recommendations:

(1) Local Governments—Article XI.

The obsolete matters to be deleted relative to this subject are set forth in Exhibit 1. Assembly Constitutional Amendment

No. 66 embodies the amendments therein set forth. All were approved by the Advisory Committee. The volume is rather large and material gain will be effected by these repeals, and we recommend this amendment for passage at this session.

(2) The Executive Department—Article V.

We recommend for passage at this session a repeal of those obsolete matters approved by our Advisory Committee and as set forth in Exhibit 2, largely because it deletes the misleading salaries specified in superseded Section 19. This recommendation is embodied in Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 67.

(3) Judicial Department—Article VI.

A repeal of obsolete matters as set forth in Exhibit 3 was approved by our Advisory Committee, and we recommend the same for passage at this session, largely because it deletes the misleading salaries specified in superseded Section 17. This is embodied in Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 73.

(4) Revenue and Taxation—Article XIII.

Our Advisory Committee approved the repeal of the obsolete matters in Article XIII as set forth in Exhibit 4. We recommend the same for passage at this session. This is embodied in Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 69.

(5) We recommend for passage at this session the consolidation of the two Sections 22 of Article IV, with a deletion of the obsolete matters in the first said section, all as shown in Exhibit 6 and as approved by our Advisory Committee, as there appears to be a material gain by so doing. This is embodied in Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 70.

(6) We recommend for passage at this session the repeal of the obsolete matters in Article XXII and of Article XX, Section 19, and a disposition of Article XX, Section 20, all relating to the 1879 Convention and Constitution and incidents germane thereto and all as shown in Exhibit 7 and as approved by our Advisory Committee, as there appears to be a material gain by so doing. This is embodied in Assembly Constitutional Amendments Nos. 71 and 73.

(7) Our Advisory Committee recommended for passage at this session a repeal of Article I, Section 26-a (Exhibit 9—Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 72), Article IV, Section 1-a, as added in 1933, (Exhibit 10, Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 68), and Article XIX, Section 2, (Exhibit 11), and an amendment of Article IV, Section 18, to delete the Surveyor General (Exhibit 12). In view of the expense and disadvantages of a wordy and lengthy ballot, since the normal course we may anticipate a dozen measures on the ballot in addition to what we recommend in this report, we would not seriously object to these matters being held over for action at some later session.

IV. Initiative

We believe and find that some tightening of the amendment process at this time, if not too drastic, would be salutary. Since all existing amendments have been submitted by both the initiative petition and the Legislature, and it requires a two-thirds vote of the Legislature to propose an amendment by the legislative process, we recommend that the number of signatures on an initiative petition proposing a constitutional amendment be increased from 8 percent to 12 percent of the total votes cast for all candidates for Governor at the last preceding general election.

V. Concerning Submission of Revision

Under the Constitution as it now stands, submission of an entire revised document to the people for their adoption or rejection is possible only by a constitutional convention. One of the principal things learned from this project is that a "revision" in any true sense can only be prepared, considered, dealt with and submitted as a whole. A general meeting of the full Interim and Advisory Committee was held on February 23, 1948, to consider a proposed amendment to present Article XVIII of the Constitution to provide that the Legislature by concurrent resolution approved by two-thirds of the members of each house might submit a constitution to the electors at a special election called for such purposes. This proposed amendment was defeated by a roll call vote of the Advisory Committee at this meeting, and accordingly was not considered further.

As a part of our study, we had before us the report of the California Constitution Commission made on December 29, 1930. We found the study of this commission of great value. The following quoted portion of the report is one with which we are in complete agreement:

"So far as the substance of the Constitution is concerned, we find it to be a logical record of the struggle of the people to preserve their rights. We find in it adequate provisions preserving the natural rights of the people to protection in their persons and property. We find in it a general frame of government under which the State has prospered and been efficiently governed. We find that it embodies the principle of home rule in local and municipal affairs, for which the people have so long struggled. We find in it provisions by which the people have reserved to themselves powers by which they are enabled to control legislation, and by which the people have insisted that they themselves should establish the principles upon which they are to be taxed."

In view of the finding of that commission and our present findings, we recommend that the Legislature take no action looking toward the calling of a constitutional convention inasmuch as we are convinced that such action is unwarranted and unnecessary.

However, in order that the results of research in connection with preparation of a proposed final draft of a "model" constitution as developed by the General Counsel may not be lost to any possible future considerations given this problem, our committee makes this short draft or "model" a part of this report.

"SEC. 2. Section 7 of said act is amended to read:

Sec. 7. For the purpose of determining who is entitled to vote, and the number of votes each voter is entitled to cast, the officer of said district then in charge of the next preceding equalized assessment roll of said district shall cause to be prepared, certified and furnished to the election board at each polling place a true and correct copy of said assessment roll.

Said certified assessment rolls shall be used by the election board in determining the number of votes each voter is entitled to cast.

Executors, administrators, special administrators and guardians may cast the vote of the estate represented by them. If the property is assessed in the name of such representatives, that fact shall establish the right of such representatives to vote; if assessed in the name of the decedent, minor or incompetent person, certified copies of the letters or such other evidence as may be satisfactory to the board must be produced by the voter.

The board shall likewise be entitled to inquire and take evidence for the purpose of identifying any person claiming the right to vote as being the person shown on the assessment roll or otherwise as entitled to vote. And unless satisfactory evidence is furnished of the right to vote, the request to vote may be denied.

Where land is assessed to unknown owners, the production of a duly recorded or other transfer or conveyance, accompanied by a certificate of a searcher of title certifying that a search of the official records of the county since the date of the deed discloses no conveyance or transfer out from the grantee or transferee named in said instrument, shall entitle said grantee or transferee to vote.

Where property appears to be owned in common or jointly, or where letters of representatives of decedents, minors or guardians are joint, any one of the owners or representatives may cast all the votes that such joint owners or representatives are entitled to vote for all, provided the party claiming the right to vote for all produces the written consent of his co-owners or representatives to do so, but if such consent is not produced, then the number of votes shall be apportioned to each owner or representative claiming the right to vote, according to the proportionate ownership or representation shown on the assessment roll, if such proportion is shown, but if not so shown, it shall be presumed that such ownership or right of representation is equal, and the voting right determined accordingly.

Where property is assessed in the name of a trustee or trustees, such trustee or trustees shall be deemed to be the person entitled to vote the same, and if assessed in the name of more than one trustee the voting right shall be determined in like manner as above provided with respect to co-owners.

The vote of any public or quasipublic corporation, private corporation or unincorporated association, may be cast by any person authorized by the board of directors or trustees or other managing body thereof, which authorization shall be in writing, [and a proxy executed by an officer or officers thereof,] attested by its seal and duly acknowledged, shall constitute sufficient evidence of such authority, and shall be filed with the board of election. Any member of any partnership firm may vote in behalf of such firm.

[All parties entitled to vote may have their votes cast by proxy, but no person shall vote by proxy unless authority to cast such vote shall be evidenced by an instrument in writing, duly acknowledged and certified in the same manner as grants of real property, and filed with the board of election.]

Any party entitled to vote who expects to be absent from the district or who is unable to vote therein on the day of the election by reason of physical disability or any other reason found by the board of election to exist and constitute good cause, shall be permitted to vote by absentee ballot. An application for an absentee ballot must be in writing and may be made to the board of election at any time after notice of the election has been published but not later than ten days prior to the date of the election. An absentee ballot, together with a return envelope, shall be delivered to each party entitled thereto, in person or by registered mail, not less than five days prior to the election.

The number of votes that the absentee voter is entitled to cast shall be clearly marked on his ballot.

On the date of the election, the board of election shall open all absentee ballots, examine them to determine that each ballot is properly completed and represents the proper number of votes that the voter is entitled to cast, and deposit it in the ballot box together with the other ballots.

No absentee ballot shall be accepted by the board of election which is not received by the board on or before the date of the election, properly completed and signed by the voter.

The owner of any real property or interest therein appearing upon the assessment roll, which has been assessed in the wrong name, or which has passed from the owner appearing as such on the last equalized assessment roll, since the same was made, shall be entitled to cast the votes represented thereby [either by the production of a proxy from such former owner or] by furnishing evidence of his ownership by examination upon oath by the election board, or a conveyance duly acknowledged showing the title vested in the person claiming the right to vote, or a certificate of a competent searcher of title may be accepted by the board, as evidence of the right to vote.

Where property has been contracted to be sold, the vendee shall be entitled to cast the ballots, unless such property is assessed in the name of the vendor, in which event the vendor shall be entitled to cast the vote or votes represented thereby.

All instruments evidencing or supporting a claim of a right to vote shall likewise be filed with the election board. And if at such election the proposal to create the district is approved, all such documents shall be turned over to the board of trustees of the district; otherwise, to the Board of Supervisors of Riverside County for preservation.

As each voter establishes his right to vote, and the number of votes to which he is entitled is determined, there shall be delivered to him as many ballots as he is entitled to votes, or one ballot representing such votes, as next herein provided. In order to simplify the voting and avoid the necessity of a voter having a large number of votes, stamping numerous ballots, one member of the board of election, in the presence of the voter and other members, shall write upon the ballot or ballots the number of votes represented by his ballot, and after the voter has voted it shall be the duty of the election board to examine all ballots cast and see that it is the same ballot delivered to the voter, and correctly represents the number of votes he is entitled to cast before the same is passed into the ballot box.

The polls shall be kept open from eight o'clock a.m. of the day of election until six o'clock p.m. of that day.

At the close of the polls the board of election shall at once proceed to canvass the votes and declare the result, and shall forward a certificate showing such result, and the number of votes cast for and against the proposal to organize the district under this act, and the number of votes cast for all candidates for membership on the board of trustees, and which certificate together with the ballots shall be forwarded to the Board of Supervisors of Riverside County. If a majority of all the votes cast are in favor of the creation and organization of this district, then this district shall be deemed to be and shall be created with all the rights, powers, and duties prescribed in this act, and the trustees shall proceed to organize and carry out the purposes of this act; but provided, however, that before the creation of the district becomes effective, the Board of Supervisors of Riverside County must make a certificate to the effect that the proposal to create the district was adopted, and cause the same to be filed with the Secretary of State of California, from which date the district shall be deemed created, and as soon as moneys are available to the district for that purpose, and at least within one year from the date of organization, the board of trustees shall reimburse the Counties of Riverside and Imperial for any moneys advanced or expense incurred in the performance of the duties imposed upon their respective boards of supervisors by this act, and recourse shall be had if necessary to the taxing power of the district for raising such funds; but if said indebtedness is not paid within one year from the date of the creation of this district, then the bondsmen shall be liable to the respective counties therefor.

Likewise, if the proposal to organize the district is defeated, the result shall be certified in the same manner as above set forth, and the respective counties reimbursed for expenses paid or incurred by the bondsmen on the bonds hereinbefore provided for.

If the district is created, certified copies of the order of the Board of Supervisors of Riverside County, or certificate declaring that fact, shall be recorded in the office of the County Recorder of Riverside County, and of the County Recorder of Imperial County, and shall impart notice to all interested persons as to the result of said election, and the creation of said district.

The order of the Board of Supervisors of Riverside County declaring the result of said election and certifying to the fact that the proposal to create the district was duly adopted (if it shall be adopted) shall be final and conclusive evidence that all steps necessary for the creation and organization of said district have been duly performed, and that said district has been duly created as such.

Provided, however, that the election for the organization of the district, whether the result be for or against, may be contested by any person owning property within the proposed district. The trustees elected at such election shall be made parties defendant, but any property owner in the district may intervene and be heard.

Such contest shall be brought in the Superior Court of the County of Riverside, and must be brought within twenty days from the time the vote is canvassed, and the result is declared. If more than one contest is filed, they may be consolidated and tried together. The court shall speedily try such contest and determine upon the hearing whether the election was fairly conducted, and in substantial compliance with the requirements of this act, and enter its judgment accordingly.

The right of appeal to the Supreme Court is hereby given to any party to the record within thirty days from the entry of judgment. The proceedings both as to the trial and appeal must conform substantially to the rules governing civil actions, and the appeal must be determined by the Supreme Court within sixty days from the time the record on appeal is filed therein.

If no contest is filed, or if as a result of any such contest so filed the adoption of the proposal to create and organize the district as certified by the board of supervisors be confirmed by the judgment; then said judgment and the certificate of the board of supervisors above set forth shall have the conclusive effect hereinbefore declared."

Amendment No. 7

On page 3 of said bill, between lines 25 and 26, insert

"4.5. The board of trustees shall not sell, convey or otherwise transfer any water rights of the district to any person, other district, firm, partnership, corporation or association without consent of the Legislature. No district organized under the laws of this State shall purchase or otherwise acquire any water right from the Palo Verde Irrigation District or any member thereof, without the consent of the Legislature."

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Senator Hatfield asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to have the following opinions of the Legislative Counsel regarding Senate Bill No. 24 and Assembly Bill No. 1153, 1947, regarding management of the State Capitol, printed in the Journal:

Opinion of Legislative Counsel

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, March 19, 1949

Hon. George J. Hatfield
Senate Chamber

Senate Bill No. 24, re State Capitol Building—No. 5097

DEAR SENATOR HATFIELD: You have asked us whether or not Senate Bill No. 24, if amended by the amendments prepared for you under Request No. 4726, would be constitutional.

The bill, as so amended, would provide that the building is intended primarily for the use of the legislative department and, except for so much as may be released as provided in the bill, shall be devoted exclusively to such use.

A joint committee, consisting of a committee from each house, is to allocate space in accordance with its determination of the needs of the legislative department. The joint committee may from time to time "release" space not needed for the use of the Legislature for use by the executive department for such period as the space is not needed for the Legislature. Maintenance and operation of the building is to continue under the control of the Department of Finance.

We believe such a bill would be constitutional.

The fundamental question is one of legislative power. Section 1 of Article IV of the California Constitution provides that: "The legislative power of this State shall be vested in a Senate and Assembly which shall be designated 'The Legislature of the State of California'."

This means that the legislative power is plenary, except as restricted by the Constitutions of the United States or this State. We can perceive no conceivable question under the Federal Constitution.

As to the California Constitution there is nothing that we know of that could be interpreted as removing from the Legislature its power to control state buildings. It is for the Legislature to say what buildings shall be erected and to what use they shall be put.

We can see no lack of legislative power to provide that the State Capitol Building should not be occupied by any state officer or agency but should be preserved as a historic monument, or simply stand empty.

If, therefore, the Legislature provided by law that the State Capitol Building is to be used exclusively for the purposes of the legislative department and that no officer or agency of the executive or judicial department should be housed therein no constitutional objection that we can think of could be raised.

Having turned over the entire building to the legislative department we can perceive no reason why the allocation of the space therein should not be made by the Legislature or a committee or officer designated for the purpose. It is surely neither an executive or judicial function of government to direct the manner in which space provided for the legislative branch of the government shall be utilized or apportioned.

The National Capitol Building and the House and Senate Office Buildings are under the control of Congress. The "Architect of the Capitol" has the care and superintendence of the Capitol Building (Sec. 163, Title 40, U.S.C.). He can make no change in the architectural or landscape features of the Capitol Buildings or Grounds except pursuant to plans approved by Congress (Sec. 162, Title 40, U.S.C.).

Presumably there is little change from time to time in the use of space in the National Capitol Building. After the Library of Congress moved out the space was allocated by statutes (31 Stat. 719, Sec. 190b, Title 40, U.S.C.). In 1946 the President pro Tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House were directed to cause a survey to be made as to space available for joint committee meetings, and other meetings requiring attendance of members of the two Houses and to make recommendations, presumably to Congress (Sec. 174d-1, Title 40, U.S.C.).

The House and Senate Office Buildings are more directly controlled by the respective houses. They are operated under the supervision of the architect of the Capitol. His control of the Senate Office Building is subject to the approval of the Senate Committee on Rules as to general policy (Sec. 174c, Title 40, U.S.C.) and that committee assigns space in the building (Sec. 177d, Title 40, U.S.C.).

The architect's supervision of the House Office Building is subject to the approval and direction of a "commission" consisting of the Speaker and two members appointed by him (Sec. 175, Title 40, U.S.C.). The assignment and reassignment of space in the building is subject to the control of the House by "rule, resolution, order, or otherwise." (Sec. 183, Title 40, U.S.C.). There is a formula for assigning rooms to members and unoccupied space is assigned by the architect under "direction" of the commission, subject to the control of the House (Secs. 177-184, inclusive, Title 40, U.S.C.).

So far as we can ascertain no one has ever questioned the validity of these methods of handling the National Capitol or the Congressional Office Building.

The bill as proposed to be amended will not present the same situation as has been discussed above in that it is not proposed that the entire building be devoted to the Legislature at all times.

However, we can think of nothing in the Constitution which requires the Legislature to waste space in a public building. If there is more space than the Legislature needs there is no reason why it should not be utilized.

It is true that as to the "released" space the tenancy of the executive agencies will be somewhat precarious. It must be remembered, however, that what we are discussing is a matter of legislative power and restraint thereon imposed by the Constitution. There is nothing in the Constitution giving either the executive or judicial department any vested right in any state building or any security of continuance of tenancy in any particular quarters. For example, if the Legislature should adopt the policy of housing all governmental agencies in quarters rented on a month-to-month basis, where is a constitutional provision to prohibit it?

The matter of separation of powers does not enter into the problem. It is neither an executive nor judicial function to prescribe the use to which the building is to be put. The Legislature could take half of it, or all of it, or, as the amended bill would provide, all of it that it needs from time to time, with the excess available to other uses. What the Legislature does with the space set aside for it is its own concern; within its inherent power to determine how it will conduct its own affairs. There is no encroachment on any power of the executive or judicial departments.

Very truly yours,

Senate Chamber

State Capitol: 1947 Legislation—No. 5349

DEAR SENATOR HATFIELD: You have asked us to give you a resume of the bills passed by the Legislature at the 1947 Session which were vetoed by the Governor.

Assembly Bill No. 1153 provided that the management of the Capitol was to be under the Department of Finance but that space therein, excepting office space occupied by the Governor and his staff, should be assigned and reassigned by a joint committee, created by the bill.

The Governor vetoed this bill. His veto message appears on page 3070 of the Assembly Journal of the 1947 Regular Session. The veto was sustained.

The grounds for the veto were (1) that the bill was unconstitutional because it vested an executive power (the assignment of space) in a legislative body and (2) that as a practical matter there was no place for the constitutional officers who might be ousted from the building to move to and that, since the Legislature was about to adjourn for over eight months, the bill was not necessary at that time.

Assembly Bill No. 2522 took a different approach. It specified the various purposes for which the Capitol could be used, and in effect, reserved all space above the first floor to legislative purposes and uses related thereto. The assignment of space was left with the Director of Finance and he was directed to meet with and consult a joint investigating committee created by the bill.

This bill was pocket-vetoed and therefore no veto message was published. Since the constitutional objection to Assembly Bill No. 1153, based on the separation of powers doctrine, was not presented by Assembly Bill No. 2522, the veto was probably based on practical, rather than legal, considerations.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel
By JOSEPH W. PAULUCCI, Deputy

30103. Unless the contrary is established, it shall be presumed that all cigarettes manufactured in this State, or transported to this State and no longer in the possession of the distributor, have been distributed.

Article 2. Only One Distribution Taxed

30104. Any cigarette with respect to which a tax has once been imposed under Article 1 or Article 3 of this chapter shall not be subject upon a subsequent distribution to the tax imposed under Article ___ of this chapter.

CHAPTER 3. LICENSES, BONDS AND REGISTRATION

Article 1. Licenses and Bonds

30150. Every person desiring to engage in the sale of cigarettes as a distributor, except a person who desires merely to sell or accept orders for cigarettes which are to be transported from a point outside this State to a consumer within this State, shall file with the board an application, in such form as the board may prescribe, for a distributor's license. The application shall be accompanied by a license fee of one dollar ($.1) payable to the board.

30151. The board, whenever it deems it necessary to insure compliance with this part, may require any person subject thereto, to deposit with it such security as the board may determine. The amount of the security shall be fixed by the board but shall not be greater than three times the estimated average liability of persons required to file monthly reports, determined in such manner as the board deems proper, or ten thousand dollars ($10,000), whichever amount is the lesser. The amount of the security may be increased or decreased by the board subject to the limitations herein provided. The board may sell the security at public auction if it becomes necessary so to do in order to recover any tax or any amount required to be collected, interest, or penalty due. Notice of the sale may be served upon the person who deposited the security personally or by mail; if by mail, service shall be made in the manner prescribed for service of a notice of a deficiency determination and shall be addressed to the person at his address as it appears in the records of the board. Security in the form of a bearer bond issued by the United States or the State of California which has a prevailing market price may, however, be sold by the board at private sale at a price not lower than the prevailing market price thereof. Upon any sale any surplus above the amounts due shall be returned to the person who deposited the security.

30152. On receipt of an application and license fee and after the deposit of such security as may be required pursuant to Section 30151, the board shall issue a distributor's license to the applicant. The license is not transferable and is valid until canceled or revoked.

30153. Whenever any distributor fails to comply with any provision of this part or any rule or regulation of the board prescribed and adopted under this part, the board upon hearing, after giving the distributor at least ten days' notice in writing specifying the time and place of hearing and requiring him to show cause why his license should not be revoked, may revoke the license held by him. The notice may be served personally or by mail in the manner prescribed for service of notice of a deficiency determination. The board shall not issue a new license to a distributor whose license has been revoked unless it is satisfied that he will comply with the provisions of this part and the rules and regulations of the board.

30154. Any person required to obtain a license as a distributor under this chapter who engages in business as a distributor without a license or after a license has been canceled or revoked, and each officer of any corporation which so engages in business, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Article 2. Registration

30161. Every distributor, except one to whom a license is issued under Article 1 of this chapter, required under Section 30102 to collect the tax imposed under this part from a purchaser shall register with the board and give the names and addresses of all agents operating in this State, the location of all distribution or sales houses or offices or other places of business in this State, and such other information as the board may require.

CHAPTER 4. DETERMINATIONS

Article 1. Reports and Payments

30181. The tax imposed by this part is due and payable monthly on or before the fifteenth day of the month following each calendar month in which a distribution of cigarettes occurs.

30183. The distributor shall accompany each report with a remittance payable to the board for the amount of tax due.

30184. The board for good cause may extend for not to exceed fifteen days the time for making any report or paying any amount of tax required under this part. The extension may be granted at any time provided a request therefor is filed with the board within or prior to the period for which the extension may be granted.

Any distributor to whom an extension is granted shall pay, in addition to the amount of tax, interest at the rate of one-half of 1 percent per month, or fraction thereof, from the date on which the amount of tax would have been due without the extension to the date of payment.

Article 2. Deficiency Determinations

30201. If the board is dissatisfied with the report filed, it may compute and determine the amount to be paid upon the basis of any information available to it. One or more deficiency determinations may be made of the amount of tax due for one or for more than one month.

30202. The amount of the determination, exclusive of penalties, shall bear interest at the rate of one-half of 1 percent per month, or fraction thereof, from the fifteenth day after the close of the month for which the amount of the tax, or any portion thereof, should have been reported until the date of payment.

30203. In making a determination the board may offset overpayments for a month or months against underpayments for another month or months and against the interest and penalties on the underpayments.

30204. If any part of the deficiency for which a deficiency determination is made is due to negligence or intentional disregard of this part or the rules and regulations adopted under this part, a penalty of 10 percent of the amount of the determination shall be added thereto.

30205. If any part of the deficiency for which a deficiency determination is made is due to fraud or an intent to evade this part or the rules and regulations adopted under this part, a penalty of 25 percent of the amount of the determination shall be added thereto.

30206. The board shall give the distributor written notice of its determination. The notice may be served personally or by mail; if by mail, service shall be made pursuant to Section 1013 of the Code of Civil Procedure and shall be addressed to the distributor at his address as it appears in the records of the board, but the service shall be deemed complete at the time of deposit of the notice in the mail without extension of time on account of the distance between the place of deposit and the place of address.

30207. Except in the case of fraud, intent to evade the tax, or failure to make a report, every notice of a deficiency determination shall be given within three years after the date when the amount should have been reported.

Article 3. Determinations if No Report Made

30221. If any distributor fails to make a report, the board shall make an estimate of the number of cigarettes distributed by him. The estimate shall be made for the month or months in respect to which the distributor failed to make a report and shall be based upon any information available to the board. Upon the basis of this estimate the board shall compute and determine the amount required to be paid to the State, adding to the sum thus fixed a penalty equal to 10 percent thereof. One or more determinations may be made for one or for more than one month.

30222. In making a determination the board may offset overpayments for a month or months against underpayments for another month or months and against interest and penalties on the underpayments.

30223. The amount of the determination, exclusive of penalties, shall bear interest at the rate of one-half of 1 percent per month, or fraction thereof, from the fifteenth day after the close of the month for which the amount, or any portion thereof, should have been reported until the date of payment.

30224. If the failure of a distributor to file a report is due to fraud or an intent to evade the tax, a penalty of 25 percent of the amount required to be paid by the distributor, exclusive of penalties, shall be added thereto in addition to the 10 percent penalty provided in Section 30221.

30225. Promptly after making its determination the board shall give to the distributor written notice of its estimate and determination, and penalty, the notice to be served personally or by mail in the manner prescribed for service of notice of a deficiency determination.

Article 4. Jeopardy Determinations

30241. If the board believes that the collection of any amount of tax imposed under this part will be jeopardized by delay, it shall thereupon make a determination of the amount of tax, noting that fact upon the determination. The amount determined is immediately due and payable.

30242. If the amount of the tax, interest, and penalty specified in the jeopardy determination is not paid within ten days after service upon the distributor of notice of the determination, the determination becomes final, unless a petition for redetermination is filed within the ten days, and the delinquency penalty and interest provided in Article 6 of this chapter shall attach to the amount specified.

30243. The distributor against whom a jeopardy determination is made may petition for the redetermination thereof pursuant to Article 5 of this chapter. He shall, however, file the petition for redetermination with the board within ten days after the service upon him of notice of the determination. The distributor shall at the time of filing the petition for redetermination deposit with the board such security as it may deem necessary to insure compliance with this part. The security may be sold by the board in the manner prescribed by Section 30151.

Article 5. Redeterminations

30261. Any distributor against whom a determination is made under Article 2 or 3 of this chapter may petition for a redetermination within fifteen days after service upon the distributor of notice thereof. If a petition for redetermination is not filed within the 15-day period, the determination becomes final at the expiration of the period.

30264. All determinations made by the board under Article 2 or 3 of this chapter are due and payable at the time they become final. If they are not paid when due and payable, a penalty of 10 percent of the amount of the determination, exclusive of interest and penalties, shall be added thereto.

30265. Any notice required by this article shall be served personally or by mail in the manner prescribed for service of notice of a deficiency determination.

Article 6. Interest and Penalties

30281. Any distributor who fails to pay any tax, except taxes determined by the board under Article 2 or 3 of this chapter, within the time required shall pay a penalty of 10 percent of the amount of the tax, in addition to the tax, plus interest at the rate of one-half of 1 percent per month, or fraction thereof, from the date on which the tax became due and payable until the date of payment.

CHAPTER 5. COLLECTION OF TAX

Article 1. Suit for Tax

30301. At any time within three years after any amount of tax becomes due and payable and at any time within three years after the last recording of a certificate under Section 30222, the board may transmit notice of the delinquency to the Attorney General who shall at once proceed by appropriate legal action to collect all sums due the State.

30302. In the action a writ of attachment may issue, and no bond or affidavit previous to the issuing of the attachment is required.

30303. In the action a certificate by the board showing the delinquency shall be prima facie evidence of the levy of the tax, of the delinquency of the amount of tax, interest, and penalty set forth, and of compliance by the board with all provisions of this part in relation to the computation and levy of the tax.

Article 2. Priority and Lien of Tax

30321. The amounts required to be paid by any person under this part together with interest and penalties shall be satisfied first in any of the following cases:

- (a) Whenever the person is insolvent.
- (b) Whenever the person makes a voluntary assignment of his assets.
- (c) Whenever the estate of the person in the hands of executors, administrators, or heirs is insufficient to pay all the debts due from the deceased.
- (d) Whenever the estate and effects of an absconding, concealed, or absent person required to pay any amount under this part are levied upon by process of law.

This section does not give the State a preference over any recorded lien which attached prior to the date when the amounts required to be paid became a lien.

The preference given to the State by this section shall be subordinate to the preferences given to claims for personal services by Sections 1204 and 1206 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

30322. If any amount required to be paid to the State under this part is not paid when due, the board may within three years after the amount is due file for record in the office of any county recorder a certificate specifying the amount, interest, and penalty due, the name and address as it appears on the records of the board of the person liable for the same, and the fact that the board has complied with all provisions of this part in the determination of the amount required to be paid. From the time of the filing for record, the amount required to be paid together with interest and penalty constitutes a lien upon all real property in the county owned by the person or afterwards and before the lien expires acquired by him. The lien has the force, effect, and priority of a judgment lien and shall continue for five years from the time of the filing of the certificate unless sooner released or otherwise discharged. The lien may, within five years from the date of the filing of the certificate or within five years from the date of the last extension of the lien in the manner herein provided, be extended by filing for record a new certificate in the office of the county recorder of any county and from the time of such filing the lien shall be extended to the real property and such county for five years unless sooner released or otherwise discharge.

30323. The board may at any time release all or any portion of the property subject to any lien provided for in this part from the lien or subordinate the lien to other liens and encumbrances if it determines that the amount, interest, and penalties are sufficiently secured by a lien on other property or that the release or subordination of the lien will not jeopardize the collection of the amount, interest, and penalties.

30324. A certificate by the board to the effect that any property has been released from the lien or that the lien has been subordinated to other liens and encumbrances shall be conclusive evidence that the property has been released or that the lien has been subordinated as provided in the certificate.

Article 3. Warrant for Collection of Tax

30341. At any time within three years after any person is delinquent in the payment of any amount herein required to be paid, or within three years after the last recording of a certificate under Section 30322, the board or its authorized representative may issue a warrant for the enforcement of any liens and for the collection of any amount required to be paid to the State under this part. The warrant shall be directed to any sheriff, marshal or constable and shall have the same effect as a writ of execution. The warrant shall be levied and sale made pursuant to it in the same manner and with the same effect as a levy of and a sale pursuant to a writ of execution.

30342. The board shall pay the sheriff, marshal or constable, upon the completion of his services pursuant to a warrant, the same fees, commissions, and expenses for his services as are provided by law for similar services pursuant to a writ of execution. The board, and not the court, shall approve the fees for publication in a newspaper.

30343. The fees, commissions, and expenses are the obligation of the person required to pay any amount under this part and may be collected from him by virtue of the warrant or in any other manner provided in this part for the collection of the tax.

Article 4. Miscellaneous Provisions

30351. The remedies of the State provided for in this chapter are cumulative, and no action taken by the board or Attorney General constitutes an election by the State to pursue any remedy to the exclusion of any other remedy for which provision is made in this part.

30352. In all proceedings under this chapter the board may act on behalf of the people of the State of California.

CHAPTER 6. OVERPAYMENTS AND REFUNDS

Article 1. Claim for Refund

30361. If the board determines that any amount not required to be paid under this part has been paid by any person, the board shall set forth in its records and certify to the State Board of Control the amount paid in excess of the amount legally due and the person by whom the excess was paid to the board. If the State Board of Control approves, the excess shall be credited on any amounts then due and payable from the person under this part, and the balance shall be refunded to the person, or his successors, administrators, executors, or assigns.

30362. No credit or refund shall be allowed after three years from the date of overpayment unless a claim therefor is filed with the board within three years from the date of overpayment.

30363. The claim shall be in writing and shall state the specific grounds upon which it is founded.

30364. In the case, however, of a determination by the board that an amount not exceeding twenty-five dollars ($25) was not required to be paid under this part, the board without obtaining approval of the State Board of Control, may credit the amount on any amounts then due and payable under this part from the person by whom the amount was paid and may refund the balance to the person or his successors, administrators, or executors.

Article 2. Recovery of Erroneous Refunds

30381. The board may recover any refund or part thereof which is erroneously made and any credit or part thereof which is erroneously allowed in an action brought in a court of competent jurisdiction in the County of Sacramento in the name of the people of the State of California.

30382. The action shall be tried in the County of Sacramento unless the court with the consent of the Attorney General orders a change of place of trial.

30383. The Attorney General shall prosecute the action, and the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to service of summons, pleadings, proofs, trials, and appeals are applicable to the proceedings.

Article 3. Suit for Refund

30401. No injunction or writ of mandate or other legal or equitable process shall issue in any suit, action, or proceeding in any court against this State or against any officer of the State to prevent or enjoin the collection under this part of any amount of tax or to prevent or enjoin the revocation of any license issued under this part or any other action whereby it is sought to enforce the payment of any amounts required to be paid.

30402. After payment of any amount, the person making the payment may bring an action against the board in a court of competent jurisdiction in the County of Sacramento for the recovery of the amount paid.

30403. No action may be instituted more than ninety days after the payment of the amount sought to be recovered. Failure to bring suit within ninety days constitutes a waiver of any demand against the State on account of alleged overpayments.

30404. If judgment is rendered for the plaintiff, the amount of the judgment shall first be credited on any amounts due from the plaintiff under this part, and the balance of the judgment shall be refunded to the plaintiff. In any judgment, interest shall be allowed at the rate of 6 percent per annum upon the amount found to have been illegally collected from the date of payment of the amount to the date of allowance of credit on account of the judgment or to a date preceding the date of the refund warrant by not more than thirty days, the date to be determined by the board.

30405. A judgment shall not be rendered in favor of the plaintiff in any action brought against the board to recover any amount paid when the action is brought by or in the name of an assignee of the person making the payment or by any person other than the person making the payment.

Article 4. Cancellations

30421. If any amount has been illegally determined, the board shall set forth in its records and certify to the State Board of Control the amount determined in excess of the amount legally due and the person against whom the determination was made. If the State Board of Control approves, it shall authorize the cancellation of the amount upon the records of the board.

CHAPTER 7. ADMINISTRATION

30451. The board shall enforce the provisions of this part and may prescribe, adopt, and enforce rules and regulations relating to the administration and enforcement of this part. The board may prescribe the extent to which any ruling or regulation shall be applied without retroactive effect.

30452. The board may employ accountants, auditors, investigators, assistants, and clerks necessary for the efficient administration of this part and may designate representatives to conduct hearings, prescribe regulations, or perform any other duties imposed by this part or other laws of this State upon the board.

30453. Every distributor and every person dealing in, transporting, or storing cigarettes in this State shall keep such records, receipts, invoices, and other pertinent papers with respect thereto in such form as the board may require.

30454. The board or its authorized representative may examine the books, papers, records, and equipment of any person dealing in, transporting, or storing cigarettes and may investigate the character of the disposition which the person makes of the cigarettes in order to ascertain whether all taxes due under this part are being properly reported and paid.

30455. It is unlawful for the board or any person having an administrative duty under this part to make known in any manner whatever the business affairs, operations, or information obtained by an investigation of records and equipment of any person visited or examined in the discharge of official duty, or the amount or source of income, profits, losses, expenditures, or any particular thereof, set forth or disclosed in any report, or to permit any report or copy thereof or any book containing any abstract or particulars thereof to be seen or examined by any person. However, the Governor may, by general or special order, authorize examination of the reports by other state officers, by tax officers of another state, by the Federal Government, if a reciprocal arrangement exists, or by any other person.

Any violation of this section is a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars ($1,000), by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both in the discretion of the court.

CHAPTER 8. DISPOSITION OF PROCEEDS

30461. All amounts required to be paid to the State under this part shall be paid to the board in the form of remittances payable to the State Board of Equalization of the State of California. The board shall transmit the payments to the State Treasurer to be deposited in the State Treasury to the credit of the Cigarette Tax Fund, which fund is hereby created.

30462. All money deposited in the Cigarette Tax Fund under this part shall, upon order of the State Controller be drawn therefrom for refunds under this part or be transferred to the General Fund of this State.

CHAPTER 9. VIOLATIONS

30471. Any person who fails or refuses to file any report required to be made, or who fails or refuses to furnish a supplemental report or other data required by the board, or who renders a false or fraudulent report is guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500) for each offense.

30472. Any person required to make, render, sign, or verify any report who makes any false or fraudulent report with intent to defeat or evade the determination required by law to be made is guilty of a misdemeanor. He shall for each offense be fined not less than three hundred dollars ($300) and not more than five thousand dollars ($5,000), or be imprisoned for not exceeding one year in the county jail, or be subject to both fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

30473. Any violation of the provisions of this part, except as otherwise provided, is a misdemeanor and is punishable as such.

Sec. 2. The sum of two hundred fifty thousand dollars ($250,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated for the support of the State Board of Equalization in administering Part 13 of Division 2 of the Revenue and Taxation Code during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1949, and ending June 30, 1950.

Sec. 3. This act, inasmuch as it provides for a tax levy shall, under the provisions of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, take effect immediately."

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Senator Hatfield asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to have the following opinion of the Legislative Counsel relative to Senate Bill No. 1066, printed in the Journal.

OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, March 29, 1949

Hon. George J. Hatfield

Senate Chamber

Analysis of Attorney General's Opinion on Senate Bill No. 1066—No. 5330

DEAR SENATOR HATFIELD: You have asked us to discuss the points and authorities, concerning the constitutionality of Senate Bill 1066, presented in the Attorney General's Opinion of March 23, 1949, printed in the Senate Journal of March 24, 1949, at pages 719-724.

Those points (which will be referred to in this analysis by the number preceding them immediately below) are summarized at the conclusion of the opinion as follows:

"(1) Section 1134 (prohibiting peaceful secondary picketing) and Section 1136 (prohibiting other means of publication and persuasion) are constitutional only if the legislative finding of a clear and present danger is upheld by the courts.

"(2) Section 1133 prohibiting secondary boycotts (i.e., secondary strikes), is invalid as a violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, at least where the labor objective in the primary dispute is lawful and there is 'interdependence of economic interest' between the primary dispute and the secondary strike.

"(3) The impossibility of a judicial revision of Section 1133 would cause the entire statute to fall, regardless that it might be constitutionally applied in limited situations."

Preliminarily, let us observe that even if Sections 1134, 1136, and 1133 were found wholly invalid and inoperative, it would not follow that the entire statute must fall. There would be left, separate and intact, the text of Sections 1132 (hot cargo) and 1135 (employer unfair practices), neither of which impinges upon any of the fundamental freedoms. Nor do we find in the opinion the point made or urged that Section 1132 or Section 1135, considered entirely by itself (without any reference to or connection with Sections 1133, 1134, or 1136) would be constitutionally vulnerable.

However, we do not believe that the cases cited by the Attorney General support his conclusions in several important respects.

As to Section 1134, point one presupposes that the prohibition of peaceful secondary picketing depends upon the existence of a clear and present danger to the security of the government or the carrying out of its functions.

The only clear-cut case that has reached the United States Supreme Court involving secondary picketing was Carpenters and Joiners Union, etc. v. Ritters Cafe (1942), 315 U. S. 722. The facts of the case were that Ritter had made a contract with a builder to construct a building not connected in any way with his cafe and 24 blocks from it. The contract was silent as to the type of labor to be hired. The contractor employed nonunion carpenters and the carpenters union picketed Ritter's cafe. The Texas court enjoined the picketing and the United States Supreme Court sustained the injunction.

The Ritter case presents no element of clear and present danger. Rather, it illustrates the fact that the states may confine the sphere of freedom of communication to the area of the dispute.

The only other case that could be construed as one involving secondary picketing is that of Bakers and Pastry Drivers v. Wohl (1942), 315 U. S. 769.

The facts in that case were that certain independent jobbers owned their own trucks and purchased bakery products from manufacturers and sold them to retailers. The jobbers had no employees. The union attempted to unionize the jobbers or make them agree to hire union drivers one day each week. When the jobbers refused, the union picketed the manufacturing bakeries.

The New York court enjoined the picketing on the ground that no labor dispute existed. The United States Supreme Court reversed the decree. It pointed out that the absence of a labor dispute was not the sole criterion. However, in concluding that the injunction was improper, the court took care to point out that the jobbers' "mobility and their insulation from the public as middlemen" made it practically impossible for the union to make known its grievances to the public which supported the peddler system by other means of communication and that the picketing had "slight, if any, repercussions" on strangers to the dispute.

The Wohl case, therefore, does not present a clear cut case of secondary picketing but a form of primary picketing compelled by the peculiar facts of the case to be conducted at the place where the employer's ambulatory business occasionally stopped. In any event, it did not involve the question of clear and present danger.

All other cases relating to picketing that have reached the United States Supreme Court were cases involving primary picketing which would not be proscribed by Section 1134.

Therefore, the assumption that Section 1134 depends upon the doctrine of a clear and present danger is not sustained by the decisions.

As to Section 1133, point two presupposes that the prohibition of secondary boycotts violates the Thirteenth Amendment, the prohibition against involuntary servitude. The opinion cites Charles Wolf Packing Co. v. Court of Industrial Relations, 262 U. S. 522, Pollock v. Williams, 322 U. S. 4, and Southern California Iron & Steel Co. v. Amalgamated Association, 186 Cal. 604, in support of this point.

A careful reading of the cases cited fails to disclose any that even mention the Thirteenth Amendment and a careful search has failed to reveal any case in which the United States Supreme Court has held or said that a statute or injunction prohibiting a strike—that is a concerted refusal to work—violates the Thirteenth Amendment.

There is nothing whatever in the bill which would prohibit any individual from terminating his employment at any time he chooses.

Point 3 is based upon the assumption that a judicial revision of Section 1133 would be necessary. This, in turn, rests upon the assumption that the section is invalid as a violation of the Thirteenth Amendment. As we have seen, there is no support for this proposition so point 3 needs no discussion.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel
By A. C. MORRISON, Deputy

Chief Assistant Secretary Cleve V. Taylor at the Desk

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, March 16, 1949

Hon. F. Presley Abshire
Senate Chamber

Eminent Domain—No. 4771

DEAR SENATOR ABSHIRE: You have asked us, in relation to Senate Bill 1379 giving flood control and conservation districts organized under Deering Act 9178 the power of eminent domain, two questions, namely: (1) Is there a need for such a district to have the power of eminent domain, and (2) Has this type of district such power already?

Question No. 1

The power of eminent domain is the superior right to property which the sovereign state has over private property. Such power has been limited, especially in the United States, to provide that the property must be taken for a public use and that just compensation must be paid.

The Legislature's declaration of what is a public use has been given great weight and is seldom upset by the courts unless purely arbitrary and having no relation to a public function.

The power may be delegated to a public or private corporation or even to an individual if it is to be used for a public purpose. In California, the Legislature has found it necessary, in order to carry out the functions of the State, to create many districts to cope with specific problems in particular geographic areas. To the majority of these districts the State has delegated its power of eminent domain.

Attached is a list of most of the districts of California, segregated as to those that have the power of eminent domain and those that do not. You will notice that the list of those having the express power of eminent domain is greater by far than those that do not. Especially is this true in those districts dealing with water problems and flood control.

The fact that the flood control and conservation districts created under Deering Act 9178 do not have such express power may be viewed as an exception to the general rule.

The principal reason for any district or unit of government to have this power is to enable it to acquire property without the excessive use of public moneys in the case where some property owner will not sell except at an exorbitant price, and if such property owner would not sell at all the whole program might be curtailed.

The property owners are protected by the statutes and Constitution of this State in that a full and adequate determination must be made by the courts of this State, after application by the particular governmental unit exercising the power of eminent domain. The uses and necessity for taking such private property must be set out in full and the determination of the amount of compensation must be made only after sufficient evidence is presented by both the property owner and the governmental unit. The principal statute regulating the procedure in eminent domain is Section 1241 of the Code of Civil Procedure. In this proceeding not only can the land owner present evidence as to the value of his property but he may even question the necessity of such taking and the fact that it is going to be used for a public purpose.

The general rule is the power of eminent domain must be expressly given by the Legislature to a local agency, district, or individual before the latter can exercise the power. Statutes conferring the power have been strictly construed by the courts. The California case of People v. Superior Court (1937) 10 Cal. 2d 288, at p. 295, states the rule as follows:

"It is a well established legal principle that although the power of eminent domain is inherent in sovereignty, nevertheless neither the State itself nor any subsidiary thereof may lawfully exercise such right in the absence of precedent legislative authority so to do. And equally established is the rule that the agency to which has been delegated the authority to institute a condemnation action has the exclusive power in the premises. In that regard, in the case of San Joaquin etc. Irr. Co. v. Stevinson, 164 Cal. 221, 226 [128 Pac. 924], it is said: 'It is conceded by plaintiff that the power of eminent domain is vested in the State, and that no person or corporation can avail himself or itself of that power, even in aid of a recognized public use, unless the State has granted to such person or corporation a right to exercise the power for the particular use proposed. There must be a statute conferring the power, either expressly or by necessary implication * * *'"

There is some authority for the proposition that a corporation or agency may without express power of eminent domain still condemn property for public use. There is no case directly in point on the type of district involved in Deering Act 9178, but the case of Dexeret Company v. State of California (1914), 167 Cal. 147, at page 157, says:

"The argument is advanced that the complaint shows that the articles of incorporation empowered the plaintiff to 'acquire' lands and property rights for the purposes of public use, but it is argued that the right to acquire does not include the right to condemn, yet Section 1001 of the Civil Code uses this very word in declaring that 'any person may * * * acquire private property for any use specified in Section 1238' of the Code of Civil Procedure by proceeding in eminent domain."

The above case involved a private corporation and it is not the practice to put the express power of eminent domain in articles of incorporation of a private corporation. The attached list indicates that the Legislature has expressly given the power of eminent domain to public governmental units in the majority of cases. Such governmental units generally are not considered "persons" under Section 1001 of the Civil Code.

On the other hand, the Legislature did in permitting the creation of flood control districts under Deering Act 9178 recognize the function of flood control as a public use and the districts under the act may acquire land by "other legal means" in addition to "gift, purchase, lease, or contract;" also, the list of public uses for which the power of eminent domain may be used, as set forth in Section 1238 of the Code of Civil Procedure, includes the following: "... * * * necessary for the proper development and control of such use of said water * * * raising the banks of streams * * *" etc. This might seem to indicate the use of eminent domain to accomplish the purposes of flood control and water conservation, as provided in Deering Act 9178. Yet the general rule is that the power must be spelled out and not left in doubt.

To remove any doubt as to the existence of power of eminent domain in the districts created under Deering Act 9178, it would be advisable to add language similar to that in Senate Bill 1379 to expressly give such power to such districts, if this result is desired.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Senator O'Gara asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to have the following explanation of his vote on Senate Bill No. 1066 printed in the Journal.

Explanation of Vote by Senator O'Gara on Senate Bill No. 1066

I am opposed to this bill for two reasons:

First, there has been no showing that there is any real or present need for such drastic and restrictive legislation.

Second, this bill is unconstitutional.

On October 14, 1947, California's so-called Hot Cargo Law, enacted by the 1945 Legislature, was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of this State.

Since that date and for the past year and a half there have been no legal restrictions whatever on Hot Cargo or Secondary Boycott.

When this bill was heard before the Labor Committee, I asked the proponents for information as to the total number of Hot Cargo or Secondary Boycott strikes which have taken place since the decision declaring the previous law unconstitutional.

The proponents state that they had no figures on the number of such strikes, on the number of man days lost as a result of such strikes, on the amount of the financial losses suffered by employers as a result of such strikes or on the number of men unemployed as a result of such strikes.

Yet despite the fact that they can not furnish this Senate with such information, they now wish this Legislature to pass a law which states, as a matter of fact, that these practices have resulted in and will continue to result in widespread unemployment, losses of purchasing power, and substantial injury and losses to the public and third parties.

They further wish this Senate to recognize and find as a matter of fact, and I quote, "That there is a real clear and present danger, that unless forbidden by law, the activities declared unlawful in this chapter will seriously and substantially injure and impair the peace, health, welfare, and economy of this State."

In my opinion there has been a total lack of adequate evidence to sustain these findings.

As I stated at the outset, I believe this bill is unconstitutional. The previous law, along the same lines, was declared unconstitutional by two Attorney Generals of this State, Earl Warren and Robert W. Kenny.

Furthermore, as Governor, Earl Warren stated that he considered the law unconstitutional, and the Supreme Court affirmed his opinion.

Now we have an opinion from the incumbent Attorney General that this bill which, in its main points, is essentially the same as the preceding law, is also unconstitutional.

The Attorney General holds that "this bill in its present form is in part unconstitutional and in part constitutionally doubtful."

I am sure that this Senate would not approve a bill of doubtful constitutionality and the need for which has not been satisfactorily demonstrated—as is the case here—if that bill affected business or agriculture.

The Legislature should apply the same test to this bill, which would drastically impair one of labor's fundamental rights—the right to free speech.

SENATOR O'GARA

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Senator Gibson asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to have the following explanation of his vote on Senate Bill No. 1066 printed in the Journal.

Explanation of Vote of Senator Luther E. Gibson in Connection With Senate Bill No. 1066 ("Hot Cargo")

This entire issue has left me confused as to the real purpose of this bill in connection with the evils sought to be corrected. As an employer, I have had for 26 years contractual relations with eight unions, all of which have a so-called closed shop and with all of which I have had contracts which have been negotiated year after year in the light of problems as they have arisen. In view of this experience and in connection with my work here at the State Legislature, I have tried my best to analyze the fundamental problems involved as well as the provisions of this particular bill and I believe the following to be true:

Article I, Secs. 9 and 10 of the Constitution of the State of California makes the traditional provision for freedom of speech and the right to assemble. These rights are also guaranteed under the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States and are a part of our entire democratic structure, inseparable from our way of life.

The Constitution of the United States of America also contains the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendments which prohibit involuntary servitude or "slavery" and provide that no law shall be passed which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States nor deprive them of life, liberty or property without due process of law.

I do not pretend to be a lawyer or one skilled in interpreting the fine points of constitutional guaranties, but I say again I am confused. The Attorney General of the State of California has apparently ruled that this proposed legislation in its present form is unconstitutional as being a violation of the rights above stated.

On the other hand, I understand that Legislative Counsel has ruled that this bill does meet the constitutional requirements and, therefore, is not objectionable on that ground. I do not feel capable of making the choice between the learned opinions of these two skilled organizations nor do I believe that employers and labor unions should be required to make such choice and embroil themselves in continual litigation until the constitutionality of this matter can be finally determined.

But what is even more important I am also concerned about far deeper issues than those appearing in the language and upon the surface of this legislation. I am opposed to class legislation of any kind or character or any legislation which will have the effect of dividing, or encouraging the division of, employees and employers into classes. It is known that professionals representing labor, as well as professionals representing management, seek to take advantage of the other, which in my opinion tends to drive a wedge between segments of our citizenry and tends to have each group feel that he is a member of a particular class and thereby a natural enemy of the other. It is this very concept that Communism and all the other "isms" seeks to exploit. When we lend ourselves to widening this breach we are defeating our own purposes and injuring our American way of life. In my opinion, secondary boycotts and refusal to handle material from struck plants are un-American and undesirable for the reasons which I have just set forth. In other words, a bona fide labor dispute between employer and employee is one thing, and there should be no law prohibiting this relationship, but for a group of employees or others to seek to cause their employer to violate his own contracts and agreements and disturb the existing peace between employer and employee where they have no grievances or complaints against him is quite a different matter.

It seems to me a fundamental right of every man to work or not as he sees fit, but as long as he is working and has no dispute with his own employer he should carry out his employment under the direction of that employer, handling whatever merchandise or cargo that employer directs him to handle and not embroil himself in affairs about which he may know little and should be as little concerned.

Turning now to the proposed legislation, does it recognize these fundamental concepts, and does it, within the framework of our American institutions, prohibit what I believe to be an evil? It is at this point that I am again confused. I have the feeling in reading the bill that the language is broad to the point where it could be used to harass individuals and organizations in violation of their constitutional rights even though many of its provisions are undoubtedly specific and do tend to cure an existing evil. But it is no real solution to a problem as fundamental as this one to insert within our laws dubious or uncertain provisions or broad language which could be misused or misinterpreted.

Because of this confusion which may be shared by others, it is my best judgment that this bill should be referred back to committee for a thorough analysis and longer study in the hope that many of these doubts may be resolved.

Accordingly, I must vote "no" on the bill as it now stands.

SENATOR GIBSON

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Senator Rich asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to have the following communication of the Attorney General and the opinion of the Legislative Counsel regarding the status of the Attorney General before a Legislative Investigating Committee, printed in the Journal.

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

STATE BUILDING, SAN FRANCISCO 2, February 10, 1949

Hon. William P. Rich, Chairman

Legislative Committee for Investigation Small Loan Business in California

Marysville, California

DEAR SENATOR RICH: I have just concluded a telephone conversation with you and desire by this communication to confirm my statements to you.

(1) That Mr. Rochester and myself will appear before your committee without the necessity of subpoena.

(2) That the results of our investigation which was requested by Assemblyman Dills and not by the committee, will be submitted by Mr. Rochester and myself at your legislative investigation hearings.

(3) That it is our desire that any report we make be in writing in order to prevent any possible error or misunderstanding.

(4) That we have determined that the attorney selected by the committee was at one time associated with a company engaged in a small loan business; that his nomination was made by a legal firm in Los Angeles representing such interest; and that under such circumstances we do not feel justified in disclosing the content and result of our investigation other than in writing, and at the time of your committee hearing.

I do hope that you will keep in mind that under our constitutional and statutory provisions of law, the Attorney General is ex-officio member of any legislative committee by reason of his advisory duties. As such, our position is to present a matter fairly and impartially and not to be a witness for or against either side of any particular issue. The committee attorney, Mr. William P. Gray, appeared in our office today in Los Angeles, and apparently is under a misapprehension as to our position in this respect.

You may be assured that it is the desire of our office to cooperate with this committee in every respect and present to you, in our opinion, for the first time in 45 years, a true and comprehensive report upon the facts, law and conditions of this business as it is and has been transacted in this State. I am certain also, that if permitted to follow the procedure adopted by us, the committee will agree our manner of presentation will expedite the hearings and get at the meat of this problem in the very shortest period of time.

Very truly yours,

FRED N. HOWSER, Attorney General

CC: SENATOR THOMAS F. KEATING

DONALD L. GRUNSKY, Member of the Assembly

SENATOR NATHAN F. COOMBS

RALPH C. DILLS, Member of the Assembly

JONATHAN J. HOLLIBAUGH, Member of the Assembly

MR. GEORGE ROCHESTER

OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, February 16, 1949

*Hon. W. P. Rich, ChairmanJoint Legislative Committee on Lending Transactions
Marysville, California*Status of Attorney General before a Legislative Investigating Committee—No. 1905

DEAR SENATOR RICH: You have asked whether the Attorney General or any member of his staff is ex officio a member of a legislative investigating committee, and whether he or any member of his staff can be required to testify and answer interrogations as a witness before such a committee.

It is our opinion that neither the Attorney General nor any member of his staff is ex officio a member of a legislative investigating committee and that the Attorney General or any member of his staff has no greater immunity from legislative process than have other individuals.

The Attorney General is a civil executive officer (Gov. C., Sec. 1001). The office is created by the Constitution (Sec. 17, Art. V) and certain law enforcement powers and duties are vested in the office by the Constitution (Sec. 21, Art. V). The Attorney General has charge, as attorney, of all legal matters in which this State is interested (Gov. C., Sec. 12511), is head of the Department of Justice (Gov. C., Sec. 12510), and legal counsel for numerous state agencies (Gov. C., Secs. 11040-11044). By statute the Attorney General is made ex officio a member of various boards and commissions in the executive branch of the government. There is no constitutional or statutory provision that we are aware of, however, which vests in the Attorney General any of the powers and duties of a legislator.

Section 1 of Article III of the Constitution provides for the division of the powers of government of the State into three separate departments, the legislative, executive, and judicial, and expressly provides that "no person charged with the exercise of powers properly belonging to one of these departments shall exercise any functions appertaining to either of the others, except as in this Constitution expressly directed or permitted." In the absence of any express provision in the Constitution authorizing the Attorney General to participate in the law-making functions of the government in addition to his general law-enforcement duties, the above quoted provision of the Constitution would prohibit his serving in such capacity.

We have reviewed the resolution creating your committee (S.C.R. 14), and the Joint Rules of Senate and Assembly (S.C.R. 7) and do not find any reference to the appointment of the Attorney General as a member of the committee, or as counsel for the committee. It is therefore our conclusion that the Attorney General is not a member of a legislative committee by virtue of his office.

Whether the Attorney General was a member of a legislative committee or not however, would not in our opinion affect the jurisdiction of the committee over him or any of his deputies.

It is generally well recognized that all executive officers including cabinet officers (with the possible exception of the Chief Executive) are subject to legislative process. (3 Hinds' Precedents 179). Thus in People ex rel. Hastings v. Hofstadter (258 N.Y. 425; 180 N.E. 106) it was held that a state senator's immunity from arrest in a civil action or proceeding while the Legislature was in session did not give him the privilege of declining to appear before a legislative committee after having been subpoenaed. (See also Ex Parte Dalton (Ohio) 5 N.E. 136; Burnham v. Morrissey (Mass.) 14 Gray 226, 74 Am Dec 676).

We are not aware of any constitutional or statutory provision which grants to the Attorney General, his deputies, or any other state officer, any greater immunity from legislative process than any other individual has.

Rule 36 of the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly provides in part:

"Every department, commission, board, agency, officer and employee of the State Government, including the Legislative Council and the Attorney General and their subordinates, and of every political subdivision, county, city, or public district of or in this State, shall give and furnish to these committees and to their subcommittees upon request such information, records and documents as the committees deem necessary or proper for the achievement of the purposes for which each such committee was created."

It is therefore our conclusion that the Attorney General and his deputies may be called as witnesses before a legislative investigating committee whether subpoenaed, or appearing voluntarily, and may be compelled to answer any relevant and material question under penalty of contempt proceedings as provided in the Government Code (Secs. 9400-9412, incl.).

Very truly yours,

By BERNARD CZESLA, Deputy

(b) From the liabilities required to be shown by subdivisions (7) to (11), inclusive, of Section 908, there may be deducted the ratable portion of the gross unearned premium on the risks so reinsured except in the case of excess loss and catastrophe reinsurance where the deduction shall be on the basis of the actual reinsurance premiums and actual reinsurance terms.

Such reinsurance agreement may provide that the conservator or liquidator of a ceding insurer shall give notice of the pendency of a claim against the ceding insurer, which claim would involve a possible liability on the part of the reinsurer, within a reasonable time after such claim is filed in the conservation or liquidation proceeding, and that during the pendency of such claim such reinsurer may investigate such claim and interpose, at its own expense, in the proceeding where such claim is to be adjudicated any defense or defenses which it may deem available to the ceding company or to its liquidator or conservator. The expense thus incurred by the assuming insurer shall be chargeable, subject to the approval of the conservator or liquidator and of the court, against the ceding insurer as a part of the expense of conservation or liquidation to the extent of a pro rata share of the benefit which may accrue to the ceding insurer solely as a result of the defense undertaken by the reinsurer.

On page 2 of said bill, strike out lines 36 to 51, inclusive, and on page 3, lines 1 to 32, inclusive, and insert

"918.3. The commissioner may reduce the deduction, on account of reinsurance other than reinsurance covering specified individual risks, specified in subdivision (b) of Section 918.1 by the amount of the unearned portion of any commission or dividend allowed to the ceding insurer by the reinsurer, if such reinsurance is subject to cancellation by the reinsurer, without the consent of the ceding insurer, and

(a) Such cancellation would reduce the surplus of the ceding insurer to an amount less than 100 percent of the minimum paid in capital required by this code for all classes of insurance which such insurer is licensed to transact in any jurisdiction, such surplus being in addition to such minimum paid in capital; or

(b) The aggregate deduction on account of such reinsurance ceded has the effect of reducing the unearned premium reserve of the ceding insurer below 70 percent of the unearned premiums computed before giving effect to all such reinsurance.

Where the contract of reinsurance does not specify the amount of commission, the commission shall be deemed to be the difference between the ratable portion of the gross unearned premium on the risks so reinsured and the consideration for such reinsurance except in the case of excess loss and catastrophe reinsurance.

A contract of reinsurance shall not be deemed to be subject to cancellation without the consent of the ceding insurer if it contains provisions requiring that the reinsurer give such notice of cancellation to the ceding insurer as will allow the ceding insurer reasonable time within which to cancel the policy or policies reinsured or to replace the reinsurance before such cancellation becomes effective. Such notice shall in no case be less than sixty days.

SEC. 4. Section 918.4 is added to said code, to read:

918.4. In the event the reinsurer is not admitted, the commissioner may disallow the deductions specified in Section 918.1 if:

(1) He is not satisfied that the financial condition of such reinsurer is reasonably comparable to that required of admitted insurers, or if he has evidence that any such nonadmitted reinsurer has failed to make prompt payment of claims.

(2) Such reinsurer is an alien corporation not authorized to transact insurance in any state of the United States, and the laws or regulations of the country of domicile of such reinsurer restrict the export of funds to such an extent as to make questionable the ability of such alien reinsurer to pay losses in the United States.

The insurer reporting its financial condition shall have the burden of satisfying the commissioner as to the financial condition of such reinsurer and the ability of such reinsurer to pay losses in the United States.

SEC. 5. Section 918.5 is added to said code, to read:

918.5. The deductions specified in Section 918.1 shall not be made or allowed with respect to reinsurance placed in any alien insurer unless such insurer is authorized to transact insurance in a state of the United States and maintains in the United States an adequate guaranty deposit for the protection of policyholders in the United States.

SEC. 6. Section 918.6 is added to said code, to read:

918.6. Portions of losses paid by the ceding insurer which are recoverable from a reinsurer may be admitted as assets of such ceding insurer for 90 days after the payment of such losses by the ceding insurer, or for such period preceding specified settlement dates during which the ceding insurer retains all or a part of the consideration for the reinsurance in an amount greater than the aggregate of the portions of losses recoverable from the reinsurer. But the commissioner may disallow the admission of such assets if there exist any of the conditions set forth in Section 918.4.

of Section 1, Article IV of the Constitution, and shall therefore go into immediate effect. The statement of facts constituting such urgency is as follows:

Since the last regular session of the Legislature, many irresponsible, unlicensed and unregulated nonprofessional organizations have begun the business of selling or purporting to sell hospital and medical service contracts to the public at large. In most instances the contracts are nonobligatory, promising only to use the promisor's best efforts to procure the represented service, which results in (1) many of the contracts not being honored at all and (2) the remainder generally being carried out in a manner far short of the representations made at the time of sale. A great number of our citizens have been, and are now being, victimized by such activities. Current insurance laws formerly were interpreted by the courts so as to regulate such activities. However, from a recent decision of the Supreme Court rendered in a case involving the activities of a highly reputable organization of licensed physicians, which is exempted from the effect of this act, it is stated that, a promise of "service" rather than "indemnity" is not an insurance contract and does not subject the promisor to regulation under current laws. The interpretation of this decision gave rise to the current abuses. The public will suffer irreparable injury unless these organizations are immediately subjected to regulation. It is therefore essential that this act take effect immediately."

Amendments read, and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, engrossed, and to third reading.

Senate Bill No. 971—An act to amend Sections 700.01, 700.02, and 1594 of the Insurance Code, to renumber and amend Section 1584 of said code, to repeal Section 1582 of said code, and to add Section 700.05 to said code, relating to insurance.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, March 31, 1949

Hon. Goodwin J. KnightPresident of the SenateHon. Sam L. CollinsSpeaker of the AssemblyMembers of the Senate and Assembly

The Joint Legislative Committee on Lending Transactions, created by Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 14, Resolutions Chapter 30, Statutes of 1949, and continued by Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 37, Resolutions Chapter 82, Statutes of 1949, herewith submits its final report.

Respectfully submitted,

REPORT OF JOINT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE

ORGANIZATION

The resolution under which this committee was created, authorized and directed the committee "to ascertain, study and analyze all facts relating to the Personal Property Brokers' Act, the California Small Loan Act, rates and interest, and other charges on loans, any and all matters pertaining to lending transactions, and any and all matters connected with or incidental to the subject matter of this resolution, including but not limited to the operation, effect, administration, enforcement and needed revision of any and all loans in any way bearing upon or relating to the subject of this resolution, and to report thereon to the Legislature, including in the report its recommendations for appropriate legislation." (S.C.R. No. 14, Resolutions Chapter 30, Statutes of 1949.)

To accomplish this objective your committee engaged the services of Mr. William P. Gray, Attorney of Los Angeles, as Attorney-Investigator, to investigate the publicized charges of violations of the Personal Property Brokers' Act and the administration of such act, and to arrange for the examination by the committee of all persons in possession of facts pertinent to the subject of the resolution. The committee also authorized the employment of a firm of certified public accountants to assist in such investigation, and the development of facts pertinent to the subject of the resolution.

Summary

The evidence presented to your committee did not disclose any widespread or flagrant violations of the Personal Property Brokers' Act nor did it indicate any lack of proper and efficient enforcement of its regulatory provisions. There were, however, numerous changes in the laws relating to lending and credit transactions recommended to the committee. Also of great assistance to the committee was the report of the Attorney General which contained a summary of the conclusions reached by that office based upon an intensive six weeks investigation of the operation and administration of the Personal Property Brokers' Act.

These conclusions, although in large part unsupported by factual evidence, and in many cases at variance with the express provisions of the existing law and the interpretations thereof previously set forth in formal opinions of the Attorney General's office, nevertheless presented many suggestions for additional regulation by legislation, and revision of existing legislation, which were given due consideration by the committee.

Virtually all complaints of excessive charges which have been received by the Corporation Commissioner, legal aid societies, district attorneys, city prosecutors, newspapers, and by this committee, have, upon investigation, been found to involve conditional sales contracts, and not loans. The failure to distinguish between these two types of personal finance transactions, i.e., loans and conditional sales contracts calling for periodic payments over a period of time, has caused considerable confusion in the field of personal credit and finance.

This situation is aggravated by the fact that, except in the case of the sale of automobiles, there is at the present time no regulation of the charges which may be added to the sales price of merchandise for the privilege of purchasing such merchandise on a time payment agreement.

The periodic charges that California's small loan legislation has failed to accomplish its object of affording protection to necessitous borrowers can generally be directly attributed to the failure to distinguish between such transactions.

LOANS DISTINGUISHED FROM CONDITIONAL SALES

A transaction, to come within the provisions of the Personal Property Brokers' Act, must be a loan of money, and not a sale of property. A conditional sales contract is a contract to deliver title to personal property upon the payment of the purchase price, in accordance with the terms of the agreement. No license is presently required under state law in order to sell property under a conditional sales contract. Also, no license is required under the state law for an individual or company to engage in the business of purchasing conditional sales contracts from those selling the merchandise under such agreements.

There is no legal limitation on the amount of additional cost which may be charged to a purchaser for the privilege of buying personal property on time, except in the case of motor vehicles.* The Supreme Court of California has held that the owner of property has the right to name the price at which he is willing to sell, and may offer to sell at a designated price for cash, or at a higher price on credit, and a credit sale will not constitute usury, however great the difference between the two prices, unless the buying and selling constituted a mere pretense (Verbeek v. Clymer, 202 Cal. 557).

The owner of a conditional sales contract may sell it to a personal property broker, a bank, industrial loan company, or any other finance company at a discount. Generally the discount ranges from 4 to 6 percent of the balance owing on the contract, which includes the additional amount being paid for the privilege of buying on time.

There is no legal requirement that the owner of the contract return to the purchaser any portion of the difference between the cash purchase price and the contract or time-price, in the event the purchaser pays the balance due on the contract prior to maturity.

Thus in many of the cases brought to the attention of the committee the alleged exorbitant charges on the conditional sales transaction resulted from the fact that the balance due on the contract had been paid in advance of the time specified in the contract. Since the carrying charge on the principal had been computed on the total time allowed for payment in the contract, an earlier payment of the balance on the contract would result in a disproportionate charge for the actual time elapsed between the date of the contract and its payment in full.

There is also nothing in the law at the present time preventing the personal property broker, or other purchaser of such a contract, from "flipping" or changing that contract into a loan transaction providing the two transactions were bona fide, and were not made for the purpose of evading the Personal Property Brokers' Act (8 Ops. A.G. 157).

QUALIFICATION OF LICENSEES

Section 6 of the Personal Property Brokers' Act, prescribes the procedure for filing an application for a license. The application must be filed in writing under oath, on a form prescribed by the Corporation

* Civil Code Section 2981, and 2982, prescribes the form of a contract for the conditional sale of a motor vehicle, and limits the time price differential (the amount the buyer agrees to pay to the seller in excess of the unpaid balance) to 1 percent a month, times the number of months elapsing between the date of the contract and the due date of the last installment.

Commissioner which contains the name and address of the applicant; and if the applicant is a copartnership or association the names of every member thereof; and if the applicant is a corporation the names of each officer and director thereof. It is also required that the application set forth the county, municipality, and address where the business is to be conducted, and such further information as the commissioner may require. An application fee of $100 is required for investigating the application, and an additional sum of $200 as an annual license fee. A bond in the sum of $1,000 is also required.

Section 8 of the act provides that if the commissioner finds the financial responsibility, experience, character and general fitness of the applicant or of its members, officers and directors are such as to command the confidence of the community and to warrant belief that the business will be operated honestly, fairly and efficiently within the purposes of the act, he shall issue a license to such applicant.

When an application is filed pursuant to the above provisions, a notification sheet listing the names submitted on the application is forwarded to the Bureau of Criminal Identification in the Attorney General's Office for clearance. An investigator in the Corporation Commissioner's Office is assigned to make personal inquiry concerning each named individual in his own community. This inquiry includes a review of the police files, the records of the sheriff's office, and of civil actions involving fraud, and interviews with businessmen in the community as to the individual's reputation. Where a name is returned by the Bureau of Criminal Identification as being the same as that of a person having been charged or convicted of a crime, the commissioner undertakes to determine whether the person named is the person charged or convicted as disclosed by the records of the Bureau of Criminal Identification. If he is the same person, further inquiry is then made to determine whether the facts are such that the commissioner should decline to grant the application or refuse to permit the person to engage in the loan business, whether as a licensee or a branch manager. It is the policy of the Corporation Commissioner to refuse any application of an individual who has been convicted of a crime reflecting upon his integrity or honesty.

Out of an estimated 1,200 names submitted to the Bureau of Criminal Identification for checking since December 1, 1948, only four have been identified as persons having a record involving a felony charge. All other names submitted have been reported by the Bureau of Criminal Identification as clear of any charge involving such a crime or the commissioner had determined on the basis of information received by him that the persons identified with the licensee were not the same persons as those reported by the bureau as being charged with such a crime. Of the four persons, three are presently licensed or employed by a licensee. Of these three, one has received a presidential pardon, another was permitted to change his plea to "not guilty" pursuant to Section 1203.4 of the Penal Code and thereupon the case was dismissed, and the third was permitted to be associated with a licensee after his case was informally discussed with a representative of the Attorney General's Office and upon his advice that the crime was not such as could be considered grounds for denial or revocation of a license.

In the course of the investigation conducted by the Attorney General's office, the names of licensees, or the members, directors and officers of licensees were checked against the criminal records of that office. Out of 126 names so investigated 15 were reported by the Attorney General to be felons or persons with criminal records. Further investigation of these cases by this committee disclosed that of the fifteen so reported, eight had previously been reported by the Bureau of Criminal Identification in the Attorney General's office as having no criminal record. Of the fifteen, only three were found to have a record involving a felony charge, which are referred to in the preceding paragraph. Of the remaining twelve cases: One was found to have been charged with the theft of an auto in 1919 when he was 19 years of age. He was released on habeas corpus there being no conviction in the matter. He has been engaged in business in this State since 1926 and the district attorney of the county of his residence recommends him as a man of the highest integrity and honor.

One was found to have been charged with negligent homicide. Since the crime did not reflect upon the individual's honesty or integrity no attempt was made to ascertain the disposition of the charge.

One was arrested on suspicion of impersonating an officer, prosecuted for drunkenness and fined $10, and was later fined $50 on a charge of being drunk in an auto.

One was arrested on a petty theft charge in 1930. Upon inquiry it was reported by the supervisors of the licensee that their employee was bonded, and was not the same person as the one charged. Upon further investigation it was found that the employee was the same person as the one arrested, the licensee was so notified, and the employee resigned.

One was reported with having been charged with battery. This individual has not applied for a renewal of his license for 1949 however.

One was charged with petty theft for taking two decks of playing cards while intoxicated. He was released without prosecution or conviction.

One was arrested on suspicion of burglary, but was released without prosecution or conviction.

One was arrested on suspicion of bookmaking, but was released without prosecution or conviction.

Two were reported by the Bureau of Criminal Identification in December 1948 and January 1949, respectively, as having no record of a conviction.

Two were found to be persons with similar names to licensees, but were not the same persons.

OPERATION OF OTHER BUSINESSES BY LICENSEES

Under the provisions of Section 16 of the act, no licensee is permitted to conduct the business of making loans under the act within any office, room, or place of business in which any other business is solicited or conducted except as may be authorized in writing by the commissioner upon his finding that the character of such other business is such that the granting of such authority would not facilitate evasions of the act.

Pursuant to this provision, it has been the practice of the Corporation Commissioner to approve any application to engage in a legitimate business which would not be inimicable to the interests of the borrowers.

The most common business enterprises engaged in by licensees under the act are insurance agencies and brokerages, mortgage businesses, and the purchasing of conditional sales contracts and other types of commercial paper. The licensee is expressly permitted to receive commissions as a licensed insurance broker or agent for insurance placed at standard rates (Paragraph 6, Section 20). Commissions thus received are not deemed to be charges in connection with any loan, and insurance so written is not deemed a collateral sale, purchase, or agreement when the policy is payable to the borrower or any member of his family, even though the customary mortgagee clause is attached or the license is a co-assured, provided that such insurance is sold at standard rates by a duly licensed insurance agent.

One instance was called to the attention of the committee where a licensee, as a condition to the granting of a loan, required the prospective borrower to join an automobile club. Although Paragraph 5, Section 20, of the act apparently prohibits collateral sales agreements or contracts, Paragraph 6 of that section provides that any profit or advantage obtained by a collateral sale shall be deemed to be charges for the purpose of regulation under the act. In the instance cited, loans were made by the licensee at a rate of .85 of 1 percent which, when added to any incidental profit from the collateral agreement, did not exceed the statutory rate of 2½ percent on the first $100 and 2 percent on the balance up to $300.

RATES AND LOAN LIMITATIONS

Under the present law, personal property brokers can lend any amount of money, and those loans in excess of $5,000 are exempt from some of the restrictions of the act. The rates that licensees may charge, however, are limited only as to loans of $300 or less. On loans of $300 or less, they are permitted to charge 2½ percent per month on the unpaid principal balance of a loan not in excess of $100, and 2 percent per month on any remainder of such unpaid principal balance up to $300. Where the property securing the loan is insured against loss in favor of the licensee, however, the rate cannot exceed 2 percent per month on the unpaid principal balance of the entire loan up to $300. There is no limitation on charges which a licensee may make for the loan of money in excess of $300. Although some controversy on this question existed at the time of the hearings by this committee the recent decision of the Supreme Court of California in the case of Carter vs. Seaboard Finance Co., 33 A. C. 541, has settled all doubt in the matter. The court holds that the Corporation Commissioner has no power to establish the rate of interest or charges on loans in excess of $300 by administrative rule or regulation; and that until the Legislature exercises the power granted to it by the Constitution to regulate such charges there is no restriction on interest charges or charges on loans in excess of $300.

It was not possible in the time available to the committee to analyze thoroughly the statistical data relating to the business transacted by licensees under the Personal Property Brokers' Act. Some significant figures (submitted to the committee on behalf of the California Loan and Finance Association), based on a partially completed recapitulation of reports filed by licensees under the act for the one-year period ending September 30, 1948, which are pertinent to a consideration of loan, and rate limitations are set forth herein:

Out of 395,195 loans made (by 272 Licensees)

230,058	were in the amount of $300 or less
77,609	were in amounts from $301 to $500

20,823	were in amounts from 1,001 to 5,000

Of these loans 94.42 percent were made at interest rates of $2\frac{1}{2}$ percent on the first \$100 and 2 percent on amounts in excess of \$100, or at 2 percent for the entire loan.

REGULATION OF LICENSEES

In addition to the thorough investigation of applicants for original and renewal licenses under the Personal Property Brokers' Act, each licensee is given an annual regulatory audit by the Corporation Commissioner. The personnel of the Division of Corporations does not permit a complete audit of all loan transactions negotiated by each licensee, and such audits are therefore limited to an examination of only a small portion of the total individual accounts, verification of the annual reports filed by the licensee, and examination for violations of the requirements of the Personal Property Brokers' Act.

The Division of Corporations has total personnel of 112 employees engaged in the administration of 12 separate acts, including the Corporate Securities Act, Industrial Loan Act, Personal Property Brokers' Act, California Small Loan Act, the Credit Union Act, the Check Sellers and Cashiers Act, and the Securityholders Protective Act. There are approximately ten deputies, auditors and investigators engaged full time in the administration of the Personal Property Brokers' Act. To check all loan transactions would require the full time services of approximately one hundred twenty-six individuals.

The charges on a loan are computed at the contract rate on the unpaid principal balance, for the actual number of days elapsed. Such a computation must be made with respect to each payment on each loan. It is inevitable that in the course of such a large number of detailed computations, numerous errors occur, which are evidenced by the regulatory audits made by the Corporation Commissioner's office. These errors result in overcharges and undercharges with almost equal frequency, and generally involve small amounts of a few cents.

Errors in the computation of charges in connection with a loan transaction which are found in the course of an examination are called to the attention of the licensee, and adjustments are required. Where evidence of an intentional violation of the act is disclosed a hearing is scheduled for the suspension or revocation of the license of the licensee. Between January 1, 1939, and December 31, 1948, such actions have resulted in the revocation of 123 licenses, and suspension of the licensee in 29 cases.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Your committee recommends:

1. That Chapters 952 and 953 of the Statutes of 1939 be repealed. These chapters enact a personal property brokers act and small loans act, respectively, which duplicate later acts enacted at the same session. The presence of two duplicate acts in the statutes causes confusion and serves no useful purpose.

2. That the Personal Property Brokers Act (Chapter 1044, Statutes 1939) be amended to require all owners, members of partnerships or associations, officers and directors of corporations, and managers of applicants for licenses to be fingerprinted.

3. That an adequate provision be placed in the Personal Property Brokers Act vesting the administrator with authority to take custodial possession of books and records of a licensee for due cause, similar to such provision now contained in the Corporate Securities Act.

4. That Section 2982 of the Civil Code which limits the time price differential that may be charged in the conditional sale of an automobile, be amended to require a refund of any unearned portion of such charge in the event of a prepayment of the contract by the purchaser.

5. That the Personal Property Brokers Act be amended to provide a rate of charge (including interest, brokerage and all other charges) of 2½ percent per month on loans up to $100 in amount; 2 percent per month on loans from $100.01 to $500; and 10 percent per annum from $500.01 to $5,000; and to provide that there is no rate limitation on loans in excess of $5,000.

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, March 31, 1949

Hon. Sam L. Collins

Speaker of the Assembly

Hon. Goodwin J. Knight

President of the Senate

Members of the Senate and Assembly

I concur in and endorse the majority report of the Joint Legislative Committee on Lending Transactions except with respect to the rate limitation on loans recommended therein.

It is my considered opinion that the act should provide for a maximum rate charge of 10 percent per annum on loan balances above $300, to insure protection to borrowers. My analysis of the financial statements and reports submitted to this committee clearly indicate that such a limitation on rate charges would allow the lenders a fair and adequate return upon their investment.

It is also my opinion that the evidence presented to the committee indicates a need for a statutory provision to require a pro rata refund of the unearned portion of the difference between the cash price and the time price, which is charged on the sale of personal property under a conditional sales contract in the event of the prepayment of the contract. The reasons justifying such recommendation as to conditional sales of automobiles adopted in the majority report of the committee, in my opinion apply with equal force to the conditional sale of other types of personal property as well.

It is for the above reasons only that I have not signed the majority report of the committee, and herewith respectfully submit this minority report.

Respectfully submitted,

DONALD L. GRUNSKY, Member
Joint Legislative Committee on Lending Transactions

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, March 31, 1949

Hon. Goodwin J. KnightPresident of the SenateHon. Sam L. CollinsSpeaker of the AssemblyMembers of the Senate and Assembly

As a member of the Joint Legislative Committee on Lending Transactions, I have signed and concur in the majority report filed by the committee. I believe, however, that an additional recommendation should be made to the Legislature.

The committee has recommended that the law relating to the conditional sale of automobiles be amended to require a refund of any unearned charges added to the sales price for the purchase under a conditional sales contract, in the event of payment of the contract prior to maturity.

I believe that the facts presented to the committee during the course of its hearings substantiate the need for similar legislation which would be applicable to the conditional sale of other types of personal property as well as to automobiles. I therefore recommend that such legislative action be taken.

Respectfully submitted,

THOMAS F. KEATING, Member

Hon. William P. Rich, ChairmanJoint Legislative Committee on Lending TransactionsState Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR SENATOR: In accordance with our agreement at the last meeting of the committee, I have signed the majority report and concur with the majority of the committee. However, I would like to point out that it is my opinion that the committee should have made no recommendations regarding the rates and ceilings on loans, as I feel that this matter should be decided by the Members of the Legislature, as a whole, after receiving all the information and statistics accumulated by the committee.

Would you please attach this letter to the report when you file it with the Legislature?

With best regards, I remain,

Sincerely yours,

JONATHAN J. HOLLIBAUGH

Letter of Transmittal

SENATE CHAMBER, STATE CAPITOL, SACRAMENTO, April 4, 1949

Hon. Goodwin J. Knight, President of the Senate

Senate Chamber, State Capitol
Sacramento, California

MR. PRESIDENT: Your Senate Investigating Committee on Education was created by Senate Resolution No. 71 and continued by Senate Resolution No. 114, of the 1947 Regular Session of the Legislature, and the following members were appointed to serve thereon:

Nelson S. Dilworth, Chairman	-----Thirty-seventh District
Hugh P. Donnelly	-----Twenty-second District
Chris N. Jespersen	-----Twenty-ninth District
Fred Weybret	-----Twenty-fifth District
J. Howard Williams	-----Thirty-second District

Following the establishment of the Senate Investigating Committee on Education in 1947, the committee conferred with Dr. John C. Almack and solicited his services to make a professional study of the legal and technical foundation of the educational institutions of this State, together with a review of the current operation of the Public School System.

Dr. Almack refused any compensation of any kind and took a leave of absence from his position as professor at Stanford University for four months to make the required research and study. The committee is greatly indebted to Dr. Almack for his very scholarly and thorough presentation submitted herewith. He has assembled and collated a unique factual presentation of the present problems faced by the State in the educational field with a well selected group of comments by distinguished authorities. Along with all this, he has given us the benefit of his own considered comment and recommendations, the fruit of a lifetime of effective and courageous service to the advancement of education.

Dr. John C. Almack holds the following degrees: B.A. and M.A., University of Oregon; Ph.D., Stanford University. He is the author of "Education for Citizenship," "Research and Thesis Writing," "The School Board Member," "Modern School Administration," "Hygiene of the School Child" (with L. M. Terman), "Problems of the Teaching Profession" (with A. R. Lang), "The Beginning Teacher" (with A. R. Lang), "History of the United States" (with E. D. Adams), also three books directed against narcotics, three books on life guidance, and others. He collaborated in the preparation of the Stanford Spelling Series and the American Health Series. He has made and participated in many school surveys.

Dr. Almack has served for 10 years (1935-1945) on the Board of Education, Palo Alto Schools. He has been at Stanford since 1921.

This partial report consists of two main parts. The first presents a view of the educational task of the State; the second deals with ways and means of meeting educational needs in the common schools. In particular, emphasis is given to school organization, the legal basis of education, school expenditures, and to the position of the State in educational progress.

Data was obtained chiefly from the Office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, specifically through the assistance of the Division of Research and Statistics; and from the office of county superintendent of schools in the various counties. Financial statistics of districts were contributed by certain county auditors. Materials on attendance and measurement of achievement were collected from district superintendents. Laws governing adoption of textbooks were obtained from the State Department of Education.

The committee herewith expresses its thanks and appreciation to all who gave their time and efforts to cooperate in the inquiry. A further report by the committee on other phases of education will be submitted in a few days.

Respectfully submitted,

NELSON, S. DILWORTH, Chairman
HUGH P. DONNELLY
FRED WEYBRET
CHRIS N. JESPERSEN
J. HOWARD WILLIAMS

Letter of Transmittal ordered printed in the Journal and the partial report ordered printed in the Appendix to the Journal.

For this purpose, the board may call a hearing in accordance with the provisions of this act relating to disciplinary proceedings.

9687. In addition to proof of honesty, truthfulness and good reputation required of an applicant for a cemetery license, the board shall ascertain by written examination that the applicant, and, in case of a copartnership or corporation applicant for a cemetery broker's license, that each officer, agent or member thereof through whom it proposes to act as a cemetery licensee has:

The board may, in its discretion, waive the examination of any applicant for a cemetery broker's license who held an unrevoked or unsuspended cemetery license on June 30th of the preceding fiscal year as an individual broker, an officer of a corporation, or member of a copartnership. The board may waive the examination of any applicant for a cemetery salesman's license who held an unrevoked or unsuspended cemetery salesman's license on June 30th of the preceding fiscal year and who previously qualified by passing a written examination.

9704. An application on the form prescribed by the board for the renewal of any unrevoked and unsuspended license filed before midnight of June 30th of the year for which such revoked and unsuspended license was issued, accompanied by the applicable renewal fee, entitles the applicant to continue operating under his existing license after its usual expiration date, if not previously suspended or revoked, and until such date as he is notified in writing that the application has been granted or denied.

9705. The board shall issue, without examination, to any person who otherwise qualifies, a temporary salesman's license, good for a period of three months from the date of issuance, irrespective of the fact that the fiscal year may terminate within such three months. An applicant shall not be entitled to more than one temporary license without examination.

9706. No cemetery license gives authority to do any act specified in this act to any person other than the person to whom the license is issued.

9707. When a cemetery brokerage license is issued to a cemetery brokerage corporation, if it desires any of its officers other than the officer through whom it is already licensed to act under its license as a cemetery broker, it shall procure an additional license for each such officer. 9709. The cemetery licenses of both broker and salesman shall be prominently displayed in the office of the broker

The cemetery salesman's license shall remain in the possession of the licensed cemetery broker employer until canceled or until the salesman leaves the employ of the broker.

9710. Immediately upon the salesman's withdrawal from the employ of the broker, the broker shall return the salesman's license to the board for cancellation. A license canceled but not suspended or revoked may be reinstated within the fiscal year upon receipt of application therefor and the fee for the reinstatement of the license.

9711. Every licensed cemetery broker shall have and maintain a definite place of business in this State which shall serve as his office for the transaction of business. No cemetery license authorizes the licensee to do business except from the location stipulated in the cemetery license.

Notice in writing shall be given the board of change of business location of a cemetery broker, whereupon the board shall issue a new cemetery license for the unexpired period. The change or abandonment of business location without notification to the board shall automatically cancel the license theretofore issued.

9712. If the applicant for a cemetery broker's license maintains more than one place of business within the State he shall apply for and procure an additional license for each branch office so maintained by him. Every such application shall state the name of the person and the location of the place of business for which such license is desired.

The board may determine whether or not a broker is doing a cemetery brokerage business at or from any particular location which requires him to have a branch office license.

9713. Each cemetery broker shall erect and maintain a sign in a conspicuous place on the premises to indicate that he is a licensed cemetery broker and his name shall be clearly shown thereon. The size and place of the sign shall conform to regulations that may be adopted by the board.

9714. For a violation of any of the provisions of Sections 9709, 9710, 9711, and 9713, the board may temporarily suspend or permanently revoke the license of the cemetery licensee in accordance with the provisions of this act relating to disciplinary proceedings.

9715. Application in writing for a certificate of authority may be made by a cemetery corporation to the board accompanied by the fee provided for in this act.

9716. The board may require such proof as it deems advisable concerning the compliance by such applicant to all the laws, rules, regulations, ordinances and orders applicable to him.

Article 6. Disciplinary Proceedings

9725. Upon grounds provided in this article and the other articles of this act, the license of any cemetery licensee and the certificate of authority of every cemetery corporation may be revoked or suspended in accordance with the provisions of this article.

9726. The board may, upon its own motion, and shall, upon the verified complaint in writing of any person, investigate the actions of any person engaged in the business or acting in the capacity of a cemetery licensee, and may temporarily suspend or permanently revoke a license at any time where the licensee, within the immediately preceding three years, while a cemetery licensee in performing or attempting to perform any of the acts specified in this act, has been guilty of any of the following:

(f) The practice of claiming or demanding a fee, compensation or commission under any exclusive agreement authorizing or employing a licensee to sell, buy or exchange cemetery property for compensation or commission where such agreement does not contain a definite, specified date of final and complete termination.

(g) The claiming or taking by a licensee of any secret or undisclosed amount of compensation, commission or profit or the failure of a licensee to reveal to the employer of such licensee the full amount of such licensee's compensation, commission or profit under any agreement authorizing or employing such licensee to sell, buy or exchange cemetery property for compensation or commission prior to or coincident with the signing of such agreement evidencing the meeting of the minds of the contracting parties, regardless of the form of such agreement, whether evidenced by documents in an escrow or by any other or different procedure.

(h) The use by a licensee of any provision allowing the licensee an option to purchase in an agreement authorizing or employing such licensee to sell, buy, or exchange cemetery property for compensation or commission, except when such licensee prior to or coincident with election to exercise such option to purchase reveals in writing to the employer the full amount of licensee's profit and obtains the written consent of the employer approving the amount of such profit.

(i) Any other conduct, whether of the same or a different character than specified in this section, which constitutes fraud or dishonest dealing.

The misrepresentations and false statements mentioned in this section include also misrepresentation and false statements as to other property than that which the cemetery licensee may be selling or attempting to sell.

9727. The board may suspend or revoke the license of any cemetery licensee who, within three years immediately preceding has done any of the following:

9728. When any salesman is discharged by his employer for a violation of any of the provisions of this article prescribing a ground for disciplinary action, a verified written statement of the facts with reference thereto shall be filed forthwith with the board by the employer and, if the employer fails to notify the board as required by this section, the board may temporarily suspend or permanently revoke the cemetery license of the employer in accordance with the provisions of this act.

9729. The board may deny, suspend or revoke the cemetery license of a corporation as to any officer or agent acting under its cemetery license, and the cemetery license of a copartnership as to any member acting under its cemetery license, without revoking the cemetery license of the corporation or of the copartnership.

9730. The fees for cemetery licenses at all periods of the fiscal year is the same as provided in this article. All cemetery license fees are payable in advance of issuing the licenses and at the time of filing the application. Except a temporary salesman's license, for which other provision is made, all licenses shall be issued for the fiscal year and shall expire on June 30th of each fiscal year at midnight.

9731. If a person fails to apply for a renewal of his license prior to midnight of June 30th of the year for which the license was issued, no renewal license shall be issued to him except upon payment of a renewal fee in double the amount otherwise required for renewal.

No person who fails to renew his license within one year of the expiration date can engage in any of the activities authorized by such a license unless he first files the application required for an original license, pays the original license fee, and otherwise complies with all of the provisions of this act pertaining to the issuance of an original license.

9732. The definitions contained in this article are solely for the purposes of this article.

9733. An original cemetery broker's license is a cemetery license issued to a person who did not have a cemetery broker's license on June 30th of the fiscal year previous to the fiscal year for which the license is issued.

9750. The amount of fees prescribed for a license or certificate of authority under this act is that fixed by the following provisions of this article.

9751. The original cemetery broker's license fee is twenty dollars ($20).

The board may use two dollars ($2) of the fee to secure a credit report or investigation of the applicant.

9752. The original cemetery broker's license fee is payable at the time of the filing of an application for an original cemetery broker's license.

If the applicant fails the required written examination, he may be permitted to take another examination upon payment of an examination fee of ten dollars ($10). This fee is in addition to any original cemetery broker's fee previously paid, and no other fee either for the examination or for any original license issued to the applicant on successfully passing the examination shall be required.

No part of any original cemetery broker's license fee is refundable. It is deemed earned upon receipt by the board, whether the accompanying application for license is complete or incomplete.

9753. For a renewal cemetery broker's license the annual fee is five dollars ($5).

9754. If the licensee is a cemetery brokerage corporation, the license issued to it entitles one officer only, on behalf of such corporation, to engage in the business of cemetery broker without the payment of further fee, such officer to be designated in the application of the corporation for a license. For each other officer of a licensed cemetery brokerage corporation, through whom it engages in the business of cemetery broker, the annual renewal fee is five dollars ($5), in addition to the fee paid by the corporation.

9755. If the licensee is a cemetery brokerage copartnership, the license issued to it entitles one member only of the copartnership to engage on behalf of the copartnership in the business of cemetery broker, which member shall be designated in the application of the copartnership for a license. The board may use two dollars ($2) of the fee to secure a credit report or investigation of the applicant.

9757. An original cemetery salesman's license fee is payable on each filing of an application for an original cemetery salesman's license.

If the applicant fails the required written examination, he may be permitted to take another examination upon payment of another original cemetery salesman's license fee.

9758. No part of any original cemetery salesman's license fee is refundable. It is deemed earned upon receipt by the board, whether the accompanying application for license is complete or incomplete.

9759. For a renewal cemetery salesman's license the annual fee is two dollars ($2).

As used in this section, "reinstatement of a license" means the reissuance of a canceled cemetery broker's license, or a cemetery salesman's license which was canceled during the year for which it was issued upon the salesman's withdrawal from the employ of a cemetery broker.

9765. Every cemetery corporation shall pay an annual regulatory charge to be fixed by the board at not more than twenty-five dollars ($25), plus an additional charge of not more than fifteen cents ($0.15) per interment made during the preceding full calendar year, which charges shall be deposited in the Cemetery Board Fund.

9766. Upon payment of the charges set forth the board shall issue a certificate of authority to the cemetery corporation.

9767. Failure to pay the regulatory charge fixed by the board prior to April 1, 1950, and prior to February 1st for any succeeding year automatically suspends the certificate of authority. Such certificate may be restored upon payment to the board of the prescribed charges.

9768. It is a misdemeanor for any cemetery corporation to make any interments without a valid, subsisting and suspended certificate of authority. Each interment shall be a separate violation.

"SEC. 2. This act is an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety within the meaning of Article IV of the Constitution and shall go into immediate effect. The facts constituting such necessity are:

The amount of money allowed to school districts furnishing individual instruction to physically handicapped adults should be placed on an equal basis with the amount for furnishing such instruction to physically handicapped minors. The present law provides that each clock hour of teaching time devoted to the individual instruction of such minors counts as one day of attendance. No such provision is made for the equally important individual instruction furnished to physically handicapped adults with the result that as little as one-fourth as much money is available per pupil for the instruction of the adults as is available for the minors.

In order that school districts furnishing individual instruction to physically handicapped adults confined in hospitals may provide more adequate instruction for the school year commencing in the fall of this year it is necessary for this bill to take effect immediately since contracts between the school districts and teachers are entered in May and it is often impossible to hire teachers later in the year."

(c) The [tabulation] tentative budget may also contain an amount to be known as the undistributed reserve. The funds in the undistributed reserve shall be available for appropriation by a two-thirds vote of the members of the governing board, to cover expenditures that have not been provided for or that may have been insufficiently provided for, or for unforeseen requirements as they may arise.

SEC. 3. Section 6302 of said code is amended to read:

of the State Controller, be transferred from the General Fund to the College Auxiliary Enterprise Revolving Fund.

On the effective date of this act, an amount equal to all charges theretofore paid from the support appropriation for any state college for the operation, maintenance, and repair of any student housing facilities at such state college which were acquired pursuant to the Act of Congress cited herein shall, on order of the State Controller, be charged against the College Auxiliary Enterprise Revolving Fund, and shall be credited to, and in augmentation of, the General Fund appropriation for the support of such state college from which such charges were originally paid.

SEC. 5. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety within the meaning of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect. The facts constituting such necessity are:

Upon the adoption of the Act of Congress cited in Section 4 of this act, it was necessary for the State of California, through the Director of Education, to take over the responsibility for the operation and maintenance of student housing facilities theretofore established at various state colleges and operated and maintained with federal funds, in order to continue the availability of such urgently needed facilities during this time of critical housing shortage.

Under present provisions of the law, it is necessary that such student housing facilities be operated and maintained from General Fund support appropriations until legislation is adopted to provide for the financing of the costs of operation and maintenance out of the rents, charges, or other fees collected in connection with such facilities. Because of the large increases in governmental costs necessarily payable from the General Fund, it is urgent that this bill take effect immediately, in order to place such student housing facilities on a self-supporting basis, and in order to reimburse the General Fund without further delay for the costs of operation and maintenance heretofore paid from the General Fund, but which, under this bill, will become chargeable against income heretofore collected in connection with such facilities."

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Senator Rich asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to have the following report submitted by Assemblyman Ralph C. Dills, Vice Chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Lending Transactions, printed in the Journal:

ASSEMBLY CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE

Hon. Goodwin J. KnightPresident of the SenateHon. Sam L. CollinsSpeaker of the AssemblyMembers of the Senate and Assembly:

I herewith submit a report as Vice Chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Lending Transactions, created by Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 14, Resolutions Chapter 30, Statutes of 1949, and continued by Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 37, Resolutions Chapter 82, Statutes of 1949.

Respectfully submitted,

RALPH C. DILLS, Vice Chairman

REPORT OF THE VICE CHAIRMAN OF THE JOINT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE ON LENDING TRANSACTIONS

(Established By Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 14)

I

RECOMMENDATIONS

The following recommendations on the general subject of lending transactions in California are respectfully submitted to the Legislature:

- I. An investigation of lending transactions which will be a real investigation, "full, fair, and impartial," should be conducted by a committee of the Legislature composed of Members who have the time and the desire to gather all relevant facts and to expose all law violators and those who connive at law evasion.
- II. Section 4, subdivision d, of the Personal Property Brokers Act, as amended by Chap. 1220, Stats. 1945, Sec. 1, should be repealed, because it is the cause of and the legal excuse for most astounding and obnoxious lending practices.
- III. The maximum interest allowable on all loans in excess of $300 should be fixed by the Legislature at not to exceed 10 percent per annum.
- IV. Lenders operating under the Personal Property Brokers Act should not be permitted to make any loans in excess of $600, nor to take real property as security.
- V. The administration and supervision of the Personal Property Brokers Act should be transferred from the Corporation Commissioner, who has utterly failed in his duty to protect small borrowers, to the Superintendent of Banks or some other proper agency and adequate personnel provided to give effective supervision of loan brokers, which supervision now under the existing law is a charge against the loan brokers and not an expense to be borne by the State of California.
- VI. The Personal Property Brokers Act should be amended to prevent a loan broker from maintaining his offices in association or conjunction with any other business or where any other business is conducted or transacted.

- VII. The advertising of loan companies should be rigorously supervised to prevent the circulation of false, misleading, or deceptive statements, but a provision of the law authorizing such regulation by the Corporation Commissioner should not be employed by him to prevent a loan broker from advertising that he gives low or the lowest rates in the community under the act, when in fact such advertising is truthful.
- VIII. All loans made under the act should be checked or investigated at least once a year.
- IX. If an investigation of the records of a loan broker discloses any considerable number of law violations or any considered practice or policy of law evasion, every license of such a broker should be revoked and never restored.
- X. A more vigorous, consistent, and alert policy of protecting the small borrower should be immediately inaugurated by Governor Earl Warren, who professes to be the enemy of loan sharks.
- XI. The Attorney General should immediately take court action to have the licenses revoked of all persons or firms found violating the law.

II

BACKGROUND AND REASONS FOR PRESENT LEGISLATIVE INVESTIGATION

The Present Situation in California

Abundant evidence exists to prove that today in California with respect to lending transactions involving amounts under $300 as well as over $300:

1. Widespread violations and evasions of the Personal Property Brokers Act occur;
2. The provisions of the law designed to protect small borrowers are not vigorously enforced by state officials but on the contrary are ignored and sabotaged;
3. An apparent conspiracy with master mind legal direction is now cleverly nullifying the laws intended to control the loan shark.

MAGNITUDE OF LENDING TRANSACTIONS UNDER PERSONAL PROPERTY BROKERS ACT

The importance of the subject investigated by the committee is indicated by the following data furnished by Edwin M. Daugherty on February 2, 1949:

Twelve Months' Period Ending September 30, 1948

Total number of licenses under act.....	439
Total number of firms or persons licensed.....	154
Total amount loaned.....	$182,891,061.51
Total number of loans made.....	451,023
Average amount of each loan.....	$405.50

One company reported only one loan of under $5,000 and 62 loans comprising a total in excess of $1,300,000, for an average per loan of $21,113.96.

Testimony before the committee revealed that this same company made a single loan of $340,000 taking both real and personal property as security.

Thus an act designed to protect small borrowers who give personal property as security has been perverted into an instrument whereby tremendous loans can be made with practically no controls over the operations of the lender, no ceiling as to the interest charged, and no danger of prosecution for usury.

REQUEST TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

On November 22, 1948, I addressed a letter to the Attorney General of California, in which I described conditions then existing and still existing with reference to the administration of the loans designed to protect small borrowers.

It is to be noted that all charges made in my letter to the Attorney General have been substantiated by evidence subsequently made available to the public as a result of the investigations demanded by me.

RESPONSE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL TO MY LETTER OF NOVEMBER 22, 1948

Before the convening of the Legislature in January, 1949, the Attorney General employed Mr. George W. Rochester as a Special Deputy Attorney General to examine the facts alleged in my communication.

Mr. Rochester supervised an investigation, necessarily limited in scope because of lack of time and funds, but he found abundant evidence supporting my allegations.

It was revealed that violations and evasions now occurring fall into seven classes, which are explained and analyzed in detail in his full report which was given to the committee and which is incorporated hereafter.

SEVEN TYPES OF VIOLATIONS

- I. The use of a "waiver" letter on insurance,
- II. Receipt of income from insurance commissions, when licensee is not insurance broker or agent,
- III. Diverting insurance commissions as compensation for work done or services rendered as licensee,
- IV. Collaboration with furniture, piano, or other dealers who write 1 percent per month conditional sales contracts,
- V. Failure to post rates plainly,
- VI. Overcharging,
- VII. Requiring collateral sale or agreement as precedent to loan.

III

THE NEED FOR A REAL LEGISLATIVE INVESTIGATION

It is evident that no serious or determined effort was made to conduct a "full, fair and impartial" investigation of the operation of personal property brokers as required by the joint resolution creating the committee.

At the first meeting of the committee a resolution was presented by me calling for the appointment of subcommittees with authority to employ needed personnel to assist the committee to study, analyze, and ascertain all facts and matters relating to this subject. Although this is the usual and customary procedure, the majority of the committee voted down the resolution.

At the second meeting on January 28, 1949, the majority of the committee over my protest and opposing vote hired a young attorney as counsel for the committee who admittedly had no investigating experience. He admitted that at the time he was employed he was the attorney for a personal property broker and in fact had a case pending for the loan company upon which a hearing was to be held on March 10, 1949.

It is further significant to note that this attorney was recommended by a firm of attorneys with whom he was formerly associated and who had filed a brief in behalf of the loan company in the case of Carter v. Seaboard Finance Co. then pending before the California Supreme Court.

I am sure the public approves of my protesting against the employment of one who at the time was retained by one of the very companies that we might desire to investigate!

The majority turned over to this young loan company attorney the entire matter of the type, kind and nature of the investigation, and but for two or three named individuals he selected those whom we were to question.

It later developed that he recommended the hiring of three employees—two accountants and a secretary. The testimony of one of these employees discloses either an apparent failure of the committee counsel to understand the nature of his duties or a deliberate determination to make only a casual or surface examination.

In response to committee counsel's question "what instructions were given or requests made of you with respect to carrying out of your activities?" the certified public accountant hired by him stated:

"I was requested to make a limited review or test in collaboration with auditors of the Corporation Department to determine what the regulatory examinations of the commissioner's staff is designed to develop. I was instructed to report any findings I developed."

His first step, he reported, was to go to the office of the Corporation Commissioner, where he met the commissioner and his assistants. He was given a desk in the office and was treated with every courtesy by the staff of the commissioner.

Five loan companies were selected but only four inspected. This committee employee was accompanied and assisted by the Corporation Commissioner's aid.

Only 10 out of 889 loan accounts with a face amount of $392,000 were checked by them at the first company. Ten out of 511 loans of $417,000 were inspected at the second place.

It is to be noted that at this second establishment there was on file a letter from a staff member of the commissioner reporting 15 "exceptions" or violations disclosed by a prior regulatory audit.

At the third place, only three or four loan accounts out of 372 for a face value of "some ten thousand odd dollars" were examined.

At the fourth place 20 loans out of 69,525 accounts of a principal amount of $33,672,000 were examined. This was a branch of a chain of 33 licensees operating in California and also in about twenty other states. There were five overcharges and three so-called undercharges disclosed on this sampling of but 20 loans. Two irregularities of another nature were also noted.

No satisfactory reason was given for the failure to investigate the fifth company. This particular company was chosen as representative of those few loan brokers operating solely a money-lending business and having no other type of business on the same premises. Just another example of an important assignment left undone by the committee's counsel!

The foregoing summary of the "investigation" as directed by the committee counsel points up the pitifully inadequate effort which he made to ascertain the complete facts.

It is difficult to conclude other than that the counsel either had no ability or no desire to perform his duties in a thorough and complete manner. The type of witnesses whom he selected and the manner in which they were interrogated clearly manifested an intent to develop testimony favorable to the Corporation Commissioner. His efforts to protect the commissioner were so apparent that the special attorney general at one point was constrained to remark: "You seem to be attorney for the Commissioner of Corporations." (Page 33, February 19, 1949, transcript.)

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S REPORT ON LENDING TRANSACTIONS IN CALIFORNIA

The report of the Attorney General on facts revealed by his investigation of lending transactions in California follows. Introductory material and exhibits in the appendix are not here included because of space limitations. In order to emphasize certain most significant findings and revelations, portions of the report are italicized which do not appear in italics in the original. Every instance where emphasis is added is indicated.

TEXT OF ATTORNEY GENERAL'S REPORT

Therefore, we submit to you gentlemen the result of our investigation and will explain to you what we found by our work up to this time:

1. Other Businesses

With the exception of the larger five or six loan companies, a sizable segment of licensees engage in other businesses in addition to the loan business operated under the license granted them by the Corporation Commissioner.

This is permissible under the last paragraph of Section 16 of the Personal Property Brokers Act, by receiving the authority in writing from the Corporation Commissioner to do so. From our investigation of the files of the commissioner we found no instance where such authority was ever denied a licensee. (Emphasis added.)

The other businesses in the majority of cases were insurance agencies or brokers, mortgage businesses or the business of handling and financing conditional sales contracts and consolidating written indebtedness of various kinds and classes.

These other businesses usually require a separate license from the municipality wherein they are conducted and the Insurance Code of California requires insurance brokers and agents to have a license. In a great majority of cases the licensees we interviewed had no city business licenses to conduct these businesses, other than the lending of money, and we saw few licenses from the Insurance Commissioner permitting them to operate an insurance business.

2. Some Methods for Added Charges

The Personal Property Brokers Act provides in Section 20, paragraph 6, that any profit of any kind whatsoever that a personal property broker receives in connection with any loan of $300 or less shall be deemed a charge. Under Section 17 all charges shall be included in the rate of 2½ percent per month on the first $100 and 2 percent per month on the unpaid balance of $300. The only exception is that a licensee can receive commissions on insurance written but only as a licensed insurance agent or broker. If the insurance is taken out in its favor, then it must waive the one-half of 1 percent on the first $100 of the loan. Likewise it must waive the one-half of 1 percent on the first $100 if the property is insured in its favor or there is a loss-payable clause running to the benefit of the licensee in the policy.

We found many instances of violations ranging from acceptance of portions of an agent or broker's commission by the licensee without any license from the Insurance Commissioner, to a subterfuge of designating an officer or prime employee of the loan company as a solicitor who ostensibly receives the commission from the personal property broker. (Emphasis added.) The fact in most cases is that the commission is received as part of the salary for services of the officer or employee to the personal property broker, thereby unlawfully enriching and benefiting the personal property broker over and above the legal charge permitted on the loan.

The method of taking the insurance commission by the licensee through the explained salary to an employee or officer is contrary to the act, for the act requires that no benefit shall be received by the licensee other than the statutory rate. The licensee itself must be the insurance broker or agent to lawfully retain the insurance commission.

The device of crediting the insurance commission to the employee or officer as a solicitor is an unlawful stratagem, (emphasis added) for the act does not recognize a solicitor, a solicitor being defined by Section 34 of the Insurance Code as an employee of an agent or a broker.

So we found in the great majority of cases that the personal property broker received or benefited by an additional (emphasis added) profit from the insurance commission charge in addition to the one-half of 1 percent on the first $100 loan, regardless of whether the insurance insured the personal property broker against loss or that there was a loss-payable clause running to the benefit of the personal property broker in the policy.

We do not want to be understood that all licensees require or compel the borrower to take out new insurance. We will give you an example of the licensee that compels the borrower to take out a new policy of insurance and in addition this licensee compels each borrower to join an automobile club at a cost of $15 extra. Further investigation discloses that the automobile club pays the rent and the salaries of the executives of the personal property broker. This violates Section 20, paragraph 5 of the act. The officer interviewed told us the Corporation Commissioner has known about this for years but has not disapproved the practice. (Emphasis added.)

3. Conditional Sales of Furniture

We found many licensees in close alliance with retail piano or furniture stores who advertise and sell furniture on credit. This connection between the licensee and the retail furniture or piano establishment is so intimate that many furniture and piano stores are furnished a blank form by the personal property broker upon which the purchaser of the furniture or piano signs his contract to pay for the merchandise on the installment plan. In many instances these blank forms contain the name of the licensee and inform the purchaser that his conditional sales contract will be sold to the personal property broker and his payment upon the contract will be paid to that personal property broker.

Here is the practice and procedure followed by the piano and furniture retailers and how the licensee profits on the conditional sales contracts: For example, suppose a buyer buys a furniture commodity but is unable to pay for his purchase in cash. The dealer prepares a conditional sales contract containing all the usual whereases and wherefores of legal verbiage and the intricate description of where title resides during the term of the sales contract. Then is set forth in the blank prepared on the form the financing of the sale. First, the total cash price for the personal property. This is followed by a space providing for a trade-in, if one has been accepted by the dealer. Then we have the net cash purchase price. After that, there is a blank to enter the cash down payment the buyer made, leaving a balance unpaid; add to this the cost of insurance, which is usually sold to the buyer by the dealer or some employee of the dealer. To this amount there is added what is called a "carrying charge." We know of no authority in law for this carrying charge if it exceeds the statutory rate of interest. (Emphasis added.) It usually amounts to 1 percent a month on the total amount of the balance due on the contract plus the insurance cost. With the added carrying charge we now have the total amounts agreed to be paid on certain terms for an agreed amount on agreed subsequent dates.

In 1945, Section 2982 of the Civil Code was amended to give to automobile dealers what is called a "time price differential" which in practice is an addition of 1 percent per month upon the balance due on a purchase price of an automobile. The method used to compute this additional charge is to add 1 percent per month on the unpaid balance at the inception of the contract, times the number of months the contract is agreed to run counting a part of a month a whole month. Here is at least a charge rate of 23 percent per annum, the loan being amortized by the conditional sales agreement. There is nothing in the law, so far as we are able to find, that allows any other mercantile dealer other than an automobile dealer, to add this 1 percent on an executory conditional sales contract. (Emphasis added.)

However, we found this the practice of all piano and furniture dealers who sell on the time payment plan and later discount the contract to a personal property broker. (Emphasis added.)

The last entry on the contract then provides for the balance due, which is now the balance due on the price of the thing bought, plus the insurance premium, plus the "carrying charges" of 1 percent per month. The personal property broker buys this conditional sales contract for the sum due, which is the balance due on the thing purchased and the insurance cost less 1 percent discount. The licensee received the so-called "time price differential" of 1 percent a month thereby balancing the 1 percent discount he paid for the sales contract.

After that the personal property broker writes the borrowing buyer informing him that they own his contract; that payments shall be made at the licensee's place of business, and the letter always assures the borrower that he is welcome to borrow additional money any time he needs it. The borrower is frequently written letters soliciting him to make further loans at any time. In a substantial percentage of cases the borrower during the term of the contract borrows more money. So much so that the personal property broker's trade calls this kind of contract sales business, "builders" for personal loans. (Emphasis added.)

When the purchaser-borrower applies for a personal loan instead of the licensee following the law under which it is permitted to operate its business, and executing a separate loan, it informs the borrower it can lend him more money, but must consolidate the amount he now desires to borrow with the balance due on the conditional sales contract. The personal property broker's trade calls this procedure "flipping" the account. (Emphasis added.)

The new debt, being a personal loan and no longer a conditional sales contract, now costs the borrower $2\frac{1}{2}$ percent a month on the first \$100 and 2 percent on the unpaid balance.

If you gentlemen will scrutinize the transaction you will see that the dealer is usually agent for the personal property broker in arranging the terms and additional charges on the conditional sales contract. Whether he is an agent or the principal, he is guilty of usury when he adds the "time price differential" to the balance due on the purchase price and the same exceeds 10 percent per annum. (Emphasis added.) It is obvious that it does.

If the licensee is the principal of the dealer and the dealer its agent, then the licensee is equally violating the usury law of a maximum of 10 percent per annum in substance by this subterfuge of charging 1 percent per month under the entry—"carrying" charges. When the "flipping" of the sales contract is thereafter made a condition precedent to granting the additional new loan there is an added violation, by reason of the same being a collateral sale or agreement denounced by Section 20, paragraphs 5 and 6 of the act.

If the licensee is not the principal of the dealer but discounts the dealer's paper at 1 percent per month on the balance due on the original purchase plus the insurance charge, it violates the act for the reason the borrower then pays the licensee the 1 percent per month "time price differential" and $2\frac{1}{2}$ percent and 2 percent on the sum total of the balance due on the purchase price, plus carrying charges, when he "flips" the account. The interest then received by the licensee on the conditional sales account, now merged into a personal loan, is approximately 47 percent a year, and more in many cases. (Emphasis added.)

There is another form of conditional sales contract used by many dealers and personal property brokers. This form merely states that such a sum was paid for merchandise and that the amount so paid shall be paid in so many monthly installments, together with the legal prerequisites to make the contract one of conditional sale.

In cases where this sort of contract is used there is no legal way by which one can prove from the fact of the contract that it may be usurious and so the dealer is absolved. But this form of contract allows great flexibility at the time it is discounted by the personal property broker, for the elements of the amount agreed to be paid by the borrower are not itemized. However, when this sort of contract is "flipped" the personal property loan then executed by the licensee usually has the violations hereinabove specifically explained. The statement of the loan does not show these violations but the extra charges are ascertainable by the checks issued to the borrower at the time of the "flip," then cashed and money returned to the licensee.

We have had many licensees, endeavoring to justify the "flip" transformation, tell us that the act will not permit them to make two loans to one borrower because of the prohibition provided in Section 17, paragraph 2, of the act from splitting loans. This has no application if the dealer and the licensee are separate entities. The conditional sales contract is not the loan of the licensee. If, however, the licensee contends that the conditional sales contract and the additional money loaned under the Personal Property Brokers Act is one loan, then it has admitted a conspiracy to violate the act, for, through this "flip" arrangement, the dealer and the licensee have conspired to violate the usury law and the Personal Property Brokers Act. (Emphasis added.)

We found nothing in the files examined in the Corporation Commissioner's office where any action has ever been undertaken to stop these violations of the law. (Emphasis added.)

4. Conditional Sales of Automobiles

The same situation prevails and the operational procedure is followed in almost exact form in automobile conditional sales contracts as we found, and hereinabove described and explained, in the conditional sales contract transaction of furniture and piano dealers and personal property brokers.

It must be remembered that the Legislature in 1945 amended Section 2982 of the Civil Code to legalize the "time-price differential" for only automobile dealers on their conditional sale contracts.

We found the same blank forms in the hands of automobile dealers, with the name of the personal property broker printed right in the contract form. The same solicitation to the purchaser for him to borrow more money and then the same "flipping" device, consolidating or merging the automobile purchase conditional sale contract into a new personal loan at $2\frac{1}{2}$ percent and 2 percent rates on the total contract price, carrying charges and the new amount loaned.

The only difference was that balances to be paid on automobile loans were larger than on furniture or piano loans. The same violations of the law, notwithstanding the 1 percent per month received for the "time-price differential" being legal in automobile contracts. The receipt of this charge added to the balance due on the purchase price of the automobile is a violation by the personal property broker, for the personal property broker can receive only $2\frac{1}{2}$ percent and 2 percent per month on the first \$300, and that includes all charges. This rate of charge is computed upon the purchase price of the merchandise, the insurance cost, the carrying charge plus the actual amount of money loaned when the contract is "flipped" to a new personal loan. So, therefore, when the licensee charged the statutory rate on not alone the amount borrowed but on the accumulated charges and purchase price amount which includes the time-price differential of 1 percent, the licensee violates the act. In most cases where the licensee is financing the automobile dealer it has set the terms of the sale provided, or "floored" the car, and supervised the dealer in all his negotiations leading up to the sale of the car.

Please understand when the licensee makes a personal loan it is not the same as a conditional sales contract agreement. The conditional sales contract agreement by being merged into the personal loan is of no further effect, either in fact or at law. Therefore, the licensee has charged a rate on a charge and has violated Section 17 of the act. The interest or rate usually received by the licensee on a "flipped" conditional sales account, now merged into a personal property loan, is approximately 45 percent a year, and more in many cases.

We found nothing in the files examined in the Corporation Commissioner's office where any action has ever been undertaken to stop these violations of the law. (Emphasis added.)

In no wise can the licensee claim protection under the act inasmuch as the transaction between the dealer and the purchaser on the conditional sales contract does not comply with the requirements of the act, namely, there is no separate statement of the loan showing the name, address, license number of the licensee, or the maturity of the loan contract to be not more than two years. In other words, a conditional sales contract of this class is not a loan under the act.

In addition to the violations described and explained on furniture and piano conditional sales contracts by personal property brokers and which are similarly violated by personal property brokers on automobile conditional sales contracts, there is another section of the act that should be considered.

We will point to it by a typical example of what is known as the "squeeze play": A purchaser bought an automobile and it was necessary for him to finance the balance due of \$2,000. The automobile dealer prepared the usual conditional sales contract adding on insurance and carrying charges or "time-price differential" amounting to \$300. In exactly five days the borrower required a personal loan. However, the licensee required the sales contract to be paid off by refinancing it into a personal property loan, thereby including the \$300 "time-price differential" as a part of the new personal loan with the usual $2\frac{1}{2}$ percent on the first \$100 and the 2 percent per month on the balance consisting of the \$2,000, plus insurance costs, plus the \$300, plus the amount that was borrowed in addition to the original indebtedness. The borrower paid \$300 for the use of a \$2,000 credit for exactly five days, in addition to the usual illegal rate of charge.

There are probably many such violations that could be cited to your committee if we had had the time to collect them. (Emphasis added.)

Also keep in mind that the act, in Section 21, paragraph 2, declares that any loan charge in violation of the rate provided makes the loan void, and "neither the licensee nor any other person shall have any right to collect or receive any principal, interest or charges whatsoever." There is no provision in the act for human error. (Emphasis added.) The generosity of the Legislature in giving the personal property broker this high rate of charge holds him accountable to strict observance and he deals in his business at his peril. It is not like the Industrial Loan Act where provision is made for bona fide error in computation, or as is also in the case of Civil Code, Section 2982, relating to automobile sales contracts.

5. Overcharges on Rates

We found hundreds of reports of auditors to the Corporation Commissioner that accounts of borrowers showed they were being charged more than the legal rate on their loans. Pick up nearly any file in the commissioner's office and you will find these reports. In some instances the commissioner had followed up the overcharge report with a communication to the licensee—and that is all. In most cases, nothing could be found in the file to show any action to compel the licensee to abide by the law, or informing the licensee that such an overcharge voided the loan under the law. (Emphasis added.)

6. The Waiver Letter

When a borrower approaches a licensee for a loan, many times he has insurance on the collateral he offers the licensee for security. If the licensee requires him to provide that the licensee become the beneficiary under the insurance policy or a loss payable clause added to the policy in favor of the licensee, then under the law the licensee cannot charge the one-half of 1 percent on the first $100 of the loan—it can charge only 2 percent.

We have not had time to trace the source of the ingenious method used by the licensee to evade the requirements and get the one-half of 1 percent additional rate, and yet have the benefit of the protection under the policy. However, every licensee examined, with the exception of one, follows the method we will explain. (Emphasis added.)

When the licensee ascertains that the borrower has insurance on the collateral, usually an automobile, the licensee produces the following letter. Mark you, gentlemen, this same letter with hardly the changing of a word has been found to be used by all licensees, but one, that we have examined. Here is the letter:

"GENTLEMEN:

This is to advise that I have this day mortgaged my ----- insured under your policy No. ----- with the (personal property broker).

The ----- company waives all rights and interest in said policy. They do not want to be named as an additional assured nor do they wish a loss payable clause in their favor.

To avoid any misunderstanding in event of loss, please notify me immediately if the foregoing is not acceptable to your company. If I do not hear from you to the contrary, I shall consider that the foregoing meets with your approval and that my policy shall remain in full force and effect.

Very truly yours,

Assured

Approved

----- Company
By-----"

You see this is a waiver of loss liability by the licensee and then it can charge the one-half of 1 percent on the first $100 or 50 cents additional each month that the loan is outstanding. For all practical purposes it is not a waiver of loss liability, for the insurance company places the letter in the file of the assured and if ever a claim is filed by the assured the insurance company for self-protection always notifies the licensee. The insurance company knows of the licensee's loan on the personal property, knows in fact and equity that the licensee may have a claim. When the insurance company notifies the licensee of the claim the licensee will, of course, and does take proper steps to protect its loan. The insurance company having been notified of the lien of the licensee does not care to engage in an interpleader action.

By this subtle procedure the licensee "has his cake and eats it too". It may sound petty—just 50 cents more a month, but when we tell you gentlemen on the basis of the Corporation Commissioner's report of the personal property broker's businesses in 1947 there were approximately 200,166 loans made by the licensees in California whereon the 50 cents could be charged by this method, the licensees then received an added possible $100,083 each month, and enjoyed the quasi-protection on the insurance policies that the waiver letters furnished them. The loan cannot be more than twenty-four months unless "renewed" by a new loan to replace the old loan. So you see there is a gross profit of a possible $2,419,920 to be made by the loan industry through this scheme. (Emphasis added.) These figures are based on the Commissioner's Report of 1947. When we have this report of 1948 with the increase in population, the number of loan accounts will be greatly increased. We say this by judging the increase in loan accounts for 1947 over those in 1946. In 1946 the number of loan accounts outstanding at the end of the year was 185,023. In 1947 they had increased to 416,790.

7. Renewal of Loans

On the average 46 percent of all loans made by a licensee are renewed. (Emphasis added.) This occurs when the borrower cannot make the payments or needs an additional amount of money. New papers and a new note are made for the renewal; the balance due on principal and rate of charge due on the old loan are merged into the renewal or new loan. The rate of charge on the old loan has now become a part of the principal of the renewed or new loan, and the rate of charge 2½ percent and 2 percent is charged upon it. Another example of a charge on a charge and clearly in violation of the Act under Section 17.

8. Licensees' Credit

We found that personal property brokers borrow from the banks from 25 percent to 75 percent or more of the money they loan. Large loaning licensees get their money at a lesser rate of interest than the small licensee. For example, two of the larger chains doing business in California have a national line of credit of over \$38,000,000 each. The large companies pay from 1 percent to $2\frac{1}{2}$ percent per annum for this line of credit; the smaller companies pay from 4 percent to $6\frac{1}{2}$ percent per annum. In San Francisco the smaller companies get credit for 3 percent per annum.

The licensees interviewed told us that large companies loan on the average ratio of \$4 borrowed money to \$1 of their money; the small companies \$3 of borrowed money to \$1 of their money. Therefore, the licensee can lawfully loan money for 30 percent a year on the first \$100, and 24 percent per year on the balance loaned, which it borrows from 1 percent to $6\frac{1}{2}$ percent per year.

9. Posting Rate Charges

By Section 18, second paragraph 4, subsection c, of the act: "Every licensee shall display prominently in each licensed place of business a full and accurate schedule * * * of the charges to be made. * * *"

In our inspection of the business sites we found no standardization of these schedules; some were under the counter, behind the counter, high up on the wall, and in many places the schedule could not be found at all without the aid of the licensee.

We found in the Corporation Commissioner's files instances where he had written letters complaining of this lack of observance of the law. We found no follow-up report on whether the licensee had obeyed the commissioner's directives. (Emphasis added.)

10. Advertising

By Section 16 of the act, all licensees must submit all their advertising to the Corporation Commissioner and none can be used if the commissioner disapproves. In our inspection of the files of the licensees in the commissioner's office, we found reams of such submitted advertising. We did not find any such advertising disapproved by the commissioner. (Emphasis added.)

We did find a loan company in San Francisco who submitted copies of advertisements claiming the lowest rate on loans to the public, and mentioning that it loaned money for a rate of $1\frac{1}{4}$ percent per month on sums up to \$300, and 1 percent per month on amounts over \$300. The commissioner disapproved of these ads, notwithstanding the fact that this loan company was then and is now loaning money at $1\frac{1}{4}$ percent per month, and realizes more than 5 percent net profit per annum on its enterprise. (Emphasis added.)

11. Corporation Commissioner's Annual Report

A study of the commissioner's report, filed with the Governor for 1947 on October 1, 1948, is recommended to this committee. In arriving at an amount that can be defined as an average necessitous loan, a needy loan, you will see that the analysis on page 17 of the report shows more loans at $300 or less rather than $300 and over. The report shows that 59.94 percent of the total number of loans were from $300 and less, with money represented being 24.83 percent of total money loaned; 41.06 percent of the total number of loans was for $300 or more, with money represented being 75.17 percent of total money loaned. Viewing it from another point, loans $300 or less amounted to $41,125,686.17; loans $300 and more amounted to $124,486,408.49.

By an analysis of these facts we were led to believe that necessitous loans, needy loans, ranged from $50 to $500.

Probably the depreciation in the value of money since 1916, when the amount of $300 was computed for an average small loan, has caused the average to increase.

12. Members, Officers and Directors of Licensees

Section 8 of the act enumerates the standard to guide the commissioner in determining whether an applicant should be granted a license. It states, among other standards, that members, officers and directors are to be of such character and general fitness as to "command the confidence of the community and to warrant belief that the business will be operated honestly, fairly and efficiently."

While we were examining the files of licensees in the commissioner's office, we noticed criminal "make" sheets from the Department of Justice of names similar to the names of some of the officers, members and directors of the applicants. We, by reason of this, copied each name of the members, directors and officers of each licensee and ran the names through the criminal records of our Department of Justice. We have not completed this check, but found 261 names of members, directors and officers to be the same name of a felon's name or a person with a criminal record. With the limited time and personnel we have not finished the check, only interviewing 126 in the time we had, but for the present we found 15 felons, or those with criminal records, are the same persons who are members, officers or directors of licensee companies. (Emphasis added.)

We have been informed by a licensee that the commissioner circularized the licensees, the first part of February, 1949, and inquired if any felons were employed. You can understand how difficult this action, if true, would make our check because it would put all licensees on notice, and we daresay would prevent us from ascertaining the truth when we interviewed the subjects. (Emphasis added.)

The conclusion we have drawn from this situation is that probably a more rigid investigation of these members, officers and directors before licenses are granted would be a precaution to insure licensees greater confidence by the community, and warrant the public belief in the honest, fair and efficient operation by the licensee of his business under the act.

13. Responsibility of Administering the Act

The sole responsibility for the successful administration of the act rests with the Corporation Commissioner, appointed by the Governor. Each year the commissioner must report by March 15th to the Governor. In the year 1947, the Commissioner's report was 7½ months late, being filed October 1, 1948. (Emphasis added.)

The duties delegated to the commissioner under the act are:
1. Receive applications for licenses; 2. Investigate the applicants for financial responsibility, experience, character and general fitness; 3. Approve the bond filed by the applicant; 4. Administer and supervise the activities of licensees, with quasijudicial powers to regulate and revoke the license, including the censorship of the licensee's advertising;

5. Audit the books of each licensee each year at licensee's expense; and
6. Determine each year the renewal of each licensee.

Mr. Metzler informed us there are approximately four hundred fifty licensees at the present time, with about three hundred of such licensees under the jurisdiction of the Los Angeles Division of the Corporation Commissioner's office.

The commissioner's primary duty is to enforce the corporate security laws of the State. He also has been delegated the duty of administering in like fashion the Credit Union Act, the Industrial Loan Act, the Small Loan Act, and the new Escrow Act, exclusive of the responsibility of the enforcement of the provisions of the Property Brokers Act.

For the successful administration of these manifold duties, examinations, investigations and decisions, he has the assistance in Los Angeles Division of 5 investigators and 12 auditors, and 2 deputies. We have not been given the information regarding his personnel assistance within his San Francisco or Sacramento branch.

14. Conclusion

Gentlemen, we have concluded the report of the factual situation we found in our six weeks' investigation. The findings are supported by the evidence we have and that which you may subpoena from the personal property brokers that we have to this time interviewed and whose accounts we have examined.

We feel that the importance attached to your duties as members of this committee warrant your studied consideration and solemn contemplation of the revelations we have presented to you, for the good of the people of our State, and the financial structure of its credit stability.

WHAT THE 1945 AMENDMENT TO THE PERSONAL PROPERTY BROKERS ACT DOES AND WHY SECTION 4, PARAGRAPH (d) SHOULD BE REPEALED

In the 1945 session of the California Legislature an amendment of far-reaching consequences was made to the Personal Property Brokers Act. By this amendment Section 4, paragraph (d) was added to the act, exempting loans of $5,000 or over from the principal provisions designed to protect borrowers.

Analysis of Legislative Counsel

"STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, March 7, 1949

Hon. Ralph C. Dills
Assembly Chamber

Analysis of Chapter 1220, Stats. 1945—No. 3681

DEAR MR. DILLS: You have asked for our analysis of the amendment to the Personal Property Brokers Act effected by Chapter 1220, Statutes of 1945.

Chapter 1220 of the Statutes of 1945 added subdivision (d) to Section 4 of the Personal Property Brokers Act (Chapters 952 and 1044 of the Statutes of 1939), which provides:

"(d) The following provisions of this act shall not apply to any bona fide loan of a principal amount of five thousand dollars ($5,000) or more, or to a duly licensed personal property broker in connection with any such loan, provided the provisions of this paragraph are not used for the purpose of evading this act: The fourth paragraph of Section 16; the third paragraph of Section

17; Section 18; the fifth and seventh paragraphs of Section 20; the second paragraph of Section 21.'

The effect of this amendment was to exempt from the restrictions contained in the enumerated provisions of the act, all loans in the principal amount of $5,000 or more, and to exempt a duly licensed personal property broker from such provisions with respect to any loan of $5,000 or more, but only if the exemption was not used for the purpose of evading the act.

The specific restrictions from which such loans are exempted are:

1. The fourth paragraph of Section 16.

This provision prohibits a personal property licensee from taking a lien upon real estate as security for a loan.

2. The third paragraph of Section 17.

This provision prohibits the paying, deducting or receiving in advance or the compounding of, charges on any loan; and requires that all such charges be computed and paid only as a percentage per month of the unpaid principal balance or portions thereof, shall be expressed in such terms in any obligation signed by the borrower, and shall be computed on the number of days actually elapsed. It also prohibits any charges on loans that do not exceed $300 which would in the aggregate exceed the limitations imposed by the act.

3. Section 18.

This section imposes numerous restrictions which require the licensee to:

- (a) Give the borrower a statement of the loan.
- (b) Procure from the borrower a signed statement as to whether any person has performed any act as a broker in connection with such loan.
- (c) Permit payments in advance.
- (d) Give receipts for all payments.
- (e) Upon payment in full to return the note and mortgage.
- (f) Display a schedule of charges and the method of computing them in each licensed office.

4. The fifth paragraph of Section 20.

This provision prohibits a licensee from requiring the borrower to enter into collateral sales agreements or contracts, and requires delivery to the borrower at the time of making the loan of the amount to be retained by the borrower equal to the face value of the loan and note evidencing the same.

5. The seventh paragraph of Section 20.

This provision limits the term of loan to 24 months.

6. The second paragraph of Section 21.

This provision makes void, both as to principal and interest, any loan where a violation of the act was committed in either the making of the loan or the collection thereof.

Thus under the amendment of 1945 (Chapter 1220), the provisions enumerated above are not applicable to any loan in the amount of $5,000 or over. There is, however, the qualification that "the provisions of this paragraph (subdivision (d) of Section 4) are not used for the purpose of evading this act." Since the subject upon which the provisions of the amendment are made applicable are loans of $5,000 or more, this qualification when read in connection with such subject would have the effect of vitiating the exemptions provided for by the amendment where the loan is made in an amount in excess of $4,999.99 for the sole purpose of securing the advantages of such exemptions.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel
By BERNARD CZESLA, Deputy"

SIGNIFICANT CHANGES TABULATED

To recapitulate briefly the significant changes made by the 1945 amendment:

I. On loans of $5,000 or over personal property brokers may now:

- (a) Make loans on real estate,
- (b) Deduct any amount of interest in advance,
- (c) Charge and collect compound interest,
- (d) Charge interest on a monthly basis even if the money were in use for only one day of a 30-day period,
- (e) Make loans in unequal installments, so that costly refinancing with additional charges will be necessary,
- (f) Avoid the restriction of charging interest only on unpaid principal balances,

- (g) Avoid the requirement that the interest charged or collected must be expressly stated on all documents connected with the loan.

II. On loans of $5,000 or over, it is now legally possible for:

- (a) The borrower to be deprived of any written evidence that might be used against the lender as to what money he received,
- (b) The fact that a broker as well as a lender took part in the transaction to be concealed,
- (c) All written evidence to be destroyed at the time the loan transaction is consummated,
- (d) The lender to refuse payment in full of the loan in advance of due date,
- (e) The lender to refuse to give receipts for payments made by borrower,
- (f) The lender to retain canceled negotiable instruments after they have been paid in full,
- (g) The loan broker to practice the same abuses permitted the lender,
- (h) The lender and the broker to operate without posting their rate schedules or securing approval of such schedules from the Corporation Commissioner,
- (i) The lender to require borrower to buy a worthless article at a high price as a condition to getting the loan,
- (j) The lender to make loans of any duration, the present 24-month limitation being removed.

III. Loans over $5,000 made in violation of the statutory provisions of the Personal Property Brokers Act are no longer void as to principal and interest.

IV. A statute governing real-property-secured loans of $5,000 or over has been artfully grafted on to a personal property law for the protection of small borrowers. A full disclosure of the legal consequences and the nefarious and evil effects of this strange grafting yet awaits us.

Thus, to state in simple language what the 1945 amendment to the Personal Property Brokers Act does is to point out the very reasons why the amendment must be repealed.

REPORT BY SPECIAL AUDITOR SECURED BY COMMITTEE VICE CHAIRMAN

At the request of Vice Chairman Dills of the Joint Legislative Committee on Lending Transactions, Mr. John E. Miller was engaged to prepare an analytical report.

Mr. Miller is trained in statistical research. He was technical assistant to the Special Attorney General in his investigation of lending transactions, serving as "Special Auditor and Statistical Agent." No other trained research specialist in the State possesses the factual background which has enabled Mr. Miller to prepare the report which is printed herewith in full:

TEXT OF SPECIAL AUDITOR'S REPORT

To: *The Joint Legislative Committee on Lending Transactions
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

The following analytical report was prepared under authorization of the Joint Legislative Committee on Lending Transactions, and at the specific direction of Honorable Ralph C. Dills, Vice Chairman of said committee. By direction of said vice chairman, said report was to be directed primarily to the following:

1. Reports of the Commissioner of Corporations upon operations of licensed finance companies for the years 1940-1947, inclusive, together with such portions of said report of 1948 as available at date hereof.

2. Summaries prepared upon report of personal property broker lenders submitted to Thomas & Moore, Certified Public Accountants employed by California Loan and Finance Association, to January 18, 1949, and covering operations for the year ended September 30, 1948, the same having heretofore been submitted to the individuals of the Joint Legislative Committee, with particular reference to the weight of said summary for the purpose of determining proper rate of charges for loans under this act.

3. The effectiveness of enforcement of the act by the Commissioner of Corporations.

4. The effectiveness of the finance company rules and regulations promulgated by the Commissioner of Corporations, under authority of the Legislature of the State of California, Chapter 952, Section 22, Statutes of 1939, and Chapter 1044, Section 22, Statutes of 1939, and in accordance with Title 2, Division 3, Part 1, Chapter 4, Government Code.

5. The effectiveness, as a means of determining practices and procedures of the finance companies under the act, of the annual information requested of licensees by the Commissioner of Corporations and used by him in preparing his report to the Governor.

A summary of the factual conclusions found are as follows:

1. Reports submitted by the licensees to the Commissioner of Corporations for the years 1940 to 1947, inclusive, and from such portion of the report for the year 1948 as are available at this time, indicate the following:

(a) That the gross profits made on personal property loans, on a monetary basis, under this act have nearly trebled in the nine years of operations under the act.

(b) That there has been a decisive trend by the finance companies away from loans of $100 or less.

(c) That there has been a definite trend of finance companies to make loans over $300 and consequently beyond regulation of the act.

(d) That since the amendment to the act in 1945, being known as paragraph 4(d) of the act, the original purposes of the legislation have been practically obliterated.

(e) That during the years 1940 through 1946, inclusive, there has been an increase of more than twice the amount of total operating expenses of the finance companies apportioned to supervision; that the year 1947 reflected a slight decrease in these items but that the year 1948 marked the beginning of a separation of the item of office salaries, management salaries, supervising and bookkeeping, with the effect that administrative and bookkeeping expense of the personal property broker business as taken from the summary of the California Loan and Finance Association shows that item to be nearly one-half as much as all office salaries. Executive and management salaries as shown on the preliminary report of 1948 furnished by the Commissioner of Corporations shows this item to be more than one-half as much as office salaries; that the aforesaid items are in contrast to the steadily diminishing percentage of operating expenses devoted to office salaries in the years 1941 to 1948, inclusive.

(f) That said reports indicate a constant and monetarily increasing expenditure by the finance companies for advertising.

(g) That the sum as reported under caption Assets "Used and Useful" may be misleading as to the actual number of dollars used in the conduct of personal property broker business without further segregation and supporting data.

2. The summaries submitted by the said California Loan and Finance Association are of value in determining the proper rate of charges for licensees under this act only if the theory of operation and accounting espoused by said association is adopted by the Legislature.

3. Enforcement of the act by the Commissioner of Corporations throughout the period of its statutory life, has been effective in the matter of over-all supervision of the finance companies but ineffective as to practices and procedures directly affecting the borrower.

4. The rules and regulations promulgated by the Commissioner of Corporations for the supervision of the finance companies are insufficient and entirely lacking in some instances respecting alleged illegal and voiding practices and procedures engaged in by the finance companies under the act.

5. The information required annually of finance companies under the act by the Commissioner of Corporations is ineffective for the purpose of determining actual dispersal of funds of the finance companies under the act and information respecting the alleged illegal and voiding practices and procedures of the finance companies under the act.

ANALYSIS

NOTE: Believing an explanation of the viewpoint of the writer may be of some value in evaluating the following, it is herewith stated that the writer's first experience with the practices and procedures of the finance companies and others licensed under the Personal Property Brokers Act began with his appointment by the Attorney General of the State of California and Honorable Geo. W. Rochester, Special Assistant Attorney General for the investigation of personal property loan practices and procedures in California, as a special auditor and statistical agent for this investigation. No unhappy experiences with licensees under this act had been occasioned nor had the writer in any other manner whatsoever dealt with, represented or even been particularly interested in any of the current licensees or any others who may have been licensees under this act. Consequently the information included hereafter is as unbiased and unopinionated and factual as human frailties will permit and investigation personally made or supervised throughout the State of California will suffice. For the record, it probably should be stated that nothing has occurred during the investigation for the Attorney General or thereafter or at all to prejudice the writer against finance companies under this act, as such, nor any of the owners, officers, employees or attorneys of said licensees. On the contrary, the writer has been impressed for the most part by the character of the men engaged in the ownership and control and supervision of this business, and hereby acknowledges that so far as is known to him, the cooperation has been freely extended.

Basically, it may be said that the conflict herein evinced arises of a diametrical contrast in fundamental conceptions of the basic purposes and intentions of this specific legislation. Before beginning his field investigation, as aforesaid, the writer studied the report of the Assembly Committee in 1935 respecting the need for the legislation that later resulted in this act, and the underlying purposes and fundamental concepts of such legislation. Discussions with and instructions of Assistant Attorney General Geo. W. Rochester together with the aforesaid study predicated the scope, tenor and direction of the investigation. The aforesaid also accounts for the writer's viewpoint. Briefly stated, the aforesaid divergence of viewpoint is that the writer conceives by reason of the foregoing that the purposes of this act were and are to provide service and protection for the necessitous borrower within a monetary field of $300 to $500 or less, while it is submitted that the viewpoint of the finance companies is that they operate an entirely commercial venture which is entitled to all the privileges and rights of business in general and yet takes unto itself, also, the privileges, powers and protection provided by the act, unhampered and unrestricted by mandate and responsibilities under the act.

I.

In the report of the Commissioner of Corporations for the year 1940, that being the first year for which report was made of operations of finance companies under the act, relatively and approximately, the gross profits of the finance companies in comparison to the reported expense, the net profit, the percentage of the operating expense attributed to advertising, the proportion of the loans $100 or less face value, proportion of the loans over $300 face value and the apportionment of operating expenses made to office salaries, supervision and executive and management salaries are as follows:

NOTE: Complete tabulations for the year 1948 are not available; consequently, the figures for that year have been approximated from partial reports from the Loan Association and the Commissioner of Corporations. It will be noted that the item of Executive and Management Salaries appears for the first time in 1948.

Conceded that all inferences to be drawn herefrom are to be those of the reader and not of the writer, it may yet be proper to point out from the foregoing tabulation the general trend of the finance business under the act. Succinctly, gross profit has nearly trebled, while expense, using but not admitting figures of the loan companies, patently has only doubled. The net profit appears to have quadrupled.

The trend of the finance company business, either by design or otherwise, is definitely away from transactions under regulation of the act. While in the early years of the act, there was an active field $300 or less in amount, of which the tabulations reflect what relatively small percentage was apportioned to loans of $100 or less, it is evident that beginning with the year 1944, the finance companies began a distinct move away from loans under regulation of the act, a trend which continuing under the present statutory situation for a relatively few more years may remove the finance companies entirely from the field of necessitous loans in the sum of $300 or less. In connection therewith the figures furnished by the loan association to the effect that 94.42 percent of the total loans made (Summary, sheet 4) in 1948 were at the rate of 2½-2 percent or 2 percent per month, definitely indicates that the finance companies even though virtually abandoning the field in which they were intended to function under the act, and thereby failing to supply the economic need which has ever been a fundamental basis of this legislation, do not, nonetheless, intend to abandon the cloak of immunity from the usury law presently bestowed on them by a generous Legislature. Would not also a fair inference be from the tabulation that the operations of the finance companies are becoming more efficient as reflected in the steady decrease of percentage of operating expenses accounted for by office salaries. The steadily increasing amount of operating expenses accounted for by supervision through the year 1948, together with the entirely new operation expense charged to executive and management salaries might merit the attention of those seeking information for the purpose of establishing a reasonable charge within the equitable purposes of this act. Before leaving this subject it may be well to state that the investigation of the Attorney General developed that at least one entity was paying an executive salary of $30,000 per annum to one or more of its executives; that at least one entity was paying year-end bonuses to its employees; that the same entity was paying heavy interest rates well above the financial market upon a sizeable portion of its funds used in this State to selected investors.

The tabulation of proportionate funds spent in advertising by the finance companies has been included for the reason that such expenditures receive the attention of the Commissioner of Corporations in his first annual report in 1940. There, in substance, he stated that the expenditure was heavy but was unlikely to recur in subsequent years being prompted in this instance by the entry into the loan field of California of an eastern company, who had purchased the accounts receivable of some California licensees and ex-licensees. However, the tabulation reflects that the commissioner's prophecy was not borne out. A reading of the commissioner's reports throughout the years this act has been in operation, with the possible exception of the last two, evidences his strong interest in and understanding of the elementary purposes of this legislation. Each year he has watched with mounting anxiety the lessening of the percentage of loans of $100 or less face value to the total amount of loans made. The objectivity of Mr. Daugherty, Commissioner of Corporations, was expressed by him at the public hearings held on this act in Los Angeles when he stated that it was not his policy to interfere in matters of legislation.

In line with the general trend, attention should be called to the interim report of the auditor for the Commissioner of Corporations for the year 1948 wherein (Page 5) he reports that more than 53 percent of the total face value of all loans in 1948 ranged between \$500 and \$5,000; $2\frac{3}{4}$ percent of the face value of all loans were in excess of \$5,000 totaling \$5,075,955.41 and that these loans were made principally by two entities and accounted for nearly 72 percent thereof. Interesting, too, is the information from the said report (Page 5) that six of ten entities with seven licenses made no loans of less than \$300 while two of the ten made no loans of less than \$500.

At the public hearings in Los Angeles where the figures of the loan association were presented, issue was taken with the interpretation given them by the accountants for the loan association. This issue was voiced by Carl G. Meiners, auditor, Division of Corporations, on the question of "assets used and useful" in the loan business. This is not the first occasion upon which the Commissioner of Corporations has questioned the practices and procedures of the finance companies in regard thereto. In his report of 1946, the Commissioner of Corporations stated (page 5) that the sum therein reported under "Assets Used and Useful" in the loan business undoubtedly included arbitrary estimates without segregation or supporting data and therefore is probably erroneous as to the actual number of dollars used in conduct of personal property business. The same year his report stated that the annual report required of personal property brokers would be amended to provide for such segregation and supporting data. However, it is evident from the foregoing that a controversy still exists between the Commissioner of Corporations and the finance companies as to the proper evaluation of assets used and useful in the personal property broker business, despite the amended reports now being compiled by licensees.

II

That which has hereinbefore been said regarding the efficiency of summaries submitted by the California Loan and Finance Association for purposes of the determination of a fair and reasonable rate of charge can be here reiterated. Here is the conflict referred to in the writer's explanatory note preceding this analysis. In support of their figures the Loan Association submitted as part of their exhibit a monthly letter of the National City Bank of New York on Economic Conditions and Government Finance dated April, 1948. The fact that the date of the report antedated the date of its presentation almost a year may be disregarded for the moment in order that the effect of its introduction be appraised. In other words, this is part of the evidence the writer presents to demonstrate that the finance companies under this act consider themselves a commercial industry comparable with and entitled to all the privileges of the industrial groups set forth in the said letter. However, they totally ignore the point that their business exists by sanction and with protection of the law. That cannot be said of bacon, dairy products, meat packing, clothing and apparel or any of the other groups included in the said groups with the possible exception of the public utilities therein named. With regard to the public utilities whose rate of return is probably not too much out of line with even the admitted return of the finance companies, the well known mandatory provisions of such an arrangement are totally absent in the finance companies' business under this act. Thought might be given to the question of whether the finance companies would be willing to accept regulation which would take from them the greater part of their discretion in the making or denial of loans. Would they care to submit to the discretion of the government as to how many licensees should be permitted to function under this act? Without attempting an answer to the foregoing or other questions which have probably occurred to the reader, the writer submits that under the circumstances of this case, the analogy of the said letter has no basis.

Comment is probably in order respecting the graphic exhibit submitted by the loan association under title of "Licensees Under California Personal Property Brokers Act—Size of Loans in Relation to Inflation." For the information of the reader who has not seen the exhibit, a brief description is included. The exhibit is a rectangular figure divided vertically and horizontally. The vertical divisions represent years 1940 to 1948, inclusive. The horizontal divisions serve three representations: That of the consumer price index ranging from 60 to 220; average weekly earnings of factory workers in the United States, ranging from 15 to 55; and the average loan and balance size ranging from 90 to 440 dollars. On the face of the exhibit have been drawn distinctive lines corresponding with fluctuations of the respective values. For instance the weekly earnings are denoted by a solid line. The Consumers Price Index is denoted by a broken line of small segments. The average size of loans made in California is denoted by a broken line of large segments. The average balance per loan outstanding in California is denoted by a line divided into large segments, each of which is separated by two dots. Visually, the import of this exhibit is that the average size of loan made in California has maintained a fairly constant relationship with the average weekly earnings of workers, and even now shows to be proportionately less than the latter. The Consumers Price Index and the average balance per loan outstanding in California are similarly depicted. However, what does not at first register upon the eye is the fact that the Consumers Price Index scale and the average weekly earnings scale are in direct proportion but that the scale for the average loan and balance size is not in proportion. The reader must draw his own conclusions as to why this visual misrepresentation was made, but for the purpose of the reader's information, it may be stated that if this chart had truly and proportionately reflected its values, the line showing the average loan and balance size would have run off of the page and no doubt have brought to the critical attention of the Legislature the relationship of this finance business under the act to the workers' weekly earnings and the Consumer Price Index.

Another conflict between the writer and the finance associations arises in the question of the borrowings or liabilities set forth on the loan association's summaries and which constitute by its computation an excess of 64 percent of its total assets (sheet 2). The investigation conducted by the Attorney General developed considerable basis for the contention that these borrowings or liabilities were not such within the commonly accepted definition of the terms and definitely not borrowings and liabilities within the meaning of the terms as applied to the ultimate borrowers under this act. The evidence educed by the investigation was to the effect that the so-called borrowings or liabilities of the lenders approached as nearly five to one a ratio based upon the capital invested as could be obtained. The investigation developed that the so-called "borrowings" were of two classifications:

1. In the instance of national organization, they took the character of lines of credit established in the finance company's favor by a combination of banks located throughout the Country.

2. In the case of small or local finance companies, loan credits were established with individual banks or other financial institutions. A distinguishing characteristic of this later is that the loan contracts, and security therefor executed by the borrowers, is immediately hypothecated to the bank or other financial institution. It is also true in the latter case that a minimum balance was required to be maintained by the finance company in the bank or financial institution.

The difference between this type of borrower and borrowing as known to individuals lies in the fact that finance companies were charged only for their funds while they were being utilized as personal property loans and earning the high rate charged under the act. Therefore, the liability so far as the finance company is concerned should be and is only to the extent of the funds actually outstanding. The picture is still further tempered by evidence to the effect that the loan policies of the finance companies under this type of arrangement and insofar as so-called borrowers' funds are lent by the finance companies are dictated and supervised by the banks and that the purpose of the required minimum balance is to permit the bank to discontinue the arrangement without notice and to insure it against any possible loss thereby. Substantiating this fact is the supervisory department maintained by the banks to insure that the finance companies conduct their operations within prescribed limits.

Mr. Emil Harrison, now vice president of the Seaboard Finance Corporation and chairman of the Executive Committee of the California Loan and Finance Association, in substance verified this when appearing before the committee in Los Angeles on February 22, 1949, he stated (Rep. Tr. Page 179, line 18) he had entered the finance business in 1925 with a capital of only $1,500. Yet, in his first year of business, his volume of business was $200,000, of which $100,000 in accounts were outstanding at the end of the year. The obvious facts are that Mr. Harrison used his $1,500 for the purpose of establishing a credit relationship with a bank or other financial institution whereby he might discount or otherwise arrange for credit upon the loan or conditional sales he made. This is essentially the same system used today with the exception of those companies having national lines of credit. In the latter case securities or other methods of protection such as membership on the board of directors are taken by the banks or other financial institutions. But reduced to the ultimate borrower, the format is exactly the same, and in the final analysis the money is loaned to the finance company not upon its credit, but upon the credit and security of the ultimate borrower, and only when such credit has been approved and accepted. There is reason to believe that agreements exist between the finance companies and their lending institutions to the effect that the liability of the finance companies is unlimited and unqualified only as to those loans made by them outside the instructions and minimum requirements of the lending institution. To this extent, then, and no further, should the liability and borrowings of the finance companies be taken into consideration. To complete the equitable concept, it should be suggested that if the finance companies claim full and complete liability on the outstanding loan contracts, they should qualify their position at least to the extent of the security they hold by reason hereof. Further, said qualification should be at the values shown at time of making loan, not at some subsequent period when other considerations may exert an influence.

Further explanation of the financial practices of the larger finance companies was given by Harry W. Moore, one of the accountants for the loan association, in his testimony before the committee in Los Angeles when he cited an example of a subsidiary corporation capitalized at $100,000, 'borrowing' $3,705,000 from its parent company at a rate of 6 percent (Rep. Tr. Page 120, line 23). The reader may contrast this interest rate with the average interest rate set forth in the summaries (Page 5) of 2.83 and thereby gain some insight into the manner by which heavy interest charges appear in the operating expenses of the finance company. The Attorney General can supply at least one additional instance where a California entity is being charged 10 percent by its parent company. Mr. Moore, however, probably rendered his greatest service to the people of California when he testified (Rep. Tr. Page 125, line 10) that costs of operation of a finance company varied between the various companies and that an instance within his knowledge existed where a finance company operated by a man and his wife made about 50 percent on $25,000!

III

The annual reports of the Commissioner of Corporations reflect, as has been stated before, the interest and solicitous concern exercised by the commissioner in attempting to achieve the original purposes of the legislation. These reports reflect, too, that the commissioner was vigorous and alert in the early days of the act to illegal loan operations in this State. However, the investigation by the Attorney General apparently impressed the commissioner himself to the extent that he testified in Los Angeles (Rep. Tr. Page 35, line 15) that the apparent irregular operation of the finance companies was the result of inadequacies of the act. Whether or not that is true shall, of course, be determined by the reader himself. A guide may be found in comparing the practices complained of by the Attorney General with the provisions of the act available to the commissioner for corrective action:

- | Alleged Violations of Act Uncovered by
Attorney General | Sections of the Act Suggested Available for Corrective Action |
|---|--|
| 1. Licensing of persons with criminal records known and unknown to the Commissioner of Corporations. | 1. Section 8(a) of the act enjoins the commissioner only when the financial responsibility, experience, character and general fitness of the applicant warrant belief that the business will be operated honestly, fairly and efficiently within the purposes of this act.
Under similar circumstances and responsibilities the Board of Equalization fingerprints all applicants for a liquor license. |
| 2. Licensees retaining insurance commissions received from insurance placed upon security for a loan through an officer or an employee licensed as an insurance agent, broker and/or solicitor. | 2. Section 20, Paragraph 6, of the act specifies that insurance commissions may be retained by the lender only when the licensee is licensed insurance agent or broker. Otherwise commissions retained are considered charges within regulations of the act. |
| 3. Prospective borrowers were required to join an automobile club or to refinance outstanding indebtedness and merge same into new loan at maximum rates as a condition precedent to the granting of new loans by licensee. | 3. Section 20, Paragraph 5, of the act, prohibits the licensee requiring the borrower to contract for purchase or agree to purchase any other thing in connection with the loan or require the borrower to enter into any collateral sales agreement or contract other than those specifically exempted under the act. |
| 4. Amounts in excess of the charges permitted by this act, were contracted for and received and the licensees were permitted to collect and receive principal and charges notwithstanding. | 4. Section 17, Paragraph 5, of the act provides that if any amount other than or in excess of the charges permitted by this act is charged, contracted for or received the contract of loan shall be void and neither the licensee or any other person shall have any right to collect or receive any principal charges or recompense whatsoever. |

5. Licensees were permitted to charge the maximum charges under the act when insurance was placed upon the security for the loan and the insurance carrier was notified by the insured at the instance of the lender of the existence of a mortgage.

*Sections of the Act Suggested Available

5. Section 17, Paragraph 1, of the act provides if, however, any property securing a loan made by a licensee is insured against loss in favor of the licensee, the latter may only contract for and receive thereon charges at a rate not exceeding 2 percent a month on the unpaid balance of the loan.
Notification of the insurance carrier at the request of the lender is, in effect, insuring the security in favor of the lender, barring cancellation of the policy.

The Commissioner of Corporations labors under some difficulty since it is apparent from the above that he is not completely conversant with all the provisions of the act. This became further evident in Los Angeles when he testified that he wondered if violations discovered by a complete audit of the finance companies would be worth the cost to the taxpayers (Rep. Tr. Page 45, line 13). The facts of the law are that the cost of such an audit would be borne by the finance companies under the act and be without expense to the public (Section 14, Paragraph 2).

From the testimony educed at the hearings in Los Angeles, it appears that the Commissioner of Corporations is unaware of certain actions of his own department with specific reference to the licensing of a person who had pleaded guilty to a charge of grand theft, since the licensing of such person was a direct contradiction to commissioner's announced policy (Rep. Tr. page 43, line 12, et seq.) It is patent, also, that he was unaware of the practice of a certain licensee with an excess of thirty locations who not only required borrowers to join an automobile club, in violation of the act, but also required them to cancel existing insurance and reinsure with affiliate of licensee in violation of the commissioner's ruling No. 1487. A copy of the forms used by this entity bearing out both of the above assertions was introduced into the committee's record by the Attorney General. That the commissioner was aware of the company's operations otherwise was borne out by the fact that each annual report included reference to the rate charged for a portion of the loans of this entity, namely, .85 of 1 percent per month. Herbert A. Smith, Chief Assistant Commissioner of Corporations, definitely testified in Los Angeles that he was not aware of the auto club membership requirement cited (Rep. Tr. page 65, line 8), even though he had been in his present position since 1940 (Rep. Tr. page 86, line 12).

John A. Metzler, Chief of the Finance Bureau of the Commissioner of Corporations, has immediate charge and supervision of the finance companies. As such, he was asked in Los Angeles how many employees he had available for his bureau, but was unable to answer. In all fairness, this inability may have been explained later by the commissioner, who showed his department's method of sharing personnel throughout the various offices.

However, Mr. Metzler was entirely unaware of the true nature and extent of enforcement activities of his department. He stated to the committee that there have been 123 suspensions and 29 revocations as a result of enforcing provisions of the act. Yet, when the department later furnished in writing a complete list of revocations occurring throughout the life of the act, one only was found to have been for cause! The remainder were at the request of the licensee who was either retiring from business or changing his name or location. No mention of any suspensions was in the department's letter.

IV

The present rules and regulations promulgated by the Commissioner of Corporations for the supervision of finance companies permit the conditions complained of as arising under the administration of the act by failing to rule specifically on the various points. An examination of the said rules and regulations will reveal that the commissioner has been extremely specific in the matters of officers, transaction of business, applications, bonds, various aspects of negotiating and executing loans, the proper manner of maintaining books and records and providing for examinations, advertising and most of the problems arising under insurance. However, he has not availed himself of including under Rule 1414 the request for additional data in connection with an application for license in the form of fingerprints of the applicant. Probably, too, a rule elaborating on the requirement that licensees be also authorized as insurance brokers or agents for the purpose of retaining commissions without regulation would be in order. There is complete silence in the rules as to collateral sales and agreements which ruling could be most beneficial in correcting the alleged abuses complained of by the Attorney General. In view of his specifications in other fields of his administration of the act, specific rules regarding overcharges and their effect, would be to the benefit of the borrower and in the highest purposes of the act. This latter rule would be of particular importance, inasmuch as John A. Metzler, Deputy Commissioner of Corporations and Chief of the Finance Bureau, charged with the administrations of the Personal Property Broker Act and Industrial Loan Act, testified in Los Angeles that although the percentage of overcharges reported by his auditors as occurring in the corporations of the licensees did not amount to 95 percent of the accounts examined, however they did amount to more than 50 percent (Rep. Tr. Page 130, line 4) and that in his official position, he has concluded that such errors must be intentional to render the accounts void. (Rep. Tr. Page 141, line 2).

A further rule would seem necessary and proper covering the use of the so-called "waiver letter" in respect to insurance placed upon security taken upon a loan. This rule would eliminate all uncertainty irrespective of the actual conclusion of the commissioner as to the effect of said letter upon lender's rights under the policy.

The commissioner's interest in small loans is found in every annual report and it would seem that he has already established the precedent necessary to halt the finance company's departure from the small loan field. In his administration of the Industrial Loan Act he has ruled that a company not making loans in the amount of $300 or less is not within the meaning of that act and therefore not entitled to a license. The same ruling as applying to this act would have a speedy effect and probably obviate the need for further legislation on the subject.

V

Prior to 1947 the annual report required of licensees by reason of Section 15, paragraph 2, of the act was known as the Uniform Report

Form which had been adapted from the forms used for similar purposes in other states. By reason of the controversy between the commissioner and the finance companies on the particular point of "assets used and useful" in the loan business, a new form was prescribed for the report to be furnished respecting the operations for the calendar year 1947. A further revision and a considerable enlargement of the report form was prescribed for reporting operations under the act for the year 1948, and, for reports respecting the said year 1948, a supplement under date of January 24, 1949, has been issued, the effect of which is somewhat puzzling. Under "liabilities and reserves," Items 40, 41, 48, and 49 of the original form have been eliminated, while the Sections 39, 45, 47, 54, and 55 have been revised to eliminate in most instances inquiry as to interest of partners. Sections 66 to 71, inclusive, have apparently been superseded by Items 47 to 51, inclusive, in the supplement. The over-all effect being either good or bad, is a matter of professional opinion. An estimation of the effect of elimination of said items under "liabilities and reserves" cannot be given without further reflection.

However, there is still lacking in the maze of statistical information required of the licensee definite inquiries as to licensee practice and procedures which would reveal excessive salaries paid executive officers. The provision of Item 121, Schedule 8-1, Subdivision D, certainly does not meet this requirement inasmuch as it requires information of only three officers, directors, partners or employees of licensee receiving the highest total remuneration, and it has been the policy of the Commissioner of Corporations to permit a firm having more than one location to file a consolidated report including the initial location. Hence, it is extremely difficult, not to say impossible, to determine executive and management salaries when at the present time on the basis of the 1947 Annual Report of the Commissioner of Corporations, 11 corporations hold 248 out of 396 licenses issued. The same reasoning applies to all other expenditures of licensees who present a consolidated report for many different locations. The investigation of the Attorney General discovered that the majority of the finance companies considered it of great importance in their own affairs to have specific information as to loans made with particular reference to additional sums advanced or the contrary. Most executive offices of the licensee wanted to know also when outstanding indebtedness was consolidated as a part of a new loan. Such information might likewise be useful to the Commissioner of Corporations with a view to discovering practices of compounding interest and compulsion exerted upon borrower to convert outstanding indebtedness into a high rate personal loan.

Despite the fact that item 94 of the commissioner's form for report of operations includes a column for report of insurance commissions retained as income of the personal property broker business no information is requested as to whether the licensee was licensed as an insurance agent or broker. An inquiry on this point would seem desirable since failure to be so licensed might provide positive information to accounts void by reason of overcharge.

SUMMARY

The following is offered gratuitously as the purely personal opinion of the writer unsubstantiated other than by his study of the Assembly

Committee of 1935 report anent personal property brokers, the investigation conducted by the Attorney General of the State of California, the legislative committee hearings held in Los Angeles and the transcript thereof, and the study of the exhibits submitted by and on behalf of the California Loan and Finance Association. The foregoing has caused the writer to ponder the question of whether necessitous borrowers in this State will soon be faced with a situation analogous with 1939 when they were compelled to seek "bootleg" or "hip-pocket" loans. The migration of the finance companies to the greener fields of higher loans gives rise to the speculation that there may come in the near future a time when said borrowers will no longer be accommodated by said licensees.

Of what effect on the community, one may well wonder, is the extensive advertising of the finance companies who devote a comparatively large portion of their net operating expenses to encourage nonproductive borrowers. That the personal loan situation in California is all out of proportion with the Consumer Price Index and workers' weekly wages as evidenced by the loan association's own exhibit, may well be a forerunner of a catastrophic financial collapse of many of the individual members of our communities.

It seems apparent from the testimony of Mr. Moore as set forth hereinbefore, that the Commissioner of Corporations has been somewhat remiss in compelling the efficient operation of the loan business in California under this act (Section 8(a)). When the net profit of various licensees vary from 5.61 percent to 50 percent, it would seem that the most careful official inquiry would be indicated with the purpose to determine if rates are not too high and for the purposes of a recommendation thereon to the Legislature. In connection with this question of efficiency the writer is concerned only with those loans in the necessitous field, being of an attitude of mind inherently opposed to any unnecessary governmental supervision of business. In other words, might it not be a proper subject for legislative enactment to return the Personal Property Brokers Act to the field in which it was originally intended to operate and permit the remainder of the financing activities which have grown up under this statute to find their own commercial level in free and open competition with other agencies of a similar nature.

However, in the opinion of the writer, no satisfactory basis will ever be possible for a determination of the reasonable rate of charge to be exacted under this act in light of the experiences in the operation and administration of the act and the licensees thereunder during the last nine years, until a complete audit and a report has been made respecting loans in the amount of $300 or less. This opinion is concurred in by the Commissioner of Corporations who stated in Los Angeles that a complete check of all accounts is necessary if everything going on is to be known (Rep. Tr. Page 38, line 15) and if evasion by manipulation of funds is to be discovered (Rep. Tr. Page 45, line 13).

Such an audit has never been made by any official agency or otherwise so far as is known to this writer. It is understood that the Attorney General intends to make such an audit in furtherance of his investigation as soon as sufficient funds are available for the purpose.

Respectfully submitted,

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR, STATE OF WASHINGTON
OLYMPIA, April 1, 1949

Hon. Joseph A. Beek, Secretary of the Senate
State of California, Sacramento, California
Re: Trade Barriers

DEAR MR. BEEK: Governor Langlie has asked me to acknowledge receipt of your letter of March 23d enclosing a copy of a resolution enacted by your Legislature.

For your information, I am enclosing herewith a copy of the veto message Governor Langlie filed with House Bill No. 390, the measure this resolution was directed to.

Sincerely,

INEZ LEWIS, Secretary to the Governor

Veto Message of Governor Arthur B. Langlie of Washington, Affecting Legislation Against California Wine

March 21, 1949

To the Honorable

The House of Representatives of the State of Washington (Through the Secretary of State)

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: I am filing herewith, to be transmitted to the House of Representatives of the State of Washington at the next session of the Legislature, without my approval House Bill No. 390, entitled:

"An act relating to intoxicating liquor and licensing the sale thereof; amending Section 23-0, Chapter 62, Laws Ex. Sess. 1933, as added thereto by Chapter 217, Laws of 1937, and last amended by Section 3, Chapter 220, Laws of 1941, and providing that the act shall take effect January 1, 1950."

This bill amends the present state liquor laws by providing that the holder of a Class C license may sell only Washington-made wine by the glass or opened bottle for consumption on the premises. As such it is legislation which discriminates against out-of-state wines and its effect is to set up an interstate trade barrier. If enacted it would be the first successful attempt in this state to utilize the force of law in barring a legal product from competition solely because of its origin outside state boundaries.

As such it is in my judgment inherently bad legislation. It has far reaching implications in that it sets both a precedent and a pattern for further trade barriers of this kind here and for retaliatory measures against Washington products elsewhere.

In my judgment no state should embark on a program of trade barriers unless it is prepared to follow it through to its logical conclusion which is self-sufficiency. It should be self-evident that there can be no such thing as self-sufficiency in this or any other state.

The sinister thing about all interstate trade barriers is that they are not what they seem to be. They are looked upon as prosperity bringing measures when in reality they are prosperity destroying by their very nature. Prosperity for the great majority of producers and consumers can be achieved, not by trade barrier laws, but by the free exchange of goods across all political boundaries.

The only restrictions which, in my judgment are warranted, are those which protect the public health and safety.

One has only to look at Western Europe to see what happens when small areas set up trade barriers for the protection of their own products. If our state governments fail to give due consideration to the validity of interstate rights, we may well have concern that our priceless state's rights may be further subordinated to federal dominance.

Being fully aware of the importance of this legislation to the wine growers of this State and being completely sympathetic to their problems, I have not taken this matter lightly. I have taken occasion to discuss the entire problem with the governors of several of our sister states, among them New York and California, and with the Council of State Governments. Not only have I found a complete unanimity concerning the dangerous aspects of this type of legislation, but I am convinced from my investigations that my signature on this bill would not be serving the best interests of the state as a whole.

Apart from the dangerous implications of the interstate features of this legislation there are local areas of difficulty. While it is true that, generally speaking, the right to sell liquor amounts merely to a privilege which the state may grant to one class of its citizens and deny to another class, nevertheless the discrimination cannot be arbitrary or unjust but must be reasonable and founded on public policy. Discriminating, for example, between one hotel and another hotel by allowing the one to sell only Washington-made wine and the other to sell both wine made in Washington and that manufactured outside the state cannot be justified as an exercise of the police power of the state, nor can any reasonable basis be ascribed for making such distinction. Such legislation does not conceivably tend to promote or protect the morals, good order, peace, health, welfare or safety of the people of the state.

This legislation would constitute a problem from an enforcement standpoint. As a practical matter, in allowing Class C licensees to sell domestic wine by the glass and, in addition, to sell other wines for consumption off the premises, the law would be extremely difficult to enforce. It would be almost impossible to know whether they were filling glasses with Washington wine or foreign wines when they are permitted to have mixed stocks and to sell both domestic and out-of-state wines.

To achieve any measure of enforcement, it would be necessary to employ additional inspectors with resultant expense to the state.

In arriving at a conclusion on this legislation, I have given very little consideration to the fact that it would cause a loss in revenue to the state, cities and counties of an estimated million dollars annually.

For these reasons House Bill No. 390 is vetoed.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR B. LANGLIE, Governor

Senate Resolution No. 81

Relative to congratulating Senator Chris N. Jespersen upon his birthday

WHEREAS, The bright sun of fifty-nine summers and the rains and showers of fifty-nine winters have passed over his now graying hair ; and

WHEREAS, The sound and fury of recurring election campaigns have failed to dim the love felt for him by his thousands of constituents and with the result that he has been returned to the Senate time and again, there to confound his enemies, shoot barbs of satire at his senatorial target from Los Angeles, and add lustre to the glory of the House of Lords ; and

WHEREAS, Though full of faults plainly exposed on the surface, in his habit of talking too much and too often in debate and spending hours each week in the company of the members of the Fourth Estate presumably to enhance his political prominence ; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That we, the members of the State Senate, hold in deep affection this son of San Luis Obispo Christopher (Copenhagen) Jespersen, and congratulate both him and ourselves on our pleasant association, and him for his true worth as a man and a legislator, and extend to him best wishes for a happy birthday ; and, be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be printed in the Senate Journal of this date and an embossed copy mailed to Mrs. Jespersen.

32100.1. A petition for election of directors by zones may be signed and filed with the board of directors by registered voters residing within a local hospital district, equal in number to at least 15 percent of the number of votes cast in that district for the office of Governor at the last preceding election at which a governor was elected. Upon receipt of this petition the board of directors shall, by resolution, divide the local hospital district into five zones and number the zones consecutively from 1 to 5. In establishing these zones the board of directors shall provide for representation in accordance with population and geographic factors of the entire area of the local hospital district. The board of directors shall fix the time and place for a hearing on the proposed establishment of zones. At this hearing any elector of the district may present his views and plans in relation to the proposed zoning, but the board of directors shall not be bound thereby and their decision, in the resolution adopted, shall be final.

After the hearing and final determination by the board of directors the board shall then prepare a measure to be printed on the ballots used at the next general hospital district election, or at a special election to be held for that purpose. The measure shall be printed on the ballots substantially as follows:

"Shall members of the board of directors be elected by zones, as described in the resolution of the board of directors dated -----?", with the words "Yes" and "No" so printed in connection therewith that the voters may express their choice.

The returns of such election shall be canvassed and declared as at other general hospital district elections, and if it appears that a majority of the votes cast in such election are in favor of said measure the board of directors shall by resolution declare the zones established and shall describe the boundaries of the zones. At the expiration of the terms of office of the members of the board of directors then in office, and thereafter, such members of the board of directors shall be elected by zones. If, at the expiration of said terms of office, three members of the board of directors are to be elected, those three members shall be elected from the zones designated by odd numbers; if two members are to be elected, those two members shall be elected from zones designated by even numbers.

One member of the board of directors shall be elected by the electors of each of the zones. No person shall be eligible to hold the office of member of the board of directors unless he shall have resided in the zone from which he is elected for 90 days next preceding the date of the election.

The formation of a local hospital district may provide for the election of members of the board of directors by zones as above provided for by substantially including in the petition for formation the provisions hereinabove required to be included in such measure, in which event it shall not be necessary to hold the election above provided for, and the members of the board of directors shall be elected from the zones as described in said petition, except that the first board of directors shall be appointed, upon the formation of the district, by the board of supervisors of the county in which the land or a greater part of the land in the district is situated. One member shall be appointed from each zone.

The members appointed from the zones designated by odd numbers in the petition shall hold office for four years and the members appointed from the zones designated by even numbers in the petition shall hold office for two years. Thereafter, the term of office for all members shall be four years.

Any vacancy upon the board shall be filled by appointment by the remaining members of the board of directors from the zone left unrepresented on the board of directors. Any person appointed to fill such vacancy shall hold office only until a successor, to serve for the remainder of such unexpired term, has been elected at the next regular hospital district election and has qualified."

Consideration of Committee Amendments

Amendment No. 1

Delete the present long title of the bill, and insert in lieu thereof

"An act to add Chapter 6a to Division 6 of the Agricultural Code to provide for protection of producers from losses sustained by reason of insolvency of processors, commission merchants, or produce dealers."

Amendment No. 2

Strike out Section 1, consisting of pages 1 and 2, and lines 1 to 34, inclusive, on page 3.

Amendment No. 3

"SECTION 1. Chapter 6a is hereby added to Division 6 of the Agricultural Code, to read as follows:

CHAPTER 6a. FARM PRODUCTS INSURANCE FUND

1275. As used in this chapter:

(a) The term "producer" means any person engaged in the business of growing or producing any farm product.

(b) The term "farm product" shall include any product included in the definitions of "farm product" in Chapter 6 and in Chapter 9 of this division.

(c) The terms "commission merchant," "dealer," and "processor" shall have the same meanings as in Chapters 6 and 9 of this division.

(d) The term "applicant" shall mean any commission merchant, dealer or processor who is applying for a license under Chapter 6 and/or 9 of this division, to do business in such capacity or capacities.

(e) The term "licensee" shall mean any commission merchant, dealer or processor who has received a license under Chapter 6 and/or 9 of this division, to do business in such capacity or capacities.

(f) The term "insolvent licensee" shall mean any licensee who has failed to pay producers for deliveries, purchases or consignments of farm products and against whose surety the director has filed a demand for payment on a bond or bonds posted by said licensee with the director pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 6 and/or 9 of this division.

(g) The term "Farm Products Insurance Fund" and the term "Fund" shall mean the fund of money established in the State Treasury as provided in this chapter.

(h) The term "committed" shall mean that portion of the fund which is earmarked or set aside to pay specific claims of producers or to pay the administrative expenses of the fund.

(i) The term "uncommitted" shall mean that portion of the fund which is not earmarked or set aside for any specific purpose.

(j) The term "verified claim" shall mean the total verified claim of any producer against an insolvent licensee, as determined and ascertained by the director under the provisions of Chapter 6 or 9 of this division.

(k) The term "net claim" shall mean the verified claim of any producer minus the number of dollars representing the producer's pro rata share of the recovery from the surety on a bond of an insolvent licensee.

(l) The term "payable claim" shall mean $\frac{75}{100}$ percent of the net claim.

1276. Before any license is issued to any applicant, the applicant, in addition to the license fee or fees set forth in Chapter 6 and/or 9 of this division, shall pay a fee to the director equal to one-twentieth of 1 per cent of his total purchases or consignments of farm products from producers during the year prior to the year for which the license is issued; provided, that the minimum fee under this chapter for any applicant shall be ten dollars ($10) and the maximum fee under this chapter shall be seven hundred fifty dollars ($750).

1276.2. When the director determines that the uncommitted portion of the fund at the end of any year exceeds one million dollars, the director shall adjust the amount of the fee provided for in this chapter (including the minimum and maximum fee) to an amount not greater than that provided in Section 1276, which, in his determination, will maintain the fund at approximately one million dollars.

1276.3. The director shall require applicants to state in applications for licenses the amount of purchases or consignments of farm products from producers during the previous year. Wilful understatement of such amount will constitute a violation of Chapter 6 or 9, as the case may be, of this division.

1277.4. As soon as the director has ascertained the amount which any producer-creditor has received from the assets of the insolvent licensee, as determined by court action or by other means, at the discretion of the director, such amount shall be transferred from the account payable of the producer-creditor on the books of the fund to the uncommitted portion of the fund, and the balance of such account payable shall be paid to the producer-creditor.

1277.5. At his discretion the director may make uniform proportional advance payments to producer-creditors of any particular insolvent licensee, prior to the final determination of the recovery from the insolvent licensee. In such cases the director may require as a condition of making an advance to any producer-creditor that the producer-creditor file with him a power of attorney to receive payments due such producer-creditor from the insolvent licensee and to reimburse the fund therefrom for any excess advance and to be otherwise subrogated to the rights of the producer-creditor in the assets of the insolvent licensee.

1278. Expenses of administering this chapter shall be paid by the fund."

Opinion of Legislative Counsel

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, April 7, 1949

Hon. Nelson S. Dilworth
Senate Chamber

Reference of Bills to Finance Committee—No. 5665

DEAR SENATOR DILWORTH: You ask whether under the Standing Rules of the Senate it is required that Senate Bill No. 685 and Senate Bill No. 850 be referred to the Finance Committee, after having been reported out of the Committee on Education.

The Finance Committee is, under Rule 12, subdivision 5, to consider "all appropriation bills including the Budget Bill and claim bills but excepting appropriations from the funds of the Senate made by resolution."

Since neither Senate Bill No. 685 nor Senate Bill No. 850 makes an appropriation, it is not mandatory under the present Standing Rules of the Senate that these bills be referred to the Finance Committee. However the Senate may, in its discretion, refer any bill to that committee even though the bill does not make an appropriation.

The determining fact under the present rule is, of course, whether any particular bill makes an appropriation. It is recognized that an appropriation can be made in many ways, and need not contain language expressly appropriating a stated amount of money for a designated purpose. If, however, the bill does in fact make state funds available for expenditure which were not previously available, the bill would effect an appropriation and should properly be referable to the Finance Committee.

A careful analysis of both Senate Bill No. 685 and Senate Bill No. 850 fails to disclose anything contained therein which would make any money available for expenditure. These bills prescribe the procedure by which money which is otherwise made available shall be allocated, but do not in themselves make funds available for any purpose.

On April 4, 1949, the Senate adopted a motion declaring it to be the policy of the Senate that all bills carrying an appropriation, whether implied or otherwise, or requiring the expenditure of additional state moneys, be referred to the Committee on Finance and that the Committee on Rules be instructed to amend the rules to the effect that all appropriation bills be referred to the Committee on Finance. (Senate Journal, April 4, 1949, p. 956.)

The adoption of this motion would not change the existing Standing Rules, but would only be an expression of the policy of the Senate with respect to such matters.

A bill could be referred to any standing committee upon proper motion to that effect being made and adopted. Neither the rules nor the motion would require that such action be taken with respect to Senate Bill No. 685 or Senate Bill No. 850, however, unless or until the rules are changed.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel
By BERNARD CZEGLA, Deputy

Further Consideration of the Motion By Senator Rich to Re-refer Senate Bill No. 850 and the Amendments Offered By Senator Hulse to Senate Bill No. 850 to the Committee on Finance

"SECTION 1. Section 2½ of the Public Utilities Act is amended to read :

Sec. 2½. (a) The term "highway common carrier" when used in this act means every corporation or person, their lessees, trustees, receivers or trustees appointed by any court whatsoever, (1) owning, controlling, operating or managing any auto truck, or other self-propelled vehicle not operated upon rails, used in the business of transportation of property as a common carrier for compensation or (2) performing driveway service as a common carrier for compensation over any public highway in this State between fixed termini or over a regular route, and not operating exclusively within the limits of an incorporated city or town, or city and county, except that passenger stage corporations, as defined in Section 2½ of this act, transporting baggage and express upon passenger vehicles incidental to the transportation of passengers shall not be highway common carriers as herein defined, and except that any such corporation or person, their lessees, trustees, receivers or trustees appointed by any court whatsoever shall not be a highway common carrier as herein defined in operating within lawfully established pickup and delivery limits of a common carrier in the performance for such carrier of transfer, pickup or delivery services provided for in the lawfully published tariffs of such carrier insofar as such pickup and delivery limits [do not include territory in excess] include unincorporated territory only not in excess of three miles from the corporate limits of any incorporated city or town or three miles from the post office of any unincorporated point.

(b) The words "between fixed termini or over a regular route" when used in this act mean the termini or route between or over which any highway common carrier usually or ordinarily operates any auto truck or other self-propelled vehicle, or performs driveway service, even though there may be departures from said termini or route, whether such departures be periodic or irregular. Whether or not any auto truck or other self-propelled vehicle is operated or any driveway service is performed by a highway common carrier "between fixed termini or over a regular route" within the meaning of this act shall be a question of fact and the findings of the commission thereon shall be subject to review.

(c) The term "common carrier" when used in this act, in addition to the definition herein otherwise given, shall include every highway common carrier, their lessees, trustees, receivers or trustees appointed by any court whatsoever, operating within this State.

(d) The term "driveway service" when used in this act means the transportation of one or more vehicles with motive power furnished by one or more of the vehicles transported.

Sec. 2. Section 50½ of said act is amended to read:

Sec. 50½. (a) No highway common carrier shall hereafter operate or cause to be operated any auto truck, or other self-propelled vehicle not operated on rails, for the transportation of property as a common carrier for compensation or hereafter perform driveway service as a common carrier for compensation on any public highway in this State except in accordance with the provisions of this act.

(b) The Railroad Commission of the State of California is hereby vested with power and authority to supervise and regulate every highway common carrier in this State; to fix the rates, fares, charges, classifications, rules and regulations of each such highway common carrier; to regulate the accounts, service and safety of operations of each such highway common carrier; to require the filing of annual and other reports and of other data by such highway common carriers; and to supervise and regulate highway common carriers in all other matters affecting the relationship between such carriers and the shipping public. The Railroad Commission shall have power and authority, by general order or otherwise, to prescribe rules and regulations applicable to any and all highway common carriers. The Railroad Commission, in the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred upon it by the Constitution of this State and by this act, shall have power and authority to make orders and to prescribe rules and regulations affecting highway common carriers, notwithstanding the provisions of any ordinance or permit of any incorporated city or town, city and county, or county, and in case of conflict between any such order, rule or regulations and any such ordinance or permit, the order, rule or regulation of the Railroad Commission shall in each instance prevail.

(c) No highway common carrier shall hereafter begin to operate any auto truck, or other self-propelled vehicle, for the transportation of property for compensation or begin to perform driveway service for compensation on any public highway in this State without first having obtained from the Railroad Commission a certificate declaring that public convenience and necessity require such operation, but no such certificate shall be required of any highway common carrier as to the fixed termini between which or the route over which it was actually operating as a highway common carrier on July 26, 1917, and in good faith continuously thereafter, or of any highway common carrier as to the fixed termini between which or the route over which it was actually operating as a highway common carrier in driveway service on May 1, 1949, and in good faith continuously thereafter, or for operations exclusively within the limits of an incorporated city, town or city and county, or for the performance of pickup, delivery, or transfer services by such carrier within such carrier's lawfully published pickup and delivery zones insofar as such pickup and delivery limits [do not include territory in excess] include unincorporated territory only not in excess of three miles from the corporate limits of any incorporated city or town or three miles from the post office of any unincorporated point. Any right, privilege, franchise, or permit held, owned or obtained by any highway common carrier may be sold, assigned, leased, transferred or inherited as other property, only upon authorization by the Railroad Commission. The Railroad Commission shall have power, with or without hearing, to issue said certificate as prayed for, or to refuse to issue the same, or to issue it for the partial exercise only of said privilege sought, and may attach to the exercise of the rights granted by said certificate such terms and conditions as, in its judgment, the public convenience and necessity require. Without the express approval of the commission, no certificate of public convenience and necessity issued to one highway common carrier under the provisions of this section, or heretofore issued by the commission to one highway common carrier for the transportation of property by auto truck or self-propelled vehicle, nor any operative right of one highway common carrier founded upon operations actually conducted in good faith on July 26, 1917, or driveway service operations actually conducted in good faith on May 1, 1949, shall be combined, united or consolidated with another such certificate or operative right issued to or possessed by another highway common carrier so as to permit through service between any point or points served, by one highway common carrier, on the one hand, and any point or points served, by another highway common carrier, on the other hand; nor, without the express approval of the commission, shall any through route or joint, through, combination, or proportional rate be established by one highway common carrier between any point or points which it serves, on the one hand, and any point or points served by another highway common carrier, on the other hand.

Any one highway common carrier may establish through routes and joint rates, charges, and classifications between any and all points served by such highway common carrier under any and all certificates or operative rights issued to or possessed by such highway common carrier.

The Railroad Commission may at any time for a good cause suspend, and upon notice to the holder of an operating right acquired by virtue of operations conducted on July 26, 1917, as aforesaid, or on May 1, 1949, as aforesaid, or to the grantee of any certificate, and opportunity to be heard, revoke, alter or amend any such operative right or certificate.

(d) When a complaint has been filed with the commission alleging that any vehicle is being operated or any driveaway service is being performed without a certificate of public convenience and necessity as required by this act, or when the commission has reason to believe that this act is being violated, it shall be the duty of the commission to investigate such operations and the commission shall have power after a hearing to make its order requiring the owner or operator of such vehicle or the driveaway service operator to cease and desist from any operation s in violation of this act; and it shall be the duty of the commission to enforce compliance with such order under the powers vested in the commission by this act or by law."

MOTION TO PRINT OPINION OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL IN THE JOURNAL

Senator Powers moved that the following opinion of the Legislative Counsel regarding, "The Times Within Which a Legislative Bill, After Passage by the Senate and Assembly, May be Presented to the Governor," printed in the Journal.

Motion carried.

OPINION OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, April 11, 1949

Hon. Joseph A. Beek

Secretary of the Senate

State Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. BEEK: I have prepared and transmit herewith my opinion in response to the question propounded by you on behalf of the Senate whether or not a legislative bill after passage by the Senate and the Assembly may be presented to the Governor after final adjournment of the session.

Yours very sincerely,

FRED B. WOOD
Legislative Counsel

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SAN FRANCISCO 3, CALIFORNIA, April 11, 1949

The Time Within Which a Legislative Bill,
After Passage by the Senate and Assembly,
May Be Presented to the Governor—No. 4654.

The question propounded is whether not a legislative bill, after passage by the Senate and Assembly, may be presented to the Governor after final adjournment.

The controlling provisions of the State Constitution appear in Section 16 of Article IV:

“Every bill which may have passed the Legislature shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor.

If he approves it, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the House in which it originated, which shall enter such objections upon the Journal and proceed to reconsider it. * * *

If any bill shall not be returned within ten days after it shall have been presented to him (Sundays excepted), the same shall become a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Legislature, by adjournment, prevents such return, in which case it shall not become a law, unless the Governor, within thirty days after such adjournment (Sundays excepted), shall sign and deposit the same in the Office of the Secretary of State, in which case it shall become a law in like manner as if it had been signed by him before adjournment.”

“Adjournment” as here used means final adjournment of the session, not an adjournment for a recess during a session (Harpending v. Haight (1870), 39 Cal. 189).

The words quoted seem to require that each bill be presented to the Governor while the Legislature is in session. He may sign it, veto it, or let it become a law without his signature. He has but ten days (Sundays excepted) after presentation, within which to sign it or return it, unless final adjournment cuts that period short, in which case he has thirty days (Sundays excepted) after adjournment (not after presentation of the bill to him) within which to sign it or let it die.

There does not seem to be any room here for presentation after adjournment. The only adjournment that brings the thirty-day period into play is one that “prevents” the “return” of a bill to the house of origin within the prescribed ten-day period. How can adjournment prevent the return of something the Governor has not yet received?

If we attempt to read into these words an implied power upon the part of the Legislature to present a bill to the Governor after final adjournment, we are at once confronted with the questions (1) how long after adjournment may a bill be presented to him, and (2) within what period of time must he act upon a bill presented to him after adjournment?

We find nothing in Section 16 of Article IV expressly to guide us. If we infer that the bill must be presented and the Governor must act upon the bill within thirty days after adjournment, Sundays excepted, then the result is that he will have less time (possibly but a single day or part of a day) for consideration of a bill presented after adjournment than with respect to a bill presented prior to adjournment and at any time less than ten days prior to adjournment. We have an alternative of inferring a bill may be presented to him within thirty days (Sundays excepted) after adjournment and that he will have ten days after such presentation within which to act upon the bill. We have the further alternative that there is no time limit within which a bill may be presented to the Governor, save perhaps, the dates fixed by the Constitution for the commencement of the next regular session. We find ourselves in the realm of pure speculation. It is hardly reasonable to infer that the framers of the Constitution, when they so meticulously prescribed the time element in respect to presentation of a bill while the Legislature is in session, intended to authorize presentation after the session without prescribing any time limit in respect thereto. The only reasonable inference seems to be that they intended to authorize presentation of a bill to the Governor only during the session, that is prior to final adjournment.

This is the interpretation entertained for many years by the legislative officers and by the Governor as lawmaker, probably ever since the decision in Fowler v. Peirce (1852), 2 Cal. 165. Our search, fairly extensive though not exhaustive, does not indicate a single enrolled bill on file in the Office of the Secretary of State which bears evidence of presentation to the Governor after final adjournment. This interpretation of the provisions of Section 16 of Article IV of the Constitution, by the officials charged with the observance and administration of those provisions, is indeed persuasive and would be accorded great weight by the courts.

The history of these provisions lends support to this view. They are derived from Section 17 of Article IV of our Constitution of 1849, substantially the same as Section 17, down to the words "in which case it shall not become a law, unless * * *." Section 17 having ended with the words "unless the Legislature, by adjournment, prevents such return." In 1852 our Supreme Court held that the Governor had no authority to sign a bill after final adjournment. Said the court:

"In fact, there is really no limit to the time within which the executive must approve an act, conceding that it may be done after the adjournment of the Legislature; so that it might be approved one day or one month afterwards. The executive is, by the Constitution, a component part of the law-making power. In approving a law, he is not supposed to act in the capacity of the executive magistrate of the State, whose duty it is to see that the laws are properly executed, but as a part of the legislative branch of the government. This power is a unit, though distributed; and the parts can only act in unison. Whenever a part ceases to act, the whole becomes inoperative. The executive act owes its vitality to the existence of the legislative body. Upon the adjournment of that body, the power ceases, and all acts of a legislative nature are void." (Fowler v. Peirce (1852), 2 Cal. 165, 172.)

It would seem implicit from that holding that presentation could not occur after final adjournment.

The only significant change which occurred when the text of Section 17 was carried over into Section 16 of Article IV of the Constitution of 1879 was simply the addition of the following words:

"in which case it shall not become a law, unless the Governor, within ten days after such adjournment (Sundays excepted), shall sign and deposit the same in the Office of the Secretary of State, in which case it shall become a law in like manner as if it had been signed by him before adjournment."

The reasonable intendment of that addition was to permit the Governor to act upon a bill after adjournment, that is, a bill which had been presented to him prior to adjournment and less than ten days prior to adjournment.

The only significant subsequent change in Section 16 was the extension of the post-session bill signing period from ten to thirty days, effected by an amendment made in 1908. That would not seem to change the requirement as to the time for presentation of a bill to the Governor.

We have not found anything in the judicial decisions of other jurisdictions that seems persuasive of a different view.

In the Florida case of Amos v. Gunn (1922), 94 So. 615, three of the justices held that a bill must be presented to the Governor prior to adjournment; two, that the Governor might receive a bill after adjournment, by waiving a part of the time allowed him, under a constitutional provision which required the Governor to return a bill within five days unless prevented by adjournment, in which case it would become law unless within ten days after adjournment he filed the bill, with his objections, in the Office of the Secretary of State.

Maryland by taking a different view has arrived at an odd result. The Constitution of that state declares that if a bill is not returned by the Governor within six days (Sundays excepted) after presentation to him, it shall be a law in like manner as if he signed it unless the Legislature by adjournment prevented its return in "which case it shall not be a law."

In 1890 it was held, as to a bill the Governor did sign and file with the Secretary of State, that presentation could be made after final adjournment, the Governor having implied power to sign and file within six days after such presentation (Lankford v. County Commissioners, 20 Atl. 1017). In a dissenting opinion attention was directed to the fact that this Maryland constitutional provision was in 1867 taken verbatim from the Federal Constitution, that the federal practice since 1790 had been that a bill must be presented and signed before adjournment, and that such practice had obtained in Maryland until 1880 (22 Atl. 412). The majority ruling was followed in Johnson v. Luers (Md. 1916), 99 Atl. 710.

In 1942 the Maryland court held it permissible for the legislative officers to present and the Governor to sign a bill fifty-six days after final adjournment (Robey v. Broersma, 26 Atl. 2d 820). Upon rehearing (29 Atl. 2d 827) the court observed that it had been generally supposed at the state constitutional convention and until 1880 that the Constitution required both presentation and signing before adjournment, but that after fifty years under a different interpretation the validity of thousands of laws would be disturbed by a change of decision, concluding:

"There is, therefore, no constitutional or statutory limit to the time, after passage, within which a bill must be presented to the Governor. It is a practical question, depending for its answer in each case on the circumstances of that particular case." (p. 830)

Illinois seems to have arrived at about the same result as Maryland under a constitutional provision substantially the same as that of Maryland. Presentation eleven days after adjournment was upheld in People v. Rose (1897), 47 N. E. 547; followed in People v. Hughes (1939), 25 N. E. 2d 75, holding effective the veto of two bills, one of which was presented twenty days and the other twenty-six days after adjournment, each having been vetoed within ten days of presentation to the Governor.

The Arkansas Constitution provides that a bill not returned by the Governor within five days of presentation shall be a law unless the Legislature by adjournment prevents its return, in which case it shall become a law unless he shall file it with his objections in the Office of the Secretary of State within twenty days after adjournment. In 1887 the court of that state held that a bill might be presented to the Governor either before or after adjournment (Dow v. Beidleman, 5 S. W. 297); followed in Monroe v. Green (1903), 76 S. W. 199, holding that presentation later than twenty days after adjournment was ineffective. In the latter case the Chief Justice made the following significant observation:

"In my opinion (if it were a new question), no bill that has not been presented to the Governor for his examination before the final adjournment of the General Assembly can ever become a law, under the Constitution of this state." (p. 204)

"But I am reminded that since the rendition of that decision in 1887 every legislature has taken this court at its word * * * and so has every Governor, down to this good day, and adopted a custom or contracted a habit of passing bills and leaving them to be presented * * * to the Governor, for his action after the adjournment * * * ; that, if the validity of this custom is now to be broken in upon * * * many bills passed within the last sixteen years would be called in question * * * the greatest injustice would prevail." (p. 206)

In 1925 the Arkansas court upheld the validity of a statute which provided for a committee of the Legislature charged with the duty of enrolling bills and presenting them to the Governor after final adjournment (Russell v. Conc, 272 S. W. 678).

Vermont under a constitutional provision requiring the Governor to sign or return a bill within five days unless adjournment within three days after presentation prevents its return, "in which case it shall not become a law," held valid certain bills that were presented one day after final adjournment, one signed the same day and the other, four days later (Hartness v. Black (1921), 114 Atl. 44). The court relied in part upon the Maryland case of Lankford v. County Commissioners, 20 Atl. 1017.

The Constitution of the United States contains a clause in respect to the presentation and signing of bills which is substantially the same as was Section 17 of Article IV of the California Constitution of 1849. The Supreme Court of the United States holds (contrary to the holding of our court in Fowler v. Peirce, 2 Cal. 165) that the President may effectively approve and sign a bill after final adjournment of Congress if he does so within the prescribed ten days after its presentation to him (Edwards v. United States (1932), 286 U. S. 482). It appeared in that case that there had been no long, continued practical construction of the Constitution which could be accepted as controlling. The state of the precedents appeared to be such that the question was an open one, to be resolved by a consideration of the constitutional provision nor was there any suggestion, expressed or implied, that it would be competent for the Congress to present a bill to the President after final adjournment.

The conclusion would seem inescapable, both upon reason and upon precedent, that the provisions of Section 16 of Article IV of our Constitution require that a bill which has passed both houses be presented to the Governor prior to final adjournment. If at a particular session, as the adjournment date draws near, it appears impossible or impracticable to present all of the bills prior to that date, it would seem quite competent for the Senate and Assembly to consider and adopt a new adjournment resolution fixing a suitable later date for final adjournment.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered :

By Senators O'Gara, Keating, and Powers :

Senate Resolution No. 84

Relative to adjournment in respect to the anniversary of the death of Franklin Delano Roosevelt

Four years ago today, a great American died. The sense of shock which stunned the Nation at that time is gone; in its place is profound regret that the man was deprived of his hour of triumph, that he died on the eve of victory; and that the Nation, and the world, were deprived of a statesman whose leadership was an inspiration to all.

Today we affirm the fact that the name of Franklin Delano Roosevelt lives in the hearts of all freedom-loving men; and, therefore, be it most solemnly

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That when we this day adjourn, we shall do so in respect to the memory of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, thirty first President of the United States.

Resolution read, and adopted by a rising vote of the following Senators :

Senators Abshire, Breed, Brown, Hugh M. Burns, Michael J. Burns, Busch, Collier, Coombs, Crittenden, Cunningham, Desmond, Dillinger, Dilworth, Donnelly, Dorsey, Drobish, Gibson, Hatfield, Hulse, Jespersen, Johnson, Judah, Keating, Kraft, McBride, Miller, O'Gara, Parkman, Powers, Regan, Rich, Salsman, Sutton, Swing, Tenney, Ward, Watson, Weybret, and Williams 39.

This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and shall therefore go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows :

At the Fifty-sixth Session of the Legislature of California the Legislature found that due to the necessities of the war then in progress, the demands of the United States Army and Navy and of defense industry had resulted in a manpower shortage and that said shortage made it necessary that prisoners be employed in the manufacture and production of goods and the performance of services for the Federal Government and its agencies. Accordingly, the Legislature authorized the Department of Corrections to so employ prisoners until April 15, 1947. The Legislature at its Fifty-seventh Session, extended this authority until June 30, 1948, and the Fifty-eighth Session of the Legislature further extended the date to June 30, 1949, deeming it necessary for the preservation of the public health and safety.

The United States Navy desires to extend its present contracts with the Department of Corrections until at least June 30, 1950, for the reason that the unsettled world conditions dictate that the military services be in a state of readiness to meet any and all emergencies.

Further, with the expiration of the present contract on June 30, 1949, the State will suffer the loss of revenue and useful employment essential to the rehabilitation of prisoners.

Therefore, for the preservation of the peace, health and safety of the citizens of this State and of the Nation, it is necessary that this act take effect immediately."

- (f) Unless the exceptions of the policy are printed with the same prominence as the benefits to which they apply.
- (g) Unless, if any portion of such policy purports, by reason of the circumstances under which a loss is incurred, to reduce any indemnity to an amount less than that provided for the same loss occurring under ordinary circumstances, such portion is printed in bold-face type and with greater prominence than any other portion of the text of the policy.

(h) If the policy contains amendment, change, limitation, alteration, or restriction of the printed text by endorsement, or by any means other than rider upon a separate piece of paper made a part of such policy.

(i) If any portion of such policy purports to reduce benefits by reason of age of the insured and such reduction, in accordance with the age of the insured as stated in his application, would be effective on the issue date of the policy.

SEC. 2. Section 10291.5 of the Insurance Code is amended to read:

10291.5. (a) The purpose of this section is to prevent, in respect to disability insurance, fraud, unfair trade practices, and insurance economically unsound to the insured.

(b) The commissioner shall not approve any disability policy for issuance or delivery in this State:

(1) If he finds that it contains any provision, or has any label, description of its contents, title, heading, backing, or other indication of its provisions which is unintelligible, uncertain, ambiguous, or abstruse, or likely to mislead a person to whom the policy is offered, delivered, or issued.

(2) If it contains any provision for payment at a rate, or in an amount (other than the product of rate times the periods for which payments are promised) for loss caused by particular event or events (as distinguished from character of physical injury or illness of the insured) more than triple the lowest rate, or amount, promised in the policy for the same loss caused by any other event or events (loss caused by sickness, loss caused by accident, and different degrees of disability each being considered, for the purpose of this paragraph, a different loss): Or if it contains any provision for payment for any confining loss of time at a rate more than six (6) times the least rate payable for any partial loss of time or more than twice the least rate payable for any nonconfining total loss of time: or if it contains any provision for payment for any nonconfining total loss of time at a rate more than three (3) times the least rate payable for any partial loss of time.

(3) If it contains any provision for payment for disability caused by particular event or events (as distinguished from character of physical injury or illness of the insured) payable for a term more than twice the least term of payment provided by the policy for the same degree of disability caused by any other event or events: or if it contains any benefit for total nonconfining disability payable for lifetime or for more than twelve (12) months and any benefit for partial disability, unless such benefit for partial disability is payable for at least three (3) months: or if it contains any benefit for total confining disability payable for lifetime or for more than twelve (12) months, unless it also contains benefit for total nonconfining disability caused by the same event or events payable for at least three (3) months, and, if it also contains any benefit for partial disability, unless such benefit for partial disability is payable for at least three (3) months. The provisions of this paragraph shall apply separately to accident benefits and to sickness benefits.

(4) If it contains provision whereby the discontinuance of the in force status of the policy after the occurrence while such policy was in force of an accident, or after the commencement while such policy was in force of total disability from sickness, will terminate or reduce such liability as the insurer would otherwise have under the other terms of the policy, including its other limitations, conditions, reductions, exceptions and restrictions, for losses resulting from such accident, or accruing during continuance of such disability.

(5) If by any caption, label, title or description of contents the policy states, implies, or infers without reasonable qualification that it provides loss of time indemnity for lifetime, or for any period of more than two years, if such loss of time, indemnity is made payable only when house confined or only under special contingencies not applicable to other total loss of time indemnity.

(6) If it contains any benefit for total confining disability payable only upon condition that the confinement be of an abnormally restricted nature unless the caption of the part containing any such benefit is accurately descriptive of the nature of the confinement required and unless if the policy have a description of contents, label, or title at least one of them contain reference to such nature of the confinement required.

(i) Sound underwriting;

(ii) Amount of benefit, length of time of benefit, nature or extent of benefit, or any combination of such factors;

(iii) General cost of living; and

(iv) Whether to be issued upon an industrial or other basis; provided, however, that to constitute insurance of real economic value, it shall not be necessary that any disability policy cover the full amount of any loss which might be suffered by reason of the occurrence of any hazard or event insured against.)

(8) If it contains provision which has the effect, other than at the election of the insured, of substituting, upon the occurrence of any dismemberment, some specified indemnity for any or all other benefits of the policy, unless the least indemnity so specified is equal to, or greater than, the total of the benefit or benefits for which such specified indemnity is substituted which, assuming in all cases that the insured would continue to live, could possibly accrue in the natural course of events under the other terms of the policy from the occurrence causing the dismemberment, or, when the policy provides lifetime loss of time benefit for which such specified indemnity is substituted, the least indemnity so specified is equal to, or greater than fifty (50) times the greatest loss of time benefit payable under any circumstances in any one month under any provision of the policy; or which limits to less than ninety (90) days the period of time within which the insured must exercise the right to such election if any is granted him; or which, if such policy is submitted for approval on or after July 1, 1954, has the effect, other than at the election of the insured, of substituting, upon the occurrence of any dismemberment, some specified indemnity for any or all other benefits of the policy.

(9) If it contains provision, other than as provided in Section 10370, reducing any original benefit more than fifty percent (50%) on account of age of the insured.

(10) If the insuring clause or clauses contain no reference to the exceptions, limitations and reductions (if any) or no specific reference to, or brief statement of, each abnormally restrictive exception, limitation or reduction.

(11) If it contain benefits payable only for loss from specified diseases unless the diseases so specified are so similar in nature as to be capable of accurate description by some commonly known generic term.

(12) If it does not contain provision for a grace period of at least the number of days specified below for the payment of each premium falling due after the first premium, during which grace period the policy shall continue in force; provided that the grace period to be included in the policy shall be not less than seven (7) days for policies providing for weekly payment of premium, not less than ten (10) days for policies providing for monthly or quarterly payment of premium and not less than thirty-one (31) days for all other policies.

(13) If it fail to conform in any respect with any law of this State.

(c) The commissioner may, from time to time as conditions warrant, after notice and hearing, promulgate such reasonable rules and regulations, and amendments and additions thereto, as are necessary or convenient, to establish, in advance of the submission of policies, the criteria conforming to the provisions of subdivision (b) of this section, by which particular policies will be approved or disapproved by him.

There is hereby established a committee to consist of five members to be appointed by the commissioner from persons actively engaged in the insurance business and who have had experience of such a nature as to make them familiar with the purposes and practices of corporations engaged in the disability insurance business. Such members shall be appointed and serve without compensation or expense reimbursement for terms of three years and until their successors have been appointed. The commissioner shall by appointment fill any vacancy that may occur in such committee. Meetings of the committee shall be held on the call of the commissioner or any two members. (d) The commissioner may withdraw approval of filing of any policy or other document or matter required to be approved by him, or filed with him, by the provisions of this chapter when he would be authorized to disapprove or refuse filing of the same if originally submitted at the time of such action of withdrawal.

Any such withdrawal shall be in writing and shall specify reasons. An insurer adversely affected by any such withdrawal may, within a period of thirty (30) days following mailing or delivery of the writing containing such withdrawal, by written request secure a hearing to determine whether such withdrawal should be annulled, modified or confirmed. Unless, at any time, it be mutually agreed to the contrary, hearing shall be granted and commenced within a period of thirty (30) days following filing of the request and shall proceed with reasonable dispatch to determination. Unless the commissioner in writing in such withdrawal, or subsequent thereto, grants an extension, any such withdrawal shall, in the absence of any such request, be effective, prospectively and not retroactively, on the ninety-first (91st) day following the mailing or delivery of such withdrawal, and, if request for such hearing be filed, on the ninety-first (91st) day following mailing or delivery of written notice of the commissioner's determination.

(e) No proceeding under this section shall be subject to the provisions of Chapter 5 of Part 1 of Division 3 of Title 2 of the Government Code.

(f) Except as provided in subdivision (i) of this section, any action taken by the commissioner under this section shall be subject to review by the courts of this State and proceedings on review shall be in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, petition for any such review may be filed within twenty (20) days after written notice of and a copy of the action of the commissioner is mailed or delivered to the person adversely affected. No action of the commissioner shall become effective until the expiration of said twenty (20) days and any action so submitted for review shall not become effective for a further period of fifteen (15) days after the filing of the petition in court. The court may stay the effectiveness thereof for a longer period.

(g) This section shall be liberally construed to effectuate the purpose and intentions herein stated; but shall not be construed to grant the commissioner power to fix rates for disability insurance or prescribe a standard form of disability policy.

(h) This section shall be effective on and after July 1, 1950, as to all policies thereafter submitted and on and after January 1, 1951, as to any policy thereafter issued or delivered in this State irrespective of when its form may have been submitted or approved, and prior to such dates the provisions of law in effect on January 1, 1949, shall apply to such policies.

(i) Any such policy issued by an insurer to an insured on a form approved by the commissioner, and in accordance with the conditions, if any, contained in the approval, at a time when such approval is outstanding shall, as between the insurer and the insured, or any person claiming under the policy, be conclusively presumed to comply with and conform to the provisions of this section.

Recommendation of the Governor

In accordance with Article IV, Section 34, of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the passage of Assembly Bill No. 3107:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, MARCH 29, 1949

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate

GENTLEMEN:

Assembly Bill No. 3107, "An act authorizing the Director of Finance to acquire real property in the City of Long Beach, declaring the urgency thereof, to take effect immediately," in my opinion constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the Budget Bill.

This bill permits money already appropriated to be expended for a new purpose. It permits the Director of Finance, with the approval of the Adjutant General, to acquire real property in the City of Long Beach for the use of the Adjutant General and the National Guard. It is necessary that this property be acquired at once in order to secure the benefit of a federal contribution for the construction of a stores depot in the City of Long Beach.

I therefore recommend consideration of Assembly Bill No. 3107 as an emergency measure.

Respectfully submitted,

EARL WARREN, Governor

MOTION TO PRINT OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Senator Hatfield moved that the following opinion of the Legislative Counsel, regarding Farm Labor Camps, be printed in the Journal.

Motion carried.

OPINION OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, April 12, 1949

Hon. George J. Hatfield

Senate Chamber

Farm Labor Camps—No. 5680

DEAR SENATOR HATFIELD: You have asked us the following questions in regard to housing authorities and farm labor camps.

1. Can a county housing authority acquire and operate federal farm labor camps?

2. Can a county housing authority lease these camps to farm groups?

3. If there is a county housing authority in existence, can a separate county housing authority be formed in the same county to provide for such camps?

4. Does the law now provide that a county housing authority may be financed by the issue of debentures to farmers to pay for farm labor camps?

We understand your questions to be based upon the following background.

Public Law 298 of the Laws of the Eightieth Congress, First Session (1947) enables the Secretary of Agriculture to dispose of farm labor camps and facilities to any public or semipublic agency or nonprofit association of farmers who will agree to operate and maintain such facilities for the principal purpose of housing migratory agricultural laborers. The act allows such disposition to be made until June 30, 1949.

A housing authority of a city or county would seem to be a public or semipublic agency within the meaning of this act. Therefore, as far as the federal act is concerned, these farm labor camps could be disposed of to such housing authorities.

1. It is our opinion that a county housing authority may acquire and operate federal farm labor camps.

The Housing Authorities Law (1938 (1st Ex. Sess.): 4:9) was enacted principally to make the benefits of the United States Housing Act of 1937 (42 U.S.C.A. secs. 1401-1430) available to this State, Housing Authority of the County of Los Angeles v. Dockweiler (1939), 14 Cal. 2d 437. The federal act set up a plan of slum clearance and erection of low-rent dwellings in their place.

The Housing Authorities Law, however, is not by its terms limited to housing projects undertaken pursuant to the Federal Housing Act.

The answer to the question asked involves a construction of the word "housing project." Section 8 of the Housing Authorities Law provides an authority shall have power

"* * * (b) within its area of operation: to prepare, carry out, acquire, lease and operate housing projects: * * *." (Emphasis added.)

Section 21 provides:

"In addition to the powers conferred upon an authority by other provisions of this act, an authority is empowered to borrow money or accept grants or other financial assistance from the Federal Government for or in aid of any housing project within its area of operation, to take over or lease or manage any housing project or undertaking constructed or owned by the Federal Government, and to these ends, to comply with such conditions and enter into such mortgages, trust indentures, leases or agreements as may be necessary, convenient or desirable. It is the purpose and intent of this act to authorize every authority to do any and all things necessary or desirable to secure the financial aid or cooperation of the Federal Government in the undertaking, construction, maintenance or operation of any housing project by such authority." (Emphasis added.)

Thus, if a farm labor camp is a "housing project" within the meaning of the act, housing authorities are given the power to acquire them.

Section 3 of the act defines a housing project as:

"(1) 'Housing project' shall mean any work or undertaking to be financed in whole or in part by the Federal Government or to which the Federal Government extends assistance by supplying all or part of the labor, by guaranteeing the payment of liens, or otherwise: * * *. (2) to provide decent, safe and sanitary urban or rural dwellings, apartments or other living accommodations for persons of low income * * *." (Emphasis added.)

If read literally, this definition could be interpreted to mean that housing authorities may only engage in undertakings as to which federal financing will be available. This is not strictly true as to farm labor camps. Under the federal act the Secretary of Agriculture is to dispose of the camps, not finance their acquisition by other agencies.

We do not believe, however, such a literal interpretation would be adopted by the courts. It is our opinion when Section 21 of the act gives housing authorities additional powers to "take over * * * any housing project or undertaking constructed or owned by the Federal Government" this grant includes the power to take over a farm labor camp constructed by the Federal Government. Such a camp would seem to be a housing undertaking even if it may not be a housing project as defined by the act.

This could be clarified by an amendment to the act specifically giving to these authorities the power to acquire farm labor camps from the Federal Government.

2. It is our opinion that under the Housing Authority Law a housing authority could lease a farm labor camp to a farm group for operation by that group.

Subdivision (d) of Section 8 provides that an authority has power "to sell, lease, exchange, transfer, assign, pledge, or dispose of an real or personal property or any interest therein."

3. It is our opinion that if a county housing authority has been activated and is in existence, a separate county authority could not be formed in the same county to provide for farm labor camps.

Section 4 creates in each city and in each county "a public body corporate and politic to be known as the 'housing authority' of the city or county * * *." This indicates that there is created, for example, a Housing Authority of the County of Los Angeles, and a Housing Authority of the City of Los Angeles. The section goes on to state that such authority cannot exercise its powers until the governing body of the city or county, as the case may be, declares the need for such an authority to function.

This interpretation is borne out by the definition of the area of operation of a housing authority contained in Section 3:

"* * * (2) in the case of a housing authority of a county, (the the area of operation) shall include all of the county except the area within the territorial boundaries of any city located in said county * * *."

These two sections indicate there is to be only one county authority in each county and one city authority in each city.

There would seem to be no objection, however, to amending this act to provide that a special housing authority within the county could be created for the limited purpose of acquiring and operating these farm labor camps.

4. It is our opinion that under the Housing Authorities Law, a housing authority could not issue its bonds to farmers only.

Section 14 provides that an authority shall have power to issue bonds for any of its corporate purposes.

Section 15 provides that the bonds shall be sold at not less than par at public sale. The public sale provision would prohibit a private sale to farmers only.

This section could be amended, however, to provide that in the case of an issue designed to finance a farm labor camp, such issue could be limited to the farmers in the area.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel

But said lands so excluded shall not be held answerable or chargeable for any obligation or indebtedness of any nature or kind whatever, incurred after Section 1.1 hereof shall have become effective, and said excluded lands shall not be subject to any lien of any assessment for the payment of any such obligation or indebtedness.

This amount, together with available moneys on hand, [must be sufficient] shall be deemed to be sufficient to provide the necessary funds to initiate, carry on and complete any of the powers, projects, and purposes for which this district is organized, and which the board of directors shall deem advisable to be initiated or authorized for the current fiscal year; to pay the estimated cost of maintenance, operation and repairs of works and projects of the district, the incidental expenses of the district, and the estimated amount necessary for the payment of the costs of any action or proceeding which may be taken or assumed by the district, including the cost of employment of attorneys and engineers; and if bonds have been voted by the district, said estimate shall include an amount sufficient to raise the interest and principal on the outstanding bonds accruing during the current fiscal year and to provide for a sinking fund from which to pay the principal of said bonds when due; and if said district shall have voted a special assessment as provided in Section 35 hereof, said estimate shall also include the amount of any installment of said special assessment, to be levied during said year [...]; and if the district shall have entered into a contract with a metropolitan water district organized under the Metropolitan Water District Act of this State, for the purchase of water from such metropolitan water district, said estimate shall include an amount which shall be:

(1) Sufficient to meet all the payments required to be made during said fiscal year to the vendor metropolitan water district by the vendee district; and

(2) Sufficient to meet all other outlays and disbursements of said vendee district required during said year in the performance of such contract.

Provided, however, that if at the time of making said estimates the district shall not have voted a special assessment as provided in Section 35 hereof, and said district shall not have voted bonds as in this act provided, and said district shall not have entered into a contract for the purchase of water from such metropolitan water district, then [the amount of the assessment levied during any year for the raising of funds shall not exceed five cents for each one hundred dollars, or fraction thereof, of assessed valuation of assessable property in the district, according to the last assessment rolls of said Orange County; provided, further, that after the expiration of five (5) years next succeeding the date when this act becomes effective]:

(1) The amount of [said] the assessment levied during any year shall not exceed two cents ($0.02) for each one hundred dollars ($100), or fraction thereof, of assessable property in said district, according to the last assessment rolls of Orange County, unless at the time of the levy of each annual assessment as provided for in this act at least six members of the then board of directors of the district vote in favor of the levy of an assessment not exceeding five cents ($0.05) for each one hundred dollars ($100), or fraction thereof, of assessed valuation of assessable property in the district according to the last assessment rolls of [said] Orange County; [provided further,]

(2) If, in the opinion of the directors of the district, conditions shall arise during any year or years [prior to the expiration of five years next succeeding the date when this act shall become effective,] that shall necessitate the levying of an assessment exceeding the [levy of five cents] respective amounts of the levies last hereinbefore provided for, then upon the affirmative vote of at least six [of the] members of the then board of directors of the district, the district and its board of directors may levy [in the manner in this act provided for,] an assessment [exceeding five cents but not exceeding ten] which shall not exceed fifteen cents ($0.15) for each one hundred dollars ($100), or fraction thereof, of assessed valuation of assessable property in the district, according to the last assessment rolls of said Orange County.

SEC. 7. Section 41 of said act is amended to read:

Sec. 41. The board of directors or other officers of the district shall have no power to incur any debt or liability whatever, either by issuing bonds or otherwise, in excess of the express provisions of this act; and any debt or liability incurred in excess of such express provisions shall be and remain absolutely void [except that for any of the purposes of this act, the board of directors may, before the levying of the first assessment, incur indebtedness in such sum or sums as shall not exceed an amount equal to five cents for each one hundred dollars or fraction thereof of the assessed valuation of property in the district, and may cause warrants of the district to be issued therefor, bearing interest at not more than seven per centum per annum, said rate to be fixed by the board of directors. Each such warrant shall be made payable on a date not later than the first day of January, next after the warrant is issued, and if not paid when presented on the due date or thereafter shall be registered and the amount due thereon shall draw interest as provided in section 42 of this act.]

Nothing contained in this section shall be construed as limiting the right of the board to enter into any contract or lease for any lands, waters, water rights or other property as elsewhere in this act authorized and by said lease or contract to bind the district for the payment of the consideration specified in said lease or contract, but, except as hereinafter provided, if the smallest payment to be made under said lease or contract in any year exceeds an amount equal to one cent for each one hundred dollars or fraction thereof of the assessed valuation of property in the district assessable by said district, said lease or contract shall not be valid unless an assessment or assessments sufficient to meet all the payments to become due under said lease or contract shall have been or shall be authorized for that purpose by the qualified voters of said district in accordance with the provisions of this act [-]; provided, that this limitation shall not apply to any contract or lease for the supplying of water to the district by a metropolitan water district organized under the Metropolitan Water District Act of this State, and, notwithstanding any other provision of this act, the board may enter into such contract or lease and thereby bind the district forthwith according to the terms and provisions of said contract or lease, and the provisions of Section 21 and Section 22 of this act shall not apply."

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Breed:

Senate Resolution No. 85

Commemorating the rebuilding and growth of San Francisco

WHEREAS, Forty-three years have flown since that April 18, 1906, when the people of San Francisco awakened just before dawn to find their beloved city rocked by a catastrophe during the four days which followed, ravaged by fire and dynamite, until it seemed only ash and ruin remained; and

WHEREAS, Yesterday, on Easter Sunday, one day before the forty-third anniversary of that disaster, thousands of San Franciscans and visitors to the city, gathered for sunrise services on Mt. Davidson, could see the rebuilt city reaching beyond sight of eye on all sides, greater and more beautiful than any could have dreamed on that morning of devastation; and

WHEREAS, With great courage and faith the rebuilding of the city began at once and through the 43 years since it has remained the greatest port and queen city of the Pacific Coast, through which poured the vast flow of men and material to bring victory in the Pacific, and has retained the same golden spirit of adventure and joy of life which characterized its earlier days, has been the site of the magnificent Panama Pacific Exposition of 1915 and the World's Fair of 1939 and 1940 commemorating completion of the Golden Gate and the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridges, and is honored as the birthplace of the United Nations; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That the Members of this Senate congratulate the people of the City and County of San Francisco upon the rebuilding of their city and express the pride of all Californians in the magnificent and world famous city by the Golden Gate, for 100 years mecca of argonaut and artisan, built by the sinews of commerce and industry and crowned by the arts, one of the truly great cities of the world.

Resolution read, and on the motion of Senator Breed, adopted.

Letter of Transmittal

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS
SACRAMENTO, April 15, 1949

*Mr. Joseph A. Beek, Secretary
The State Senate, State Capitol
Sacramento, California*

DEAR MR. BEEK: Pursuant to the provisions of Senate Resolution No. 77, I transmit herewith report regarding expenditures by counties of money appropriated by Chapter 565, Statutes of 1943.

Said chapter appropriated $1,500,000 for the preparation of surveys, plans and specifications for postwar county highway construction projects. The act provided for the apportionment of the money to the various counties of the State. It also provided that the board of supervisors of each county submit a budget of proposed postwar construction projects on county highways to the department for approval, showing the estimated expenditure of such funds recommended to be made. Further, that the department delegate the expenditure of the money allocated to any county to such county if the department is satisfied that such county is equipped to conduct the particular work to be delegated in an efficient and economic manner and that the department shall pay to each county to which an expenditure has been delegated the amount of such proposed expenditure as soon as the budget for said county has been approved. It also provided that each county to which any expenditure was delegated file with the department, at the close of the fiscal year in which any expenditures were made, a report showing all expenditures made in such detail as the department may require.

The attached report contains a tabulation of the counties showing the amount of funds apportioned to each county, the amount paid to each county, the expenditures reported by each county and expenditures made by the State, the balance unexpended in each county, and the amount of money which has reverted to the State General Fund. This tabulation is as of June 30, 1948, the date of the last annual report of expenditures by the counties. Where no report was received from a county for the Fiscal Year 1948, the information contained in the last report filed by that county is shown. In several instances, no reports have been submitted or the county has reported that no expenditures were made. Attached also is a copy of all budgets submitted by counties showing a brief summary of projects included in such budgets, and a copy of the latest report filed by each county showing expenditures made of such moneys.

An examination of the reports of expenditures made by the counties indicates that except in two cases, the money was properly expended for approved projects in accordance with the requirements of the act. The exceptions are: Merced County which reported an expenditure of $824.31 for a project that was not included in the approved budget. That is the only expenditure reported by Merced County. Yuba County reported an expenditure of $500 for a project that was not included in the approved budget. This item appears to be a clerical error as an extract of the minutes shows the payment to be made from Road District No. 2 funds.

The form prepared by the department for reporting expenditures contemplated that the total expenditure for each project be reported each year so the latest annual report will include all expenditures previously made on that project. In general, this procedure has been followed by the counties. Since the last report filed by a county contains all the expenditures to the date of that report only a copy of the last report is included herewith since to include prior reports would merely be a duplication of partial information. Where such procedure was not followed by a county, copies of all reports required to show the total expenditure by the county are included.

It will be noted that after a lapse of almost five years, there remains $585,237.57 unexpended, or 39 percent of the amount appropriated.

Yours very truly,

C. H. PURCELL, Director of Public Works

Letter of Transmittal ordered printed in the Journal and report ordered filed with the Secretary of the Senate.

MOTION TO PRINT OPINION OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

Senator Tenney moved that the following opinion by the Legislative Counsel relative to the constitutionality of Senate Bill No. 132 be printed in the Journal.

Motion carried.

Opinion of the Legislative Counsel

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, April 20, 1949

Hon. Jack B. Tenney
Senate Chamber

Constitutionality of Senate Bill No. 132, as amended April 11, 1949—No. 6097

DEAR SENATOR TENNEY: Senate Bill No. 132, as amended in Senate April 11, 1949, provides that a declaration of candidacy by a candidate shall include an oath to the effect that the candidate does not advocate or belong to an organization which advocates or which has as one of its objectives the violent overthrow of the Government of the United States or the State of California.

This amendment to the election laws in our opinion is constitutional.

Under Article II, Section 2½, of the Constitution of the State of California, the Legislature "shall have the power to enact laws relative to the election of delegates to conventions of political parties; and shall enact laws providing for direct nomination of candidates for public office, * * *"

In Henry V. Jordan (179 Cal. 24) the court stated: "Under Article II, Section 2½ of the Constitution, the Legislature has the right to prescribe tests and conditions for candidates as well as electors."

Thus the Legislature would seem to have the power to enact laws governing the candidacy for office as long as those laws have a rational basis. In Community Party v. Peck (20 Cal. 2d 536, 551) the court in determining that certain laws enacted by the Legislature affecting the election laws were constitutional, stated:

"This power [the Legislature's power to prescribe tests and conditions for participation in primary elections] certainly includes the right to adopt tests designed to exclude those political parties advocating the overthrow of the government by unlawful means or those parties carrying on a program of sabotage, force and violence, sedition or treason. Such groups constitute an immediate threat to the functioning of our institutions, including the continued exercise of the right of suffrage. Since it is within the power of the State as to such groups to restrict even the rights of free speech and free press. * * * (citing cases) * * * it clearly was within the reasonable bounds of the Legislature's power to determine that these bodies should also be barred from the primary election ballot. Under such circumstances we have no doubt that the Legislature's power to exclude parties and individuals from participation in a primary election extends to those groups whose political beliefs create a clear danger to the continued existence of the institutions under which our constitutional form of government functions." (Italics ours.)

In Barsky v. United States (167 Fed. 2d 241, page 246), the court stated:

"This existing machinery of government has the power to inquire into potential threats to itself * * * for the basic reason that having been established by the people as an instrumentality for the protection of the rights of the people it has an obligation to its creators to preserve itself * * *"

In view of the above cases this bill, as amended, would seem constitutional as it seems to be clearly within the powers of the Legislature to protect the government of this State and of the United States by preventing those persons who can not swear that they do not advocate the violent overthrow of the government or are not pledged to support foreign governments in event of hostilities with the United States or are not members of an organization which so advocates, from becoming candidates for public office.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel
By HARRY J. ENGLEBRIGHT, Deputy

Copy to authors of S.B. 132 pursuant to Joint Rule 34.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Senator Dillinger asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to have the following explanation of his vote on Senate Bill No. 132 printed in the Journal:

Explanation of Vote on Senate Bill No. 132, by Senator Dillinger

I am not a Communist sympathizer and never was. If this bill would retard Communism in any degree, I would be for it, but it does not. In fact, it aids Communism in two important particulars.

It requires a candidate to swear that he is not affiliated with any party that advocates overthrow of our Government "by force and violence". A Communist could sign such an affidavit with impunity, because the Communist Party claims that they do not advocate "force and violence". Any one who does, of course, could be sent to prison under our present laws. Whether they do so advocate force and violence is another matter. Or he could say "I was a Communist until yesterday, but have now left the party" as one may leave the Democratic or Republican Party at any time. In his heart he may still be a Communist, but we cannot put a stethoscope to his head and check his thoughts. He could later return to the party, as any one may return to any party.

The really serious aspect is that it really aids the Communists by giving them a great deal of publicity and by enabling them to pose as persecuted, both of great aid and value to them.

A question of constitutionality was raised and a motion to wait for an opinion from the Legislative Counsel was lost by only four votes. For the reasons given, I voted against the bill.

SENATOR DILLINGER

MOTION TO PRINT REMARKS BY SENATOR KRAFT IN THE JOURNAL

Senator Ward moved that the remarks by Senator Kraft in presenting Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 47 be printed in the Journal.

Motion carried.

Remarks by Senator Kraft

Mr. President and Members of the Senate:

Those of you who are my seniors in this Senate need no introduction to the California mother who is honored by this resolution. You know and love, as I do, Mary Fletcher, the wife of my predecessor, Senator Ed Fletcher.

To you who haven't had the opportunity to know her, may I say that my resolution is inadequate, because words can't accurately portray what she is. A fascinating young woman, mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother, whose wisdom and understanding she gives so generously to all who know her. I myself have had occasion to seek her advice, and I have found it often pungent and witty, but always true, sound, and reliable.

In a day when we are told by some social prophets that the American family is disappearing, and that soon the home will no longer give the child moral guidance, spiritual inspiration, and character education, Mary Fletcher's is the life which proves the untruth of this belief. She has demonstrated in her life that motherhood isn't something we just talk about: It is a way of life, of help, understanding, guidance, and determination to achieve. She has never lived in an ivory tower of protection, but in a world that has in her lifetime seen strife, and horror, and much grief. She has seen and experienced these things, and still she loves life and humanity. She has been a wife and mother in the fullest and deepest sense of those words.

She has born and raised to adulthood ten splendid children who are active contributing citizens of this State. There, if any is needed, is proof that she has done very well indeed.

She has 36 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. She has created a rich and rewarding life in her home and has found time to take a most active part in the civic and philanthropic life of our community.

As this resolution states, and as I am sure you all know, each year before Mother's Day, the Golden Rule Foundation selects from among the 48 nominees, one for each state, the American Mother of the Year, and the honors paid to her represent the honor and respect we pay to all mothers. This resolution asks the Golden Rule Foundation to extend the honor this year to our State and our California Mother of the Year, Mrs. Ed Fletcher of San Diego.

I believe that her outstanding achievements as mother, wife, and citizen amply justify her selection for this honor.

"SECTION 1. Section 16305 of the Government Code is amended to read:

16305. The purpose of this legislation is hereby declared to be the establishment of a centralized State Treasury System under which state moneys will be adequately protected, and at the same time will be controlled and invested in such a way as to realize the maximum return consistent with safe and prudent treasury management. This legislation visualizes that the State Controller will be responsible for maintaining the segregated accounts of the moneys of state agencies which are deposited with the Treasurer in trust, and that the State Treasurer will not maintain records which in their detail duplicate the accounting records maintained by the Controller for these moneys.

SEC. 2. Section 16305.1 is added to said code, to read:

16305.1. It is anticipated that as a result of this legislation state agencies will no longer need to maintain large sums of money in agency bank accounts, and that future agency bank accounts permitted by the Director of Finance will contain only amounts of money necessary for day-to-day petty cash needs.

SEC. 3. Section 16305.2 is added to said code, to read:

16305.2. All money in the possession of or collected by any state agency or department is subject to the provisions of Sections 16305.3 to 16305.7, inclusive, and is hereafter referred to as state money.

SEC. 4. Section 16305.3 is added to said code, to read:

16305.3. All state money shall be deposited in trust in the custody of the Treasurer, except when otherwise authorized by the Director of Finance, or unless deposited directly in the State Treasury. All state money deposited in trust in the custody of the Treasurer shall be held in a trust account or accounts and may be withdrawn only upon the order of the depositing agency or its disbursing officer. The provisions of Sections 16305.3 to 16305.7, inclusive, shall not be construed to repeal or amend any provision of law now requiring officers or employees to make daily, weekly or monthly settlements with the Treasurer. All such money held by the State Treasurer in trust shall be subject to audit by the Department of Finance and shall also be subject to cash count, as provided in Sections 13297, 13298, and 13299 of this code.

SEC. 5. Section 16305.4 is added to said code, to read:

16305.4. The Director of Finance shall establish any system which may be necessary or convenient in the handling of trust accounts of the state agencies and in establishing the system to be followed in receiving, holding and disbursing such money. The system established by the Director of Finance shall in general provide that the Controller is responsible for maintaining accounts to record the Treasurer's accountability, and shall maintain the separate account for each trust deposit.

SEC. 6. Section 16305.5 is added to said code, to read:

16305.5. Money in Treasury trust accounts may be deposited by the State Treasurer in banks, as provided in Chapter 4 of Part 2 of Division 4 of Title 2 of this code, to the same extent as if the money in trust accounts were money in the State

Treasury, or it may be invested and reinvested by the State Treasurer in bonds or other obligations of the United States or for which the full faith and credit of the United States are pledged, having maturity dates of not more than one year from the date of such investment, or redeemable by the United States Treasury at the owner's option at fixed redemption value within one year from the date of such investment.

SEC. 7. Section 16305.6 is added to said code, to read:

16305.6. The Treasurer, Controller and Director of Finance shall, at such times as they deem necessary, determine whether any portion of the money in the custody of the Treasurer is not necessary for immediate use, and if so they shall determine the excess amount, which shall thereupon be designated as money available for investment. The Treasurer, Controller and Director of Finance shall, at such times as they deem necessary, determine whether any portion of the money previously designated as available for investment, or already invested, is needed for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of Sections 16305.3 to 16305.7, inclusive. Thereupon they shall reduce the amount of money declared available for investment, or money already invested, by the amount determined to be needed, and the Treasurer is authorized to realize this amount.

SEC. 8. Section 16305.7 is added to said code, to read:

16305.7. Any increment collected as the result of investment of state money shall be collected by the State Treasurer and reported by him to the State Controller for credit to the General Fund in the State Treasury.

SEC. 9. Section 16305.8 is added to said code, to read:

16305.8. Nothing in Sections 16305.3 to 16305.7, inclusive, shall apply to money drawn or collected by the Regents of the University of California.

SEC. 10. The provisions of this act shall become effective 90 days after adjournment of the 1949 Regular Session of the Legislature. However, so as to provide sufficient time for application of proper administrative procedures, they shall become totally operative at the discretion of the State Treasurer, and State Controller, and the Director of Finance, on or before July 1, 1950.

SEC. 11. There is hereby appropriated out of any money in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of eighty thousand dollars ($80,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary to be expended during the 1949-50 Fiscal Year, of which amount fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) shall be available for expenditure by the State Controller for the purpose of administration of his duties under this section; and the sum of thirty thousand dollars ($30,000) shall be available for expenditure by the State Treasurer for the purpose of administration of his duties under the provisions of this section."

3899. Whenever any joint elementary school district came into existence prior to the passage of Chapter 311 of the Statutes of 1909 and its boundaries have been treated as being partially in one county and partially in another county, and each county and the respective high school districts thereof have only assessed the territory within the respective counties and high school districts for the purpose of school taxes, the district shall hold an election in a manner similar to elections provided for by Section 3896. If a high school district, which has included a portion of the joint elementary school district lying within the high school district boundaries, holds a bond election at which election bonds are voted as required by law, such bonds shall not be a lien upon the territory included if the joint elementary school district election determines that the joint elementary school district shall be wholly included within the territory of the other high school district; even though such election is held after the bond election, if such election is held within sixty days after the effective date of this section.

SEC. 5. This act is an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety within the meaning of Article IV of the Constitution and shall go into immediate effect. The facts constituting such necessity are:

Certain elementary school districts have existed for many years partially in one county and partially in another. The status of these districts in relation to adjoining county high school districts is uncertain. The need for additional high school facilities demands that bonds be issued and new facilities erected by the high school districts at the earliest possible opportunity. In order to determine the validity of such bonds and to settle all questions as to the liability of the elementary school districts for the bonds, it is necessary that the boundaries of such districts be determined as speedily as possible and it is therefore necessary that this act take immediate effect."

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Senator Kraft asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to have the following statement regarding Assembly Bill No. 1687 printed in the Journal:

Statement by Senator Kraft Regarding Assembly Bill No. 1687

It has come to my attention that my handling of Assembly Bill 1687 has been unfavorably commented on, because of the delay in the enactment of this measure.

I should like to point out that I was requested by several of my colleagues to suspend action on this bill because they believed it required amendment and because they would not vote for it in the form in which it reached the Senate floor. I am convinced that the bill would not have received the approval of the Senate had I not held it on file, pending the drafting of the amendments requested by my colleagues.

I took this action because I believe this legislation to be important and because I was anxious to do everything possible to secure Senate approval.

SENATOR KRAFT

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Senator Desmond asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to have the following statement concerning Assembly Bill No. 1687 printed in the Journal:

Statement Concerning Assembly Bill No. 1687

As Assembly Bill 1687 was reported out of the Public Health and Safety Committee it was not acceptable to many Members of the Senate, who felt that the bill in such form failed to cover the situation upon which the bill was designed to correct, and presented numerous legal difficulties that would make the law difficult to enforce.

For these reasons many of us felt that the bill should be amended and amendments were not prepared and adopted until April 26th. We feel that this bill was not unduly delayed by any action of the Senate or of Senator Kraft, and that as finally presented to the Senate the bill is in much better language than when it came out of committee, and that the delay in amendments was in the interest of good legislation.

Senator Keating rose to a point of order that there is nothing before the Senate as Assembly Bill No. 1687 has been set for Special Order of Business for tomorrow.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Senator Tenney asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to have the following Opinions by the Legislative Counsel regarding the constitutionality of Senate Bills Nos. 280 and 515 printed in the Journal :

Opinion of Legislative Counsel

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, April 20, 1949

Hon. Jack B. Tenney
Senate Chamber

Constitutionality of Senate Bill 280, as Amended April 14, 1949—No. 5769

DEAR SENATOR TENNEY: Senate Bill 280 adds to the Government Code provision for an affidavit to be sworn to by state and political subdivision employees. It provides that compensation shall not be paid these employees if they fail to file an affidavit within ninety days of the effective date of this act.

The affidavit will state whether or not the employee advocates or is a member of an organization which advocates the overthrow of the United States or State Governments by unlawful means, or advocates the support of a foreign government in event of hostilities with the United States.

This act as amended would seem constitutional.

The government of the State in hiring a person due to the varied circumstances of that employment has the power to restrict some of the employee's personal liberties. If the employee does not wish to have these liberties suspended, he may refuse service in the government. Mr. Justice Holmes in McAuliffe v. Mayor, etc., of City of New Bedford, 155 Mass. 216, stated:

"The petitioner may have a constitutional right to talk politics, but he has no constitutional right to be a policeman. There are few employments for hire in which the servant does not agree to suspend his constitutional rights of free speech as well as of idleness by the implied terms of his contract." (Italics ours.)

In United States v. Bryan (72 Fed. Sub. 58, 63), in speaking of the power of Congress over the employees of the government, the court stated:

"The first amendment does not, for example, preclude Congress from excluding obscene matter from the mails * * * it does not preclude the Congress from punishing persons who advocate the overthrow of government by force. It does not bar the Congress from limiting certain activities of government employees although similar activities are within the rights of all other citizens."

It seems clear that as the Legislature and the government, to protect itself from harboring persons who are a danger to the government, would have the right to investigate in order to ferret out such persons.

In Barsky v. the United States (167 Fed. 2d 241, page 246), the court stated:

"This existing machinery of government has the power to inquire into potential threats to itself, not alone for the selfish reason of self-protection, but for the basic reason that having been established by the people as an instrumentality for the protection of the rights of the people it has an obligation to its creators to preserve itself. * * * We think that inquiry into threats to the existing form of government by extra-Constitutional processes of change is a power of Congress under its prime obligation to protect for the people that machinery of which it is part. * * *"

In United States v. Marzani (71 Fed. Sub. 615, 620), "one of the authorized functions of governmental departments and agencies, particularly in time of war, is to see that their employees are loyal toward the democratic form of government and to no other." (Italics ours)

In Steiner v. Darby, 88 A. C. A. 487, 496, the court stated, in connection with a loyalty affidavit analogous to the affidavit required in this bill, and which they held constitutional:

"The plaintiffs, as public servants, have the implied duty to support the form of government lawfully chosen by the people whom they are employed to represent, and that they impliedly agreed, when they accepted public employment, to act as representatives of the people and not to advocate destruction of the government by force or violence. By accepting public employment they forego any privilege they may have had as private citizens to advocate the overthrow of the government by force and violence. It is inconceivable that they should be permitted to represent the people, be supported by the people, and at the same time have the privilege of advocating the overthrow of the very government by which they are employed and obtain their livelihood. If they cannot subscribe to the prescribed affidavit they may join those who serve themselves in the ranks of private employment."

In the light of the last cited cases, it appears clear that the Legislature has the power to adopt methods of inquiry into whether or not the employees not only advocate violent overthrow of the government but also into whether or not such employees are pledged to support other governments in event of hostilities with the United States.

The basic rules of master and servant hold that there is an implied covenant in every contract of employment that an employee will act with reasonable loyalty toward his employer, and it can hardly be said that an employee who is awaiting an occasion to destroy his employer's business has not violated this implied covenant. (Pauell v. Unemployment Compensation Board of Review, Pa., 22 Atl. 2d 42.)

Therefore, in summary, it would seem that the Legislature clearly has the right to provide for dismissal from public employment of any person who is advocating or is a member of an organization which advocates the overthrow of the government by unlawful means, and has the right to investigate to determine whether any public employees so advocate or belong to such organizations.

Opinion of Legislative Counsel

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO 2, CALIFORNIA, April 21, 1949

Hon. Jack B. Tenney
Senate Chamber

Constitutionality of Senate Bill 515, as Amended April 14, 1949—No. 5769

DEAR SENATOR TENNEY: You have asked our opinion as to the constitutionality of Senate Bill 515, as amended April 14, 1949, which declares that nothing in a certain chapter of the Labor Code prohibits an employer who is engaged as a contractor or subcontractor in production, for the United States, of goods, for use in connection with national defense, to discharge an employee who advocates or is a member, secretly or openly, of any organization which advocates the support of a foreign government against the United States in event of hostilities, or advocates or has as his or its objective the overthrow of the Government of the United States or of this State by force and violence or any other unlawful means.

It is our opinion that this bill, as amended, is constitutional.

Basically, in absence of statute or contracts to the contrary, an employer enjoys an absolute power of dismissing his employees without cause. (35 Am. Jur. 462.)

It is the general rule settled in many decisions upholding statutes describing regulations of all kinds pertaining to employment contracts, that the right of contract between employer and employee is a legitimate subject for the exercise of the police power of the State, when the public safety, health, peace, morals, or general welfare demands it. (11 Am. Jur. 1171.)

The Legislature has acted under this power in enacting Section 1101 of the Labor Code. This section affects the basic power of an employer by prohibiting him to forbid or prevent employees from engaging or participating in politics, and prohibits his attempting to control or direct the political activities of his employees.

Senate Bill 515 would except from this section employers engaged in government defense work for the limited purpose of determining whether an employee advocates or belongs to an organization advocating the overthrow of the government by unlawful means and if he so determines, to discharge him.

Section 1101 of the Labor Code was held constitutional in the case of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. v. Superior Court of Los Angeles, 28 Cal. 2d 481, but the court stated in its opinion:

"Whether the statute [1101, Lab. C.] is read alone, or in conjunction with the quoted definitions, there is no intimation or implication of any intent to protect any individual or group advocating the overthrow of the government by force or violence * * * We find nothing in the section which is intended to prevent an employer engaged in producing vital war materials from discharging an employee who advocates the overthrow of our government by force or whose loyalty to the United States has not been established to the satisfaction of the employer." (Italics ours.)

It would seem clear that this is a valid exercise of the police power as the persons affected by this bill have been held to constitute a clear threat to the existing form of Government of the United States and of this State. The California Supreme Court stated in the case of Communist Party v. Peek 20 Cal. 2d 536, 551:

"Such groups [those political parties advocating the overthrow of the government by unlawful means or those parties carrying on a program of sabotage, force, and violence, sedition or treason] constitute an immediate threat to the functioning of our institutions, including the continued exercise of the right of suffrage. * * * it is within the power of the state as to such groups to restrict even the rights of free speech and free press * * *" (citing cases) (italics ours).

In light of the above case, it would seem clear that this bill is constitutional and if enacted, the Legislature would be validly exercising the police power of the State to protect the general welfare of the people.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel
